RUNAWAY

FROM the subscriber in April last, a Negro man by the name of JIM—when runaway, calls himself Jack. He is about five feet three or four inches high, about 30 years of age, a large countenance and small eyes; very much black-pitted, much humped on his back, one of his hips appears to be higher than the other, which occasions him to walk with his toes in, and a little lame; always says he belongs to a gentleman in Charleston, by the name of James Oliver. When runaway, professes to be an excellent sailor, which I believe to be true. This I mention in order to give caution to the mariners. He broke jail in Washington in this state, in August last. Any person securing him in jail, so I may get him, shall be well paid for his trouble.

Hillsborough Academy.

THE Reverend William Bingham having undertaken the charge of the Hillsborough Academy, the public are informed that the exercises of the institution will commence on the 3rd day of February ensuing. Miss Elizabeth Russell, is engaged to superintend the female department. The branches of learning which will be taught are Reading and Writing, English Grammar, Arithmetic, Geography, the Latin and Greek languages, and the Mathematics, at the rates following $12 for reading and writing, and 16 dolls. for Geography Latin and Greek, &c. in the Town board may be procured upon cheap and reasonable terms. The abilities of the Rev'd Mr. Bingham, as a teacher, are too well known to require an eulogium, and it is believed there are few places possessed of the advantages of salubrity of climate and cheapness of living in a degree superior to Hillsborough. The Trustees flatter themselves therefore that in these circumstances parents will find inducements sufficiently strong to place their children in the Hillsborough Academy, and that their Seminary will receive a patronage proportionate to the advantages it will possess & the benefits it will be calculated to confer.
