FOURTH OF JULY.

Dudley. The arrangements for the day will be under the direction of Messrs. Mason, Dudley, Davis, Brown, Hall, Cowan and Dorsey.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in New-York, to his correspondent in this town, dated June 15.

"A ship arrived here about two hours ago, in a short passage from Belfast, bringing accounts to the 6th ult. the substance of which is, that the English minister at Paris and the French minister at London, were on their return home, and that the channel fleet had sailed with orders to blockade Brest."

By the schooner Ceres, Capt. West, from Charleston, we have received the following intelligence:

CHARLESTON, June 21. Yesterday arrived the ship John & Frances, Baas, Bourdeaux, 43 days. The ship John and Francis, captain Baas, left Bourdeaux on the 8th May. Nothing had been decided at that time respecting war, but was hourly expected.

On the 10th of June, captain Baas spoke the ship Susanna, capt. Walker, from Glasgow bound to Charleston, being then in lat. 33. and long. 73, she had been then on 80 days.

On the 17th June, capt. Baas fell in with a large plantation canoe, with five runaway negroes in her, being then in the gulf stream, 50 leagues from the land; they had neither water or provisions, some old blankets fastened together for sails, and two oars; they had then been out five days from a plantation called Half-Moon Bluff, near the island of Sapelo, in Georgia; they belong to a Mr. Miles King, of Norfolk, who had sent them in January last from Norfolk to said Half-Moon Bluff plantation to settle, and were endeavouring to return to Norfolk, but had lost their way; their names are Demson, James, Jerry, Elizer and Tom, one a carpenter, two blacksmiths, one cooper, and the other a house servant, the whole about 23 years of age; the canoe they do not know the name of the plantation; she is 33 feet long and 6 feet wide, of cypress, almost new, black bottom and white sides, with a small place aft to put provisions, and staples outside for fixing an awning, the top of her stem made round like the head of a fiddle. Any person wishing for further information, may apply to capt. Baas, at Mr. Florian Charles Mey's, in Charleston.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in Bourdeaux, to his correspondent in this city, dated May 1st, received by capt. Baas.

"It seems the government of Great Britain are much inclined to a war with this country, for reasons they nor no one else know: as hostile as they appear on their side, as much the French nation desire to preserve the peace. It is thought the First Consul having nothing to gain by hostilities, will make some sacrifices to avoid a rupture, which circumstance will strengthen to the peaceable opinion on the contrary, others think that England having nothing to lose, will risk her existence on a war, and if she be really in good earnest, she will not be long in search of a pretext for hostilities. It is certain things are very spally, and God only knows the result, so much are we in the dark.

P. S. Since writing the above, news has been received in town, that the negotiations of Mr. Monroe go on in a fine train; it is now certain that France cedes Louisiana to the United States, on condition that they settle the claims of their citizens against this country, and pay three millions of dollars beside. The channel through which I have had this, can be depended on, and believe it is not generally known."

Extract of another letter from an American gentleman in Bourdeaux, to his friend in this city, dated 5th May.

"We have been waiting all this day to hear the decision of our fate. The answer from Great-Britain was to have reached Bourdeaux this morning by means of private couriers; three arrived before dinner belonging to private persons; in consequence of which, all the sugar and coffee in the city were bought up at high prices. Another courier extra, has arrived this evening, and says that Lord Whitworth has left Paris for England; in short, the cry from every quarter is War, War, War. God only knows how and where it will end. I hope our country will keep out of the scrape. Great levies of conscripts are continually taking place here.— The English have already a large fleet in the channel."

June 24.

Capt. Sweetzer, who arrived yesterday from Philadelphia, informs, that just as he was about to leave the city, an express arrived from New-York; a note placed on the Coffee-House books stated, that it had brought positive accounts of war having been declared by Great Britain against France.

The Pilot who brought capt. Sweetzer out, left the city after him, and confirms this account.

By the schooner Armed Neutrality, we have received papers of the 15th instant; they contain no London dates later than the 2d of May.

The port of New-Orleans was opened to the Americans on the 20th of May.

The fast sailing schooner Nautillus, (says the Baltimore Patriot) lately purchased by the United States, in this port, is now completely fitted and manned, and will sail for the Mediterranean in a few days. She carries upwards of ninety men.

Her crew with one or two exceptions, are all native Americans; and so great was their avidity to enter the service, the clerks could scarcely enrol their names, so heavy was the crowd.

Yesterday arrived the brig Union, capt. Brown, in 26 days from New-Orleans. Capt. B. informs that he left that place on the 16th ult. a few days previous to which the magazine, stores, &c. had been given up by the Spaniards to the officer appointed for that purpose by the French government.

On the 1st of June, in lat. 23, 18, captain Brown spoke the brig John and Mary, Perrier, of Charleston, out 10 days, from New Orleans, bound to Havre, who reported that the right of deposit was restored to the Americans on 17th of May. Of the Havannah on the 28th of May, was informed by the captain of the scl'r. Beisey, from Jamaica, bound to Salem, that he had received intelligence from a vessel from Havannah, that that port was opened for the admission of flour, in American vessels, and that it was selling at 20 dollars per barrel.
