BY THE PRESIDENT

Of the United States of America, A Proclamation.

WHEREAS by an act of the Congress of the United States passed the twenty-seventh day of February last, entitled "An act further to suspend the commercial intercourse between the United States and France, and the dependencies thereof," it is enacted, That at any time after the passing of the said act, it shall be lawful for the President of the United States, by his order, to remit and discontinue for the time being, whenever he shall deem it expedient and for the interest of the United States, all or any of the restraints and prohibitions imposed by the said act, in respect to the territories of the French Republic, or to any land, port or place belonging to the said Republic, which in his opinion a commercial intercourse may be safely renewed; and to make Proclamation thereof accordingly; and it is also thereby further enacted, That the whole or the island of Hispaniola shall, for the purposes of the said act be considered as a dependence of the French Republic. And whereas the circumstances of certain ports and places of the said island, not comprised in the Proclamation of the President of the United States bearing date the twenty-sixth day of June, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-nine, are such that I deem it expedient, and for the interest of the United States, to remit and discontinue the restraints and prohibitions imposed by the said act, in respect to those ports and places, in order that a commercial intercourse with the same may be renewed.

Therefore, I JOHN ADAMS, President of the United States, by virtue of the powers vested in me as aforesaid, do hereby remit and discontinue the restraints and prohibitions imposed by the act aforesaid, in respect to all the ports and places in the said Island of Hispaniola, from Montchristi on the north, round by the eastern end thereof, as far as the port of Jacmel, on the south, inclusively: And it shall henceforth be lawful for vessels of the United States to enter and trade at any of the said ports and places: Provided it be done with the consent of the Government of St. Domingo: And for this purpose it is hereby required, that such vessels first enter the port of Cape Francois or Port Republic, in the said Island, and there obtain the passports of the said Government, which shall also be signed by the Consul-General or Consul of the United States residing at Cape Francois or Port Republic, in permitting such vessels to go thence to the other parts and places of the said Island herein before mentioned and described. Of all which, the Collectors of the Customs, and all other Officers and Citizens of the United States, are to take due notice, and govern themselves.

GIVEN under my Hand and the Seal of the United States, at Philadelphia, the ninth day of (L.S.) May, in the year of our Lord 1800, and of the Independence of the United States the twenty-fourth.

JOHN ADAMS, President.

TIMOTHY PICKERING, Secretary of State.

RANAWAY on the 27th of Dec. last, in the vicinity of Charleston, my Blacksmith TOM—about 40 years of age, dark complexion, a little pitted with the small pox, has large full eyes, prominent nose and lips, speaks perfect English, but with a tone, about 5 feet 3 or 4 inches high, but is remarkable stout and athletic build, with an unusual thick neck. Tom was formerly the property of Mr. Charles Cogdale of George Town, where he wrought some years with James Shackelford, at the Blacksmith's trade; and was removed from thence to Newbern, N. C. by a person who heired him by legacy from Cogdale, & wrought here at the smith and wheelwright business, until Oct. last, when he was brought away by Major Edward Dudley, of Onslow county, New River.

JAMES is about 30 years of age, is a small black fellow not exceeding 5 feet 1 or 2 inches high, with small eyes, but shows the whites conspicuously, thick lips, speaks good English, but with a cant—he is much scared on his face, neck and hands, by being blown off a tar Kiln—he was brought from N. Carolina by said Dudley at the same time. The above reward will be given for securing them both in goal, or two thirds for Tom, and one for James.

Oh! WASHINGTON! thou hero, patriot, sage! Friend of all climes, and pride of every age! Were mine the laurels, every soil could raise; The mighty harvest were penurious praize. Well may our realms thy Fabian wisdom boast; Thy prudence sav'd, what bravery had lost. Yet ever hadst thou, by Heaven's severer fates, Like Sparta's hero at the Grecian straits, Been doom'd to meet, in arms, a world of foes; Whom skill could not defeat, nor Walls oppose, Then had thy breast, by danger ne'er subdued.

The mighty Buckler of thy country stood; Proud of its wounds, each piercing spear would blest Which left Columbia's foes one javelin left; Nor felt one pang—but, in the glorious deed, Thy little band of heroes too, must bleed; Nor throbd' one fear—but, that some poison'd dart Thy breast might pass, and reach thy Country's heart
