BY J. L. PENNINGTON.

Champ Ferguson's Full Confession. The Nashville Dispatch furnishes the following as the full confession of Champ Furguson. He commenced his statement with THE KILLING OF REUBEN WOOD.

The testimony in this case was, with very few exceptions, false. Reuben Wood and I were always good friends before the war, but after that he was connected with the same company in which my brother Jim was operating. I knew that he intended killing me if he ever got a chance. They both hunted me down, and drove me fairly to desperation. On the day that he was killed, we met him in the road, and he commenced on me, using the most abusive language. I knew his disposition toward me, and believed he intended to shoot me. The touching story about his piteous appeals to me -that he had nursed me when a babe, and tossed me on his knee-are false, and were gotton up expressly to create sympathy, and set me forth as a heartless wretch. If I had not shot Reuben Wood, I would not likely have been here, for he would have shot me. I never expressed a regret for committing the act, and never will. He was in open war against me.

THE KILLING OF FROGG.

The case of Frogg is another in which I am falsely placed. The circumstance are well known to many in that neighborhood. He was with the Home Guards, and instigated my arrest while I was peaceably pursuing my avocation as a farmer. Not satisfied with this, he laid in wait on the highways to kill me. He even went so far as to make his threats to the neighbors that he intended to kill me. On the day that I passed down the road leading to Frogg's house, Mrs. Pleasant Beatty called to me. and warned me that Frogg was watching for an opportunity to kill me. I had been cautioned by a number of persons. There were two men with me at the time Mrs. Beatty spoke to us, and I told the boys that I would settle the matter by going direct to Frogg's house and killing him. His wife was at the door pealing apples. I dismounted and went in. He was lying in bed, and on see me, pulled the cover over his face. I then shot him twice. His wife ran away, and as I passed out I met Miss Russel, who lives near there. She asked me what was the matter? I told her that Frogg was killed, and that she had better go in and look after him. No words whatever were passed between Frogg and myself. I consider myself justified in killing him.

as it has been termed, was no work of mine. was not in the fight, and did not kill any negroes as charged. I acknowledge, however, that I killed Lieut. Smith in Emory and Henry hospital. I had a motive in committing the act. He captured a number of my men at different times, and always killed the last one of them. I was instigated to kill him, but I will not say by whom, as I do not wish to criminate my friends. Smith belonged to the 13th Kentucky, and operated around Burksville I will say this much—he never insulted my wife or daughter, as reported. He was a relative of my first wife, and always treated my family with respect. He is the only man I killed at or near Saltsville, and I am not sorry for killing him.

ESQUIRE ZACHERY. I suppose that I am responsible for the killing of Esquire Zuhery, but I was not the man who shot him. I shot at him, but one of my men fired the ball that killed him. He was in command of a company of bushwhackers, and was seeking my life .-We went to his house for the purpose of killing him, in order to save my own life. He was a clever man before the war, but got over it soon after the war broke out, and arrayed himself in deadly hostility to his old friends and neighbors.

KILLING OF DR. M'GLOSSON.

I am entirely ignorant of such a man as Dr. Mc-Glosson, and never heard of him until the charges were read to me. He was no doubt in a fight way up the river, in which several were killed on both sides. I recollect of chasing a man to the verge of a bluff, and he ran to a fence. As he was getting over it I shot him. He might have been Dr. McGlosson, but I hardly think so, for they say the Doctor was killed several miles from the creek. I know that he was never captured by me or any of my men. The story of my taking him out and telling him to run for his life and then shooting him, is a lie manufactured of whole cloth. He never fell into my hands, and I am innocent if he was killed in the fight, as he no doubt was. I am charged with killing many persons, who fell in battle, amd a good many killed by other commands are laid at my door.

FOUNT ZACHERY. I confess that I shot the lad Fount Zachery, and stabbed him after he fell to the ground. We were out on a scout, and expected a fight that night. Jim Mc-Henry was in command, and had given us orders to shoot down any person who might be seen with guns. As we neared a creek, the lad emerged from a thicket with a gun on his shoulder. I shot him on sight in

THE SLAUGHTER OF THE TWELVE SOLDIERS.

I am charged with killing twelve soldiers at Saltsville. I am innocent of the charge. I know they were killed by Hughes' and Bledsoe's commands, and they were fairly killed in battle. There were thirty instead of twelve that fell on that day, and it was a regular fight.

