Mr. Amisa introduced a resolution granting the use of the Commons Half this evening to the Young Meu's Christian Association, for the delivery of a Lecture before that body. Concurred in.

Mr. Waddell introduced a resolution relative to a notice published in the city papers from Robert E. Walker, Provost Marshal, requiring the citizens of Raleigh and all other persons to procure passes before leaving the city, requesting the Governor to procure from the Confederate Government permits for all members of the General Assembly and the officers of the same to pass and repass from and to Raleigh or elsewhere within the Confederate lines, without being subjected to the order of the said Robert E. Walker. Provost Marshal.

Mr. Peebles opposed the resolution, and said he was opposed to asking an exemption for members of the Legislature. He alid not think that they should be exempt while other citizens of the State were held

Mr. Foy said he hoped the resolution would pass. He knew of no legal authority for this system of requiring loyal citizens to procure passes before they were allowed to pass. He had himself been seriously fuconvenienced by it. He could see no necessity for t here, and as he thought it contrary to the law and he rights of our people, he hoped that the resolution

He then had called the attention of the House to the matter, and an investigation being had, resulted in an appolagy to the House for the indignity. It would have seen an easy matter for this Licut, Walker to have

A. E. Walker, calling himself Provost Marshal, requires all citizens to obtain passes before they leave the city of Raleigh, and to report by hilf or otherwise.

Mr. Fowle thought that the time had come when we should inquire whether martial law can be declared elsewhere than in the vicinity of the enemy, without some cause existing to require it, or at least some reason assigned therefor. He wanted to reach it by principle. This officer's notice gave no authority for his action. It his memory was not at fault the Confederate Congress had granted this power at one time, but he thought the limitation had expired, and that an extension of the time had been proposed in Congress, but had not yet been concurred in by that body. He hoped therefore as his substitute, was more compre-hensive, that his friend from Chatham (Mr. Waddell) would accept it.

Mr. Wadnell said that he perferred his resolution.

Mr. Fowle said he wanted to be estain if the power had been properly given, and if in accordance with law. If it had been, as much as he might doubt the primaned there, under a suspension of this writ.

Mr. Foy addressed the House at some length in support of the resolutions, taking strong ground against the suspension of the writ of habeas corpus, and dealing heavy blows at the tendency to override civil by the military power, giving instances coming within his own knowledge; of true and loyal citizens having been arrested and imprisoned, without a hearing. Mr. Foy spoke at length. On motion of Mr. McKay the House proceeded to consider a bill from the Squate for the relief of landlords. The bill was amended and passed its several

The hour having arrived for the consideration of the special order, the House proceeded to the consideration of the Revenue bill.

A number of amendments were proposed, some of which were concurred in, pending the consideration the following message was received from His Excellency, Governor Vance:

To the Honorable, the General Assembly of North Carolina: With the fight of time great events have occurred and are now crowding upon us. Since your aljournment in December, the invaders of our State have concentrated a large force upon our coast, and are again threatening our remaining scaports and lines of communication. Every preparation possible has been made to resist them, and it is hoped not without success. Still much remains to be done to strengthen our army and add to its efficiency. I beg leave respectfully to offer a few suggestions to you on this

