Louis, the Captains, Officers, and Seamen, and to the Officers, Non-Commissioned Officers, and Privates of the Royal Marines, my warmest thanks: And I desire, that the Captains will convey those my sentiments of approbation and admiration, with thanks in the most gratifying manner, to the Officers and Seamen, and Royal Marines, as a proof of my high sense of their services in the battle of yesterday.

(Signed) J. F. DUCKWORTH.

To the Honorable Rear Admiral Cochrane, Rear Admiral Louis, the Captains, Officers, Seamen, and Royal Marines of the Squadron.

The proclamation which the Emperor Napoleon addressed to his army, after the celebrated battle of the 2d December:

PROCLAMATION.

"Soldiers—I am satisfied with you! In the battle of Austerlitz you have justified what I expected from your intrepidity. You have covered yourselves with eternal glory. An army of 100,000 men, which was commanded by the Emperors of Russia and Austria, has been, in less than four hours, either cut off or dispersed. What escaped your swords have thrown themselves into the lakes! Forty stand of colours, the standards of the Russian Imperial guard, 120 pieces of cannon, twenty Generals, above 20,000 prisoners, are the fruits of this ever memorable battle.

"That infantry, so celebrated and superior to you in numbers, have proved unable to resist your charge, and henceforth, you have no rivals to fear.

"Thus, in less than two months, the third Coalition is conquered and dissolved. Peace cannot be at a great distance; but, as I promised to my people before crossing the Rhine, I will conclude it only upon terms consistent with my pledge, and which shall secure not only the indemnification, but the reward of the allies.

"Soldiers! When the French people placed the Imperial Crown upon my head, I trusted in you to enable me to maintain it in that high splendour of glory which alone could give it value in my estimation, but at that moment all enemies entertained the design to tarnish and degrade it; and the Iron Crown which was gained by the blood of so many Frenchmen, would they have compelled me to place on the head of my bitterest foe; an extravagant and foolish proposal which you have brought to nought at the anniversary of your Emperor's Coronation.—You have taught them that it is easier for them to defy and threaten than to subdue us.

"Soldiers! When every thing necessary to the security, the happiness, and prosperity of our country, has been achieved, will I return you my thanks in France. Then will you be the objects of my tenderest care. My people will receive you with caresses and joy. To say to me—I was in the battle of Austerlitz—will be enough to authorise the reply, 'that is a brave man.'

NAPOLEON.

"Head-Quarters at Austerlitz, Dec. 3, 1805."

The number of Killed on the part of the French in the battle of AUSTERLITZ, on the 2d Dec. is stated at 7000—wounded 10,000.

A little Act by a little Lady.

GENTLEMEN of the Corps de Garde, in Chatham Square, finding much intruded and heavy duties, seizing some bottles of wine lying in the streets that belonged to John Callohan, I asked the clerk who was standing near, to enquire the cost, which I took up, but not being able to get the clerk out, I laid it down and went away.—JOHN CALLOHAN has since warranted me for the same to him, and on the ground of his right called a judgment for forty-six and a half cents.

RICE PLANTERS

WHO may be in want of DURIE'S new invented PENDULUM SCREEN (under Patent) can be supplied by applying to Joshua Potts, Wilmington, or to John C. Baker near Smithville.

The Screens are warranted to sift Ninety hundred weight per day, making a complete separation of the Flour, Small Rice, Merchantable Rice, and rough or Seed Rice, with the labour of one hand.

They will be finished in Charleston complete in all the parts, and delivered at either place above mentioned, for fifty five dollars each, the purchaser paying the freight.—They will be so marked and accompanied by such particular directions, that any person of ordinary capacity will be adequate to the task of fixing them for use.—The simplicity of their construction, and great durability, together with the immense saving of manual labour, and the more perfect cleaning of the grain, renders them a truly valuable acquisition to every Rice Planter. They can for the additional charge of one dollar, be rendered so far further useful as to answer the purpose of a PENDULUM SCREEN, which separates the rough rice from the ground Rice before it is put into the Mortar, and occasions a great saving of the crop. They also may be attached to any common pounding machine. Persons wishing to have them so fixed will please apply, as above, and leave a description of their machine, which being made known to the proprietors, the Screen will be furnished in such a state, and with such instructions, as will enable any Millwright to put them in operation.
