

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, May 24, 1810.

WHEREAS in conformity with the provisions made by Law for the reimbursement of the Stock of Six Per Cent. Stock, created by the act of the 11th day of February, 1807, it has been determined by the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund, that the residue of the principal of said Stock should be reimbursed on the first day of January next; PUBLIC NOTICE is therefore given to the Proprietors of the Certificates of EXCHANGED SIX PER CENT. STOCK, created by the act aforesaid, that the principal of the whole amount of said stock not heretofore reimbursed, will, on surrender of the certificates, be paid on the first day of January, 1811, to the respective stockholders, or their legal representatives, or attorneys duly constituted, either at the Treasury or at the Loan Office where the stock thus to be reimbursed, may then stand credited to the proprietors thereof.

It is further made known for the information of the parties concerned, that no transfers of certificates of EXCHANGED SIX PER CENT. STOCK from the books of the Treasury, or of any Commissioner of Loans, will be allowed after the first day of December next; and that the interest on the whole amount of said stock will cease and determine on the day preceding the day hereby fixed for the reimbursement thereof.

ALBERT GALLATIN, Secretary of the Treasury.

ENCOURAGE LITERATURE.

The Managers solicit each Member of the Legislature to purchase a few Tickets—no eight or twelve dollars cannot be felt by them; and besides the prospect of their drawing handsome prizes, the consolation it must afford a generous mind to have contributed in this way to a useful and laudable institution in the most infant settlement in the State, will no doubt amply compensate for the money advanced. From present prospects it is hoped the drawing will commence by the first of January next.

Which two objects the Trustees and Managers flatter themselves will be a sufficient inducement, independent of the flattering prospects held out in the above SCHEME, to induce all serious friends to useful institutions to be come liberal purchasers of tickets—and they deem it unnecessary to expatiate largely in contrasting the advantages these institutions may have (if well supported with friends) over most other Seminaries—For it is now very generally known that Asheville is one of the most healthy situations on this continent—and lying in the neighbourhood of the Warm Springs, and on the main road from thence, (as well as from the Western to the Southern States) is more generally resorted to by the best characters of both sexes during Summer and Autumn, (for the benefit of health) in almost any other place in the Southern section of the Union—And being also a place where board and Tuition are had on very moderate terms—Where the Youths of the sister states will lay the foundation of sound constitutions together with their Education, and receive the visits of their friends to and from the Warm Springs.

The noisy herald of a busy world.

FOREIGN.

The ship Georgiana, arrived at Norfolk on the 27th of Nov. in 28 days from Bristol, brought London papers to the 24th of October, with intelligence from Portugal to the 14th of Oct. No other battle had taken place. The French were much straitened for provisions, and much harassed by skirmishes, and were desirous to bring Lord Wellington to a battle, which he avoided by keeping his strong positions. The anxiety of the English is wound up to the utmost pitch to the result of the battle, for the fate of Portugal and Spain is supposed to depend upon it. The armies are nearly equal, each containing about 70,000 men. Gen. Trant, with 15,000 men, is in the rear of Massena, and it is said has captured 3000 men which the French left at Coimbra, supposed to be the Hospital department. We present the latest public dispatches of both Massena and Wellington, and the latest letter from Lisbon.—Dispatch of Massena to Berthier: "Monseigneur—The army left Almeida on the 16th as I have had the honour to inform your Highness.—The three divisions of the army arrived on the 19th at Viseu, after having traversed horrible roads; the enemy retreated in every direction on our approach, and have formed a junction near Coimbra. I caused the 2nd and 6th corps to be posted on the bridge of Criz.

The English who occupied that bridge were dislodged; the 8th corps is yet at Viseu. The grand park of artillery and the heavy baggage still remain behind, and will only arrive to-morrow. The baggage was attacked by 3000 Portuguese, whom 200 men sufficed to repel with loss. It is impossible to find worse roads; they are covered with rocks; our artillery and baggage have suffered considerably, and now I am obliged to wait for them. I must let them remain two days at Viseu after their arrival, to be repaired, and shall continue my march to Coimbra, where I am told I shall find the English and Portuguese united. My Lord; we are marching over deserts; not a single person do we meet; every place is abandoned; the English have the barbarity to order the unfortunate persons who remain in their houses to be shot; women, children, the aged, all flee; in short, no where can a guide be found. Our soldiers found potatoes and some vegetables; they are contented, and long to encounter the enemy. The march has caused us a few sick."

