JONES & HENDERSON.

All persons indebted to the above firm are earnestly desired to make payment without further delay. There are several thousand open accounts on the Books of the Company and it is utterly impossible to make application to each individual; reliance must therefore be had on the honesty of those indebted. It is particularly requested that letters on the business of the concern be addressed to "Jones & Henderson," in order to obviate possible errors and ensure immediate attention to them. Any surplus monies received on account of the Star, from those who continue to be subscribers, will be paid over to Thomas Henderson, jun. if desired and his receipt therefor returned. Mr. Robert Stamper, on whose fidelity and correctness perfect reliance may be placed, continues in his capacity of Agent to settle the business of the late company, and may at all times be found at my office, near the Star Printing Office.
