

Mrs. Jessie Stevens

revealed in the death of Calvin Amory Stevens, a millionaire, lived in a small district, while his wife and daughter live in a beautiful mansion in Brooklyn. Complications have now resulted over the will, which is making it difficult to settle before his death. His daughter, Katherine, shared with Richard Fagan, a Yale graduate, Dartmouth University student.

was due partly to the belief that the London board possessed better facilities for the handling of such problems.

The president of the London board, Butler Aspinall, a distinguished British authority on admiralty matters, was chosen by the American government and approved by the British authorities. W. Norman Baehrn, a barrister, and Captain Francis C. L. Andrews, of the British navy, and two Americans, Commander Harry L. Bond, acting naval attaché of the American embassy, and Commander Robert K. Wright, a member of the New York and Pennsylvania bars, are the other members of the board.

Gives Away Mansion and Goes to Live in Barn

Hyde, Eng., April 12.—Austin Hopkinson, a member of the House of Commons, has just given to the local governing council of Hyde his mansion valued at £10,000 and 20 other houses and he has gone to live in an old barn on what was once a part of his estate. He has taken this action because he believes that a manifestation of the sort of self-sacrifice on the part of public servants would avert any danger of a revolution in England.

Mr. Hopkinson's other deeds of generosity include the disposal of his furniture to friends and the needy partly by sale at bargain prices and partly by free gift. He gave his four motor automobiles to his chauffeur. The latter has now started in business with it. His former employer, the donor of the machine, is one of his best customers.

To questioners, Mr. Hopkinson has said his intention was to fix the life of a simple workman and to help others as much as possible. In his own workshops, he has introduced a profit sharing system that is without precedent inasmuch as the higher the yield, the less he receives, and after a certain sum is reached, he is to receive nothing at all.

During the war, Hopkinson was an officer. He was discharged as unfit, but regarded as a private.

TRADE MEETING TO GATHER IN LONDON

International Chamber of Commerce to Hold Important Session in July

Paris, April 12.—Arrangements for the London Congress of the International Chamber of Commerce to be held Monday, June 27, have just been made by the board of directors at a meeting here.

Delegates to the congress will be organized in five groups: Walker D. Hines, former United States director general of railroads, will be chairman of the group for transportation and communications; while the chairman of the other four groups will be Dr. Walter Leaf, Great Britain; for commerce; Eugene Schuyler, France; for production; and Louis Roussy, Belgium, for devastated regions.

U. S. CLAIMS WITH ENGLAND SETTLED

Last of Cases Resulting From War-time Collisions to Be Cleared Up Soon

London, April 12.—Within a few weeks the last of the cases resulting from wartime collisions between United States naval vessels and those of the British navy, in the shipping will have been definitely settled, it is said here today.

In October, 1919, the British and American governments agreed to the establishment of joint arbitration boards to administer these cases, one to sit in Washington, the other in London. Cases relating to collisions were carried by the board in Washington, those of this country, to London. From that date on, there was an appeal.

The object of their settlement was the speedy, equitable settlement of disputes without resort to the usual method of arbitration and expertise. Trial battles before admiralty courts.

Settlements in both countries of the United States Chamber of Commerce have been the decisions of the London board that the Washington tribunal. The board has been disbanded and the cases awarded its attention transferred to civil recognized organizations in view of the London board for disposition. This

The Shopping Center

Ready to Really Serve You, with the New Things for Spring!

IN the enthusiastic seeking of "lower prices" which seems to have become so general during recent months, there is danger, we think, of overstepping the bounds of true economy and mistaking the cheap and tawdry for the low-in-price.

This is one reason why you will find a visit to this Store particularly helpful at this time, in fulfilling your plans for the new season.

No unworthy goods may find a place among these stocks, and we think you may safely rely upon our taste and good judgment in selection.

And while everything here is of the same high, dependable quality that has always been characteristic of the MILLER & RHOADS Store, prices are now materially lower.

Today the store is gaily decked out in its Springtime dress, splendidly ready to serve you every need, whether for articles of apparel and personal adornment or for the home.

Come—visit Richmond soon, and "The Shopping Center."
