A Review and Interpretation of Current Events as Seen by G. W. PASCHAL.

REPUBLICAN SENATORS WILL HAVE NO TREATY The Republican Senators aided by four or five Democrats have done all they could to destroy the Treaty. They sought to ratify it with reservations, which every one knew meant its virtual rejection. For the very first reservation declared that the Treaty as amended should become effective only when ratified by three of our principal allied powers—that is never. Then after failing in their efforts to ratify a treaty so amended as never to become effective, these same Republican Senators refused every suggestion of compromise. They voted by 51 to 42 that no compromise reservations should come before the Senate. They voted down by 50 to 46 a proposition to hear an amendment to the preamble so as to make the language less insulting to other nations. They then voted against the appointment of a "committee on conciliation," to be headed by Senators Lodge and Hitchcock, the purpose of which was to see if the contending factions could not get together. They have made it plain that they want no treaty. Why? Largely because President Wilson had a hand in making it, and they are seeking to take their personal and political spite out on him. They do not care about the wishes and interests of a great majority of their countrymen. In their utterances they make plain their animosity. This is especially plain in a statement of Senator Lodge given out after the Senate had refused to ratify his amended treaty, in which he says: "Under the President's orders the followers of the Administration in the Senate voted down those reservations." Mr. Lodge seems to think that there is nothing here but a political row, that the Senators who do not agree with him take orders from President Wilson, and have no opinions of their own, and that the country has no interest in the matter.

WHAT NEXT? Unless all signs are deceptive the country is sorely dissatisfied over the Treaty in the Senate. Senator Shields, Democrat of Tennessee, who voted with the Republicans for the deadly reservations to the Treaty, has been asked to resign by a meeting of bankers of his state. The business interests of the country have become very impatient. Those who have claims for ships and property at sea by German submarines must wait. These claims alone amount to $800,000,000. Then there are many other claims for property of Americans in Germany or war purposes by the German Government. Again our trade will continue to suffer because we can have no consuls in German ports to look after our interests until the Treaty is ratified. Hence our business interests are demanding ratification. The League to Enforce Peace, at a meeting in New York on last Sunday, presided over by Ex-President W. H. Taft, put out a statement urging early ratification, which is the most sane and convincing of anything we have read. I quote some of the paragraphs:

"The defeat of the ratification has been received by the country with surprise and indignation. The people want peace. Whose name it bears, which party brand it wears, they care not at all. They longed for and expected ratification before adjournment of the Senate.

"The making of peace is no more a party question than was the making of the war. The American people without regard to party stood behind the war, until the dawn of victory. With like unanimity they now stand behind the treaty.

"The failure to ratify the peace treaty has encouraged social unrest both at home and abroad.

"The allied nation, established during the war a practical union which is being succeeded by the League of Nations. To refuse to join this league is to lose numberless benefits and to invite the development of a league that will be hostile to us in feeling and in policy.

"The men and women who gladly dedicated their sons and their substance to the cause of obtaining peace through the defeat of the German menace refuse to believe they made an empty sacrifice. They demand that the Senators harmonize their differences. Refusal to do so will defy and betray the people of this country by whom they were elected and to whom they must answer.

"The Treaty should be ratified at the earliest possible moment after the Senate reconvenes on December 1. In the name of thousands of Americans who have died to bring peace and end war, of millions of Americans who have toiled and sacrificed to that end, we call upon the Senate to forget prejudice and partisanship and agree upon a resolution of ratification concluded in terms that will permit the other signatories of the treaty to acquiesce in the conditions of our ratification."

THE PRINCE OF WALES The Prince of Wales after a five day's visit to New York and other points in the North set sail for Halifax and England on last Saturday. He had been given a warm reception, one without adulation, and he showed up a man rather than a Prince. There is one thing noticeable about the visits of these foreign potentates. They think they have seen the United States when they have seen the North and West. They never think of the South. King Albert of Belgium traveled across the country and back, but he never got south of the Mason and Dixon's line except to Norfolk to take ship, and never saw a cotton field.

THE COAL STRIKE It is now probable that National Fuel Administrator Garfield will be able to bring an end to the coal strike. The matter of settlement has been left to him by the operators, who in general have shown a rather obnoxious attitude during all the negotiations for ending the strike. Many industries are already suffering for want of coal and some are shutting down. The country cannot run without coal. Labor needs it, capital needs it. In modern industry every one is dependent upon every one else. It is the old story of the belly and the members. If any group of members of our society refuses to perform its functions all of us suffer.