JOSEPH STOVER AND OTHERS.

I killed Joseph Stover after he had shot at me twice. He was taking a third aim when I shot him in the month, and Fount Frost shot him in the side at the same time. William Johnson was run over a cliff and one of the boys shot him. I shot and killed rierce, as he was running, with a double-barreled shot gun. They were all Home Guards, and seeking

ALEXANDER HOUGH.

I am innocent of killing Alexander Hough. was a cousin to my mother, and I always liked him. I protested against his being killed, and guarded him myself in the rear, until he broke and run, when one of Bledsoe's men shot and killed him.

ELISHA KOGIER.

I killed Elisha Kogier, and done a good trick when I did it. He watched my house day and night, and sometimes until he was nearly frozen, to get a chance to kill me. He was a treacherous dog, and richly merited his fate. A number of very affecting stories are told in connection with his death.

ELAM HUDDLESTON.

I did not kill Elam. I was along, however. I think Ab. Hildreth shot him. I know that Elam shot at me, and the ball grazed my clothes. PETER ZACHERY AND OTHERS.

I killed Peter Zachery after one of the most desperate struggles that I ever had in my life. We fell to the floor, and he kept shooting, while I would knock the pistol aside. I finally got out my knife and stabbed him a few times, killing him. There were several in the house and we had ordered them to surrender. Allen Zachery was killed by one of the boys. John Williams was shot by Ben Barton, and David Delk was shot by another of our boys, all at the same time.

JOHN CRABTREE. I killed Affey Williams and a negro man in the mountains. I shot and stabbed them. They were scouting after my command, and they found the head of it.

BOSWELL TABER.

I killed Boswell Taber as a bush whacker. He had killed three of my men a few days previous. He was in front of his house when I shot him. He ought to have been killed sooner.

DUVAL AND HURT.

I shot at Duval and Hurt, but did not kill either of them. I don't know who killed them. Hurt shot through my coat and into my saddle.

I say, before my God, that the statements I have made comprises all the killing in which I have figured, and I have told the whole truth in every case. I give them freely and without reservation.

I told my lawyers, and you will recollect of my telling you, that that court was bound to convict me. I was not fooled on that. I think the Judge Advocate run things entirely too far. My counsel did well, but it was useless, for every point of law in my favor was overruled; and they intimidated. -But I am about as well reconciled to my fate as any man could possibly be.

Mendacious Despatches.

The most disgusting features of radical abolition character have been left for development to a period in which an assimilated peace exists. While generosity and conservatism have distinguished the veterans of the North and South, Union and former dis-union men, the skulkers and bomb-proof wretches of the North have studiously attempted to libel the South, and while promoting the punishment of Wirz and others, indite the most arrant falsehoods to palilate the outrages perpetrated by their own leaders. The most recent riece of mendacity we have to notice is the associated press summary of news, in which the annexed passage occurred :

"Lieutenant-Colonel Von Borcke, late Adjutant General of cavalry, writes to the Times a statement that the documents found on the person of Colonel Dahlgren after he was killed were forgeries." Now the following is the letter of Colonel Von

B rcke thus described : To the Editor of the Times:

Sir:-In answer to a letter of Mr. Benjamin, the former Confederate Secretary of State, as to the treatment of Federal prisoners, H. A. Wise, U. S. Navy. accuses the Confederate authorities of having forged and talsely published papers found on the body of Colonel Ulric Dahlgren. Having, besides my convictions that neither Mr. Davis or Mr. Benjamin could ever have committed so base an action, the positive knowledge of their perfect innocence in this matter, I regard it as my duty and a proud privilege to appear publicly for their defence, and to declare the accusation untrue and unjust. Disabled by wounds, I found myself in Richmond at the time of the Dahlgren raid, and was the very morning after Colonel Dahlgren's death in company with General Fitz I. e, when, about 10 A. M., Lieutenant Pollard, of the 9th Virginia cavalry, who, with a party of his own and volunteers of several other regiments, had opposed Colonel Dahlgren's movement, arrived from the fight and entered the General's room, making the following report:

"Knowing of Colonel Dahlgren's approach with far superior numbers to my own, I put my men in ambush, awaiting the enemy. Colonel Dahlgren was riding a short distance ahead of his men. He had gotten quite near to us, when I called out to him to surrender. Instead of doing so, the Colonel turned to his command, giving the order to charge, whereupon my men fired a volley, by which the Colonel was instantly killed, pierced by several bullets, as nearly all the shots had been aimed at nis person. The soldiers under his command turned to rapid flight. On the Colonel's dead body I found a memorandum book and some loose orders and papers, the contents of which I regarded as important enough to deliver them in person.

