Oxford Academy.

THE trustees of the Oxford Academy, congratulate the citizens of Granville and the public in general, that their exertions to rear and establish a seminary of learning, have been crowned with success. An elegant two story building, 50 feet long and 32 feet wide, is nearly completed, and will be ready by the second Monday of January next, at which time the exercises of the Institution will commence. They have employed as principal, Mr. Thomas H. Wilkes, a gentleman who by his sobriety, industry and long acquaintance with the duties of his profession, has acquired a character equalled by few, and surpassed by no person in this part of the country. This gentleman has for the two last years, superintended the Nutbush Mineral Spring Academy; he has taught in several other parts of the state, and has always been highly valued for the mildness and regularity which were observed in his schools, as well as the uncommon proficiency of his pupils. An assistant will very soon be employed. Board, in genteel families, can be had very convenient to the Academy, at about fifty or sixty dollars. Tuition for classical scholars will be ten dollars; for English scholars seven dollars and fifty cents: each session to be paid in advance.

The Academy is situated on a beautiful eminence, and very convenient to one of the best springs perhaps in the world. The trustees flatter themselves, that from the high, airy and healthy situation of this Academy, the cheapness of board, and the high and commanding character of the gentleman selected to superintend it, that parents and guardians will find it a very eligible situation, in which to place their children and wards. The trustees pledge themselves to pay strict attention to the morals of the students, and their deportment in every other respect. WILLIAM M. SNEED, Sec'y. December 1st, 1813. 51 1st feb

The public will perceive that in the foregoing scheme, an alteration has been made by converting the 1000 dollars into a floating prize, and the 3000 dollars into a stationary premium. This change has been resorted to for the sole purpose of hastening the drawing, by placing it in the power of the managers to commence under the name of a smaller part of the Tickets. They are aware, that in times, like the present, of general pressure, individuals do not willingly let their money remain where it is inactive. It is therefore their wish and their expectation to be enabled to begin the drawing of the scheme at or shortly after the adjournment of the Legislature. Those who may have already purchased tickets, and not approvers of the foregoing alteration, will be at liberty to return their number on or before the first day of January next, but not afterwards.
