SLUMP REPORTED IN MOUSE MARKET

Columbia University Finds Prices Have Made Big Increase

New York, March 24.—A big slump in the mouse market is reported from Columbia University where large stocks of the little rodents are held for experimental purposes.

Hosts of mice were required during the war for medical experiments and high prices offered for them by the government stimulated the breeding of these animals.

is disclosed in Dr. Wood's annual report as director of the George Crocker Special Research Fund, made public today. This fund was created to conduct scientific cancer investigations and any mice not used for experiments at Columbia University are shipped to other laboratories.
