The above Lottery is authorized by an act of the Legislature of North Carolina, for the purpose of enabling the Trustees of the NEWTON ACADEMY near the town of Asheville, to complete the necessary buildings belonging to the same—And also to establish a Female Academy in the town of Asheville.

Which two objects the Trustees and Managers flatter themselves will be a sufficient inducement, independent of the flattering prospect held out in the above SCHEME, to influence all zealous friends to useful institutions to become liberal purchasers of tickets.—And they deem it unnecessary to expatiate largely in contriving the advantages these institutions may have (if well supported with friends) over most other Seminaries.—For it is now very generally known that Asheville is one of the most healthy situations on this continent—and lying in the neighbourhood of the Warm Springs, and on the main road from thence, (as well as from the Western to the Southern States) is more generally resorted to by the best characters of both sexes during Summer and Autumn, (for the benefit of health) than almost any other place. In the Southern section of the Union—And being also a place where board and Tuition are had on very moderate terms—Where the youths of the sister states will lay the foundation of sound connections together with their Educations, and receive the visits of their friends to and from the Warm Springs.—All these advantages united bear evident testimony of the eligibility of Asheville, as a seat for Literary Institutions.—And therefore on these self-evident grounds, we respectfully solicit the public patronage.

Baldwin is about five feet five to seven inches in height; from twenty seven to thirty years of age; fair complexion; well made; remarkably active; speaks decently, and is very plausible; his voice is more efficient than strong and manly; was surveyor in the Mississippi Territory and kept a school on the Long Bay; the last summer wore a pair of pantaloons and a long coat, made of light mixed homespun, and a blue or dark coloured round jacket, or spencer over his coat, with a white hat. ### POLITICAL.

[Those who are advocates for a war with Great Britain will be pleased with the spirit of the following resolutions.]

A Grand Meeting was held in the State House yard in Philadelphia on Wednesday the 14th ultimo, of the citizens of Philadelphia county and city, and county of Delaware—at which an address was agreed on to the President, another to the people of the United States; and the following resolutions were adopted:

1. Resolved, As the opinion of this meeting, that the conduct of the Executive of the United States, in treating with the government of Great Britain and every other foreign government, and their agents has been moderate, dignified and such as comports with the sincerity and good faith of the chief magistrate of a free, neutral and independent nation.

2. Resolved, That in the various acts of perfidy, insult and outrage upon our citizens, property, flag and country, committed by Great Britain; we see no prospect of obtaining justice or redress by diplomatic negotiations.

3. Resolved, That we consider the outrage committed upon the Chesapeake as an authorized & deliberate act of hostility, on the part of the British gov't; and that the various artifices and frauds, combined with breach of faith and condescending insult, displayed by the ministers and agents of Great Britain constitute acts of war, calling for immediate atonement or immediate retaliation.

4. Resolved, That the proclamation of the king and privy council of Great Britain inviting our citizens to break the laws of our country, was an interference in our internal government, which would in itself, justify a declaration of war.

5. Resolved, That the proposition of the British government, to enforce our laws by its navy, was an insidious attempt to represent the American government as unable to carry into effect, the laws which it passed; and to wheedle us into a war, to maintain British domination on the ocean.

6. Resolved, That savage nations are justly condemned, for murdering their prisoners, and the barbary powers for putting them to hard labour; but it was reserved for the British government to refine upon cruelty, so far as to seize upon the citizens of a friendly and neutral nation, and compel them to fight against and murder their fellow countrymen, their friends, their fathers and their brothers.

7. Resolved, That in dismissing a supercilious and insolent minister, called Francis James Jackson, the executive of the United States has maintained the dignity of the chief magistrate of a free and independent people, and that the great mass of the citizens, in our opinion, is ready to rally under the national standard, whenever the Congress shall respond to the feelings and spirit of the people.

8. Resolved, As the opinion of this meeting, that looking back to the period of the revolution, we see a strong similarity in the circumstances and causes of the wrongs and injuries which we had then and subsequently have suffered, and that the injuries and insults, murderings and plunder, the tyranny over our commerce and the limitation of its direction, without a British licence, imperiously call'd upon our government, to take such measures as may be best calculated to assert and secure the rights of the nation either by resistance and the force of arms, or by entering into engagements similar to those of the armed neutrality of 1780, for maintaining neutral rights and the freedom of the seas.

9. Resolved, That the commerce of the U. States ever has, and ever shall under Providence
