

Entering the great hall of the Museum, in Washington, after having come through the passage...

Charles Martineau, Talented Fellow, formerly administrator of the department of Paris...

Sworn the 15th July, 1794. before MATHEW CLARKSON, Mayor.

An inquisitive traveller would not fail to notice this monument, though surrounded on all sides by Peale's grand exhibition of the works of nature...

TO THE EDITORS OF THE STAR.

A Letter, written by the Rev. GIBSON BLACKBURN, published in your last number, excited in me a wish to make some remarks concerning the character and career of that great and good man...

A Short account of five Camp-Meetings, held in the New-Jersey district in the year of our Lord 1808, under the superintendance of Joseph Totten, presiding elder.

The Morning Star, Church of the Holy Trinity, New York, has been the scene of a series of religious exercises...

FROM THE BOSTON MIRROR.

A young lady who employs her scissors in extracting the superior productions which sometimes appear in the daily newspapers, like flowers in the desert...

RESIGNATION.

The rose has its thorns; and the violet though fair, From its sweet purple leaves deadly poison supplies...

The thorn of the rose when 'tis gathered with care, Has seldom been known the possessor to wound...

Bloom on lovely rose! modest violet bloom, Unhurt by the tempest, undrench'd by the rain, Yet a catkins, alas! may thy beauty consume...

SENSIBILITY—A FRAGMENT.

Not that affected stuff which screams at the sight of a spider, or faints at the agonies of a dying fly, and yet can spurn a beggar from the door...

Geography is a science, the utility of which is well known, that it ought to be as familiar to all classes of society, as the alphabet itself.

It is the ignorance of the first principles of navigation, that filled the human race with so much misery. I have long imagined that the earth was inhabited...

But the young man who is made acquainted with an exact description of the globe, and whose imagination is elevated to all the spheres...

ORIGIN OF CONFINEING JURORS FROM MEAT AND DRINK.

The Gothic nations were famous of old in Europe, for the quantities of food and drink which they consumed. The ancient Germans, and their Saxon descendants in England, were remarkable for their hearty meals...

The descendants of those nations, who form the greater part of the population of the U. States, may feel a gratification in knowing the origin of this restraint upon juries.

LUTHER'S INSTRUCTION TO THE PREACHERS OF HIS TIME.

"Cursed, says he, are all the preachers that aim at sublimity, difficulty and elegance, and neglecting the care of the souls of the poor, seek their own praise and honour, and to please one or two persons of consequence."

RAGS!

How the best things grow out of the worst! Even the Bible is made out of Rags! and yet people will not save their Rags!

P. S. Tell Molly and Betty that the paper-makers do not mean to get away their dithcloths—after their Rags are become unfit for dish-cloths and house-cloths, they are just as good for paper-makers as ever.

Raphael, in return to Adam's enquiries into the courses of the stars, and the revolutions of heaven, counsels him to withdraw his mind from idle speculations, and employ his faculties upon nearer and

I have been told that our country is not nearly happy. This is a common complaint, and I have often proposed to my countrymen...

No complaint is more common among men, who pretend to be learned, than that of Envy and Jealousy. It is very insipid, because it principally turns upon wealth, walking, business, company, and other trumpery.

There are few conditions which do not contain within themselves hopes and fears, from which it is necessary to be at intervals disengaged.

Notice.

THE Subscriber administered on the Estate of Boddie, dec. at last February Term of the County Court. All the Personal Estate of the said Boddie...

All Persons having claims against said Estate, are requested to bring them forward, properly authenticated, within the time limited by law...

JOHNSON BRITT, Wake county, Feb. 23, 1809.

A School

FOR the instruction of young men in the Latin and Greek Languages, English Grammar, Geography, &c. will be opened on the first of March next, in New York...

Grand Officers

Of the Grand Lodge of North-Carolina and Tennessee, for A. D. 1809.

- THE most Worshipful Master, General Benjamin Smith, Grand Master. The Right Worshipful Isaac Williams, Attorney at Law, Deputy Grand Master. The Right Worshipful George Lee Davidson, a member of the Legislature of this State, Grand Senior Warden.

A Caution.

WHEREAS my son David, a youth eighteen years old last April, enlisted under captain Nick's company...

Mrs. Waino

Will take 2 Boys, Students of the Academy as Boarders, at the usual price. They will be accommodated with an excellent and convenient Room, and every requisite attention shall be paid to them.

HORSE BILLS

Ornamented with an Elegant Cut. Will be ready printed to order at this Office, at the usual price, and any place and by any conveyance directed.