10,000 DOUGHNUTS

THE "doughnut king"—Jacob Sentlinger Jr., of Wheeling, W. Va.—has a bakery that turns out 10,000 doughnuts a day.
How that must amaze grandmothers who remember when the average family rarely tasted a doughnut that wasn't baked in their own kitchen stove.
It is a clear-cut illustration of the modern tendency toward mass production and specialization.
Not many generations ago, nearly every family grew most of its own food, built its own log cabin or frame house put together with wooden pegs instead of nails. The spinning wheel whirred busily before the open fireplace, helping turn out the family clothing. Even medicine was largely a family affair, concocted from wild herbs.
All this is changed. Fuel comes from coal mines hundreds of miles away instead of from a nearby forest. Also come, from far over the horizon, most of the other necessities of life.

The home no longer is a factory. Its productive activities have been largely transferred to factories and mills. The penalty of all this is a breaking up of the home, a scattering of family members to the points of concentrated production.
Specialization is the key-note of modern times. In 99 cases out of 100, success comes as the result of specializing on the production of one commodity or distribution in one particular industry.
The quicker children are made to realize the necessity for specializing, and then becoming experts among the specialists, the sooner they will arrive at financial independence. The secret of success in the twentieth century is selecting one goal and working definitely and unflinchingly toward it.

BOLL WEEVIL Senator John Sharp Williams of Mississippi, told the Senate the other day that the recent proposal for cessation of all cotton planting to kill the boll weevil was impracticable and that farmers must continue to rely on modern science and the investigating powers of the Federal government to curb the pest. There has long been a growing conviction that this is true, and Senator Williams apparently has only confirmed what the practical men in the cotton-raising district have found to be the case.

BILLIONS THE WORLD OWES US The Controller of the Currency Crissinger has given out a list of details regarding the $22,000,000,000 the world owes this country for saving democracy and other liberties in Europe. The Crissinger list shows that American securities purchased from abroad amounted to $3,000,000,000; American government loans, $10,000,000,000; interest on government loans, $2,000,000,000; commercial credits extended abroad, $3,000,000,000; dollar securities brought from foreign countries, $3,031,000,000; foreign money securities sold in this country, $620,000,000; and foreign currencies bought by America, $500,000,000. The $22,000,000,000 of American securities repurchased from abroad represents the cancellation of a debt and stops the annual tribute. The other items represent either a final and definite loss—as is likely to be the case with a part of the government loans and is sure to be with a large proportion of foreign currencies—or they represent a postponement to the indefinite future of the time when we can enjoy the fruits of our money.

HARNESSING RADIO Those people who have regarded radio communication as an interesting toy will do well to inform themselves of the development of this remarkable agency in the field of improving existing means of carrying the written and spoken word through the business and commercial world. The recent successful achievements of radio has made it impossible for a foreign nation to ever again interfere with America's free communication with the rest of the world. The Radio Corporation of America was formed as a result of a suggestion of representatives of the United States Navy, and that it has been justifying all expectations is indicated by an announcement by Edward J. Nally, its president, who in giving out the news that his concern has made an agreement with the Postal Telegraph-Cable Company whereby every office of the Postal Company in the United States becomes an agency of the Radio Corporation for the acceptance of radiograms for transmission across the Atlantic Ocean and for the delivery of radiograms received from overseas for points in the United States, adds by way of explanatory comment:

"This important linking up of radio and wire line services reflects the rapid growth of the Radio Corporation's overseas telegraph traffic since the return of its high power stations by the Government after the close of the World War. These stations transmit and receive radiograms directly to and from England, France, Norway and Germany, and thru connecting stations abroad, to and from all countries in Europe, Asia and Africa. The Radio Corporation now maintains the only direct line of telegraph communication with Germany and Scandinavia; and additional direct service is planned for the near future with Belgium, Holland, Italy, Poland and Sweden, giving to those peoples the opportunity to communicate directly with their scattered brethren and nationals in all sections of the country."
Practically all the radiograms transmitted to transatlantic countries have originated in New York City and Washington, D. C. The harnessing of wireless with the land lines gives to the whole inland commercial interests equal facilities with those now enjoyed by the National Capital and the nation's metropolis. With the coming development of high speed wireless telegraphy the new arrangement will permit the Radio Corporation of America to carry out its plans for the inauguration of a low rate plain language Radio Letter service to and from all points in the United States and Europe, thus contributing largely to the establishment of closer and more friendly relations between the people of both lands.

Mr. Nally concludes his most interesting statement as follows: "So far has automation been carried in this new art that a bit of perforated paper tape in Broad Street sends a message to Europe without the aid of human hands, and at the other end, another bit of tape likewise without prompting by human operators takes the message out of the air and visualizes it for the operator with a wavering line of blue ink."
GERMANS EATING LESS PORK Germany shows a severe decline. According to the United States Department of Agriculture, the average per capita consumption of meat in Germany has dropped from 108.50 pounds in 1913 to 73.65 pounds in 1921. The biggest drop is in hogs.
Depreciated German currency is given as a reason for decreased consumption as a large majority of Germans can not pay the high meat prices. Also, fewer live stock are being slaughtered because of the need of replenishing the reduced supplies caused by the war, and the compulsory delivery of animals to the Entent under the terms of the Peace Treaty.

EQUAL CITIZENSHIP The National Woman's Party in Washington is jubilant over the passage of the Cable Equal Citizenship bill thru both branches of Congress. Under the bill any woman may become a naturalized citizen of the United States even though she may be married. Another provision permits an American woman who marries a foreigner to retain her American citizenship. A great furor was raised over this feature of the bill a few years ago when Inez Millholland, a prominent suffragist, married a Hollander, and thereby lost American citizenship.

CRIMP IN THE PROSPERITY TALK A good many people conclude that times must be improving rapidly because members of President Harding's Cabinet are telling the press that they find that the real article in the way of prosperity is delayed. This is in strange contrast to the optimism of last Winter when more than 5,000,000 men were out of employment in the United States. Secretary Hoover will admit, however, that the country is better off than it was a year ago, but he says that it will be six months at least before a high plane of prosperity is attained. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon considers business "very good," but he hedges by directing attention to the limitations imposed on transportation facilities by car shortage and a possible inadequate labor supply.
Farmers of the nation will bear the greatest loss as a result of the strikes, according to an analysis of the situation by Secretary Hoover. He says that the export of farm produce has been seriously interfered with by the inability of the railways to transport produce. Prices are, therefore, unduly depressed in the agricultural regions, and the farmer is suffering seriously.

CITY'S OLDEST DOG OVER 16 YEARS OLD
The oldest dog in Elizabeth City is "Snap," a white fox terrier owned by W. C. Glover, a well known commission merchant. "Snap" was 16 years old last March and carries his age well. He is said to have killed more cats than any other dog in town. In spite of his old age he still retains his teeth, and is not too grumpy to follow his master as he did when a pup. The only signs of age are his approaching blindness and a tendency to nervousness when he stops to rest.

"a man doesn't have to be a tailor to buy clothes."
The average man thinks "clothes" the day before he decides to buy a suit. He gets down early the next morning and buys it.
A faith proposition all the way through. It's an easy way to buy.