The most serious evils with which our generals have to contend are the inefficient execution of the conscript law and the alarming increase of descrion in the army. A long absence from home, and the severe hardships of our rapid and wonderful campaigns, naturally tends to produce these effects during a protracted war. To arrest these delinqueuts and return them to duty, the militia have heretofore been employed with some degree of success; but latterly they have been found inefficient owing to the many obstacles interposed by the law. Should an officer start out to arrest a deserter, the friends of the latter have only to give the alarm and he is spirited out of the way, or the officer is resisted by open violence. As desertion is not a crime known to the laws of this State, these persons who thus shield the deserter from arrest are liable to no punishment. The consequence is that numbers of deserters are concealed in many parts of the State, and banding together for company and mutual protection, depredate upon the citims near them, thus forming a kind of outlawed population in the midst of our quiet and orderly people This state of things, ruinous alike to the discipline of our army and the morals of our people, ought not to be sufected to continue and might be prevented in my opinion by a little prudent legislation. With whose commands they are absent, propose to give absences from the army without less, by proclamation, thirty days in which they may return to duty free of punishment, and after that time to make them liabel for the delay, to the severest penalties of the law. To enable the authorities to effect their arrest, I re-commend, as I had the honor seeds in my regular message to you that the militia laws be so amended as to subject both officers and privates of any particular company or regiment of the inilitia to the articles of war, when ordered to perform any duty of this kind at the discretion of the Executive; that power be given the Executive summarily to drop from the rolls officers guilty of gross and wilful neglect of duty, and that it be made a crime to shield or harbor deserters or to assist them to avoid capture. Should it be deemed best to continue to use the militia of the State for executing the Conscript haw, these amendments will be indespensable, as Congress has failed in these respects to provide for the enforcement of its

I have been applied to in several instances as the appointing power of the regimental officers of our regents raised originally for three years or the war, to promote men for gallant and meritorious conduct, but on close examination of the law I find I have no authority to deviate from the regular order of promotion by seniority in the appointment of company officers.

This power ought to reside somewhere—the good of the service requires it. The humblest private in the ranks of the army ought to feel that iffers is the power and the will to lift him above the humble position to a commissioned officer, as a reward for gullantry and beroism. I therefore recommend that this authority be vested in the Executive to be exercised unon proper recommendations of commanding efficers in

The subject of arresting citizens on charges of disseen recently taken up by the Confederate officers, and with a spirit of courtesy and respect for State au-thority, turned over so me for investigation. I am at a loss how to dispose of them. I cannot examine them myself, and of course regard it inconsistent with my duty to set them at liberty without an examina-tion, and I am yet more unwilling to see them placed in the Confederate prison at Salisbury where the tracks of the accused all lead in one direction and the light of old English liberty is never seen. I therefore recommend the establishing of a commission for the investigation of charges against all such persons with power to commit for trial before the proper tribunal, if sufficient cause appears, &c.

In this connection—I take great pleasure in transmitting a letter from Hon. Jas. S. Soddon, Secretary of War, in relation to the case of R. J. Graves, and in response to the demand for his delivery to the authority of this State, made in obedience to a joint resolution of your two Houses. Admi-rable in spirit, ample in explanation of the circomstances under which the arrest was made, and in expressions of regard for the rights and sovereignty of the State, I am sure that, accompanying as it did the prompt surrender of the accused, it cannot fail to give you the satisfaction I experienced on its perusal. you the satisfaction I experienced on its perusal:

In view of the threatened invasion of the State, I have been advised by the war department to call out the militin oursist in repelling it. Having consulted with the Ceneral in command of this department, I concluded to do so, but am at least doubtful of my authority to take the step, whilst your body is in session. Not wishing to exercise any doubtful authority when your presence and approbation may so easily make it certain, I most respectfully recommend that I be authorized immediately to call out such portion of the militia as may be deemed sufficient to such portion of the milita as may be deemed sufficient to meet the present emergency.

I have the honor herewith to transmit copies of resolutions on various subjects of the Legislatures of the States of South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama, forwarded to me by their respective Executives with a request that they be laid before you. The most important of these relates to the proposition of guaranteeing by each State of its proportion of the Confederate war debt, and to these I invite your early and deliberate attention.

I am also pleased to be able to inform you that the cor-respondence conducted by me with the War Department at your request, in relation to the barning of cotton in Eastern North Carolina, was entirely satisfactory, though for prudential reasons I thought it improper to make it public.

Very respectfully.

Z. B. VANCE.

The message and accompanying documents having been read, they were ordered to be sent to the Senate with a proposition to print.

Mr. Amis introduced a resolution to repeal the rule of the House now in force, relative to the hours of meeting and adjournment of the House. Last over under the rule.

The House resumed the consideration of the Revenue Bill, and continued its consideration until the House adjourned to 10 o'clock Thursday morning.