By all the information I have received, the army of the French and the army of the English are now within 20 or 25 miles of each other, but confidence is at its height, and no long time to be seen.

Another of Oct. 14.—As our army is very near, we have almost hourly communications therefrom. You cannot form to yourself a more like war than the general appearance of the city. Soldiers and officers at every step, divisions of cards of 40, 50, and 60, at a time, in the villages. Commissariat waggon is loaded with biscuits, &c. in immense numbers, artillery moving along, the streets crowded with prisoners and deserters arriving, 3 or 400 at a time, and police horse guards patrolling the streets in every direction.

The Marquis of Romana has crossed the Tago with 10,000 Spaniards to cooperate with Wellington.

The following Remarks on the army are from a late London paper.—At the departure of the messenger, his head quarters were at Arruiz, town about three miles south of Almonacid. He left was at Torres Vedras, and our right at Santarero, upon the Tagus. The British have advanced 20 miles. The French were in a line opposite. Their advanced guard was at Verde, nearly opposite to Torres Vedras, and their head quarters at Rio Major, a town about 12 miles west of Santarero.

The ground occupied by the allied army is bold mountainous country, and was the position selected by Junot in August 1808. Torres Vedras is 7 leagues northward of Lisbon, and two leagues from Vimiers, which is nearer to the coast. This position was marked out as the line of neutrality between the British and French armies whilst the negotiations were pending at Cintra. The town is situated in a valley and is commanded by a hill in form of a sugar loaf, on which are the ruins of an old Moorish castle. Lord Wellington has been ten heard to say that if he had a choice of an advantageous position in Portugal, he would select the French, it would be Torres Vedras in position his lordship intends to make a stand. It is been strongly fortifying, with this intention, at the beginning of the campaign; and it has been one part of his lordship's policy to draw Massena through the country to this post.

The latter, on the other hand, is represented the ministerial circles, in a state of despair with provisions, without medical stores, and without considerable portion of his heavy artillery, he having set in on the 8th, during his advance to Major, and rendering the roads, which are naturally difficult, almost impracticable.

A violent civil war rages in Paraguay. An expedition has gone from Montevideo to besiege Buenos Ayres. Liniers, who was in the French rest, has been beheaded. The celebrated Dr. Logan was at the Holkham sheep shearing near London—his health was given by Mr. Coke, on a Dr. Logan rose and thanked the company, and a animated speech expressed his hope that the prospect of discord between the two countries might forever be buried. King Murat has failed in his attempt upon Sicily, and it is supposed has given the project of invasion.

Madrid, Sept. 18.—It has been ordered that future no Spanish Officer or Soldier shall be received into the service of King Joseph. This has been always the opinion of Napoleon. 10000 French troops intended for Massena have arrived here, it is believed their determination is altered, and they will now be incorporated with the garrison of Madrid.

DOMESTIC.

The celebrated Cooke of the London Theatre has been engaged by Mr. Cooper for 14,000 dollars per annum to the New-York Theatre for 5 years. On the twenty second ult. he appeared on the New York Boards in the character of Richard III. in most crowded audience ever witnessed. Gen. Armstrong the late minister to France has arrived at New-York. All the papers in the northern middle states speak much of the injury done by late rains.

NORTH-CAROLINA.

STATE LEGISLATURE.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Wednesday, Nov. 28.

Received from the Senate a bill to establish an Academy in Washington County, and a academy in Camden County.

The committee to whom was referred the bill for establishing Courts of Equity separate from Courts of Law, reported in favour of the bill, which was read for its first reading and ordered to be printed.

Received from the Adjutant-General the following Report:

To the Honourable the General Assembly of the State of North Carolina.

GENTLEMEN—I have the honour herewith to communicate a General Return of the Militia of North Carolina for the present year, with a Return of the General Field Officers of the same. Though the returns are still defective I have the pleasure to announce that they are more complete than have ever been at any former period. The revision of some officers and the recent appointment of others may be rendered as a reason for some delinquencies there are others which I fear are inexcusable. I have
