NORTH CAROLINA.

While every North Carolinian whose heart is in the right place, mourns over the younded and slain, and is anxious that some steps should be taken to put an end to the cruel carnage, he is at the same time proud of the fact that on every field the courage and endurance of North Carolina soldiers are most conspicuous. We hear one day that some point in Virginia is in great peril, and the next day we hear that Ransom's or Hoke's divisions, or some other brigade or division of our brave boys have got up just in time to turn the tide and drive back the invader. It is due to the strong arms and stout hearts of North Carolina soldiers that Richmond and Petersburg are not this day in the hands of the enemy. And yet the fathers, and brothers, and mothers, and sisters, and wives of these brave men at home are singled out and branded as "discontented" and "disloyal" by the minions of the Richmond administration, and even the pondence with the President, shows, to accept the services of troops from other States to shoot down-our people on account of their political Great God, can this be so! It is opinions even so. The record proves it! We now tell President Davis that our people are alike indifferent to his threats and his blandishments; and if he does not understand their character, and is not disposed to give them credit for the motives by which they are governed, they cannot help When they are called traitors and threatened with bullets and bayonets on account of their political opinions, they point with mournful pride to their thousands of graves in Virginia, and their thousands of wounded, as the best evidence that those who call them traitors are cowardly slanderers; and if it is supposed by Gov. Vance. or by others, that they can be frightened out of those opinions, the answer is that they may be overpowere i by physical force, but they will still be free in heart and free in spirit, though padlocks may be put on their mouths and manacles on their limbs.

By the way Gov. Vance is the only Governor who has ever lived on this continent who has deliberately proposed to coerce his own State .-This "bad eminence" in history will at least be assigned him. For proof of what we say, read his Wilkesborough speech and his letter to Mr. 411

Our soldiers will still fight on, bleeding and dying on Virginia soil. They will continue to save Petersburg and Richmond, and the members of the administration who would blacken the character of those whom they have left behind. But their proud hearts are wrung by these calumnies, and the tear starts to the eye when they remember that their noble old State has to meet Lincoln and his hosts in front, and the cruel suspicions and threats of men who should be their brethren, in the rear Faithful unto death is the motto of the North Carolina soldiers -They want peace, but they will still be faithful. They feel most keenly the threats which are uttered against their brethren at home on account of their political opinions, but they will still be faithful. If Richmond should be defended and saved -which may Heaven grant! -a moiety of the honor of its salvation will be theirs; but if it should fall, it will be known in history that North Carolina left more of her dead in front of that City than the whole Confederacy besides.

And yet the great mass of our people are regarded in certain quarters as traitors, and our Governor would accept the services of Confederate troops in a certain event to "repress trea-con "Shame, shame on these calumniators of as noble and as aithful a people as ever existed! Oh if Mr. Davis and Gov Vance could only, or ever hear the truth! But they are surrounded by flatterers and parasites who prosper most when these functionaries are misled and deceived by their artful, selfish falsehoods. The truth in relation to North Carolina-the real condition and sentiments of her people, seldom if ever reaches their cars Indeed, whenever their best friends have attempted to tell them the truth, instead of being commended for it, they have been put under the ban and banished from their presence. We know this has been the case with Gov Vance, and we have heard on the best authority that the same sad latnity has afflicted, and does now afflict President Day is .- Standard.