The Lieutenant then handed Fitz Lee the documents in question, the contents of which were read by both of us with feelings of the greatest indignation, and half an hour afterwards carried by the General personally to President Davis. The papers afterwards published by the Confederate authorities are identical with those which I read a few hours after they had been taken from Dahlgren's body, and which documents, under the circumstances, must be supposed to have been written by the Colonel's own hand.

General Fitz Lee, who is still alive in Virginia, will, if desired, fully corroborate the above statement.

Your obedient servant, HEROS VON BORCKE, Lieutenant-Colonel and late Adjutant-General of the Cavalry of the Army of Virginia.

It will be seen that this telegraphic agent deliberately and willfully lied. That is just the English BIBLICAL RECORDER .- This weekly religious paper, amther Raleigh institution, has been revived after some months suspension and we welcome it as one if the most opportune things for the times. The edior and proprietor, Rev. James D. Huffham, wields aready and graceful, as well as able pen, and if sistained as the enterprise deserves to be, he will contribute much towards premoting healthful morality apart from any denominational considerations. As a family visitor it will be in place in every flousehold, hearing besides the religious element, there is an interesting variety of matter news and otherwise. One copy 12 months $4; six months $2.50—advertising rates liberal.

It is but just to say that it has seldom been our pleasure to examine a paper the typographical arrangement of which pleased us better.

OUR CITY. - The correspondent of "The Nation" newspaper, printed in New York, thus gives his impressions of our city:

"Raleigh is a less considerable city than I had supposed, and the business part of it is neither large nor handsome; but its broad avenues, abundant trees, gentle declivities, and rather elegant private residences, make it the prettiest Southern town, and with the most external evidence of taste and refinement, that I have yet seen. Its name of the 'city of oaks' must have been given it, I should say, by some approaching it from the pine lands to the southward, for the number of those trees is not remarkable. The first days of October here are very enjoyable, being hazy and cool without frosts, and the moonlit nights are even finer than the days. But the air is heavy and motionless, and cannot expand the chest; it brings with it a faint suggestion of decaying vegetation, and one begins to think of Carolinian slow fevers and agues."

This is a tolerably clever picture of the city in most respects, but we are not aware that this section is particularly favorable to chills and fevers. On the contrary, we claim that, except in the more mountainous regions, no geographical division of North Carolina is more healthy than our own.

PEDLARS.—On the sly, a posture which younglings say gives zest to kissing, a number of pedlars are vending wares around town without authority of law. They offer pinch-back jewelry to freedmen upon the gold basis and otherwise swindle them. They ought to be pointed out to the police for arrest and punishment, for they pursue their avocation in most instances without complying either with our local or the national regulation.

To BE Successful—we take it for granted—is the wish of every candidate in the present campaign. They must therefore supply the ammunition promptly to the scouts and we inform them that election tickets, in any quantity, from one to fifty thousand, can be printed at this office on the shortest possible notice. PERSONAL.—Brevet-Brigadier General G. F. Granger, for a long time the popular post commandant of Raleigh, arrived in town Saturday night and is stopping at the Exchange Hotel. He has, during his trip North, been seduced from the straight and narrow paths of oachelorhood and is no longer a single man. His wife is with him.

THE CITY. - Yesterday, notwithstanding the fact that the police were extraordinarily vigilant, they found no case for prosecution. Since the establishment of our police we have heard of but very few riots, and now, with half a dozen lying in striking distance, the thieves of the city hardly ever show themselves. So much for proper municipal regula-

RAILROAD ACCIDENT .- Chas. Holeman, an engineer on the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad, met with his death, on Friday last, by the explosion of the engine. He was a gentleman universally beloved, without an enemy; a Virginian by birth, a native of Isle of Wight county, and generally regarded as one of nature's noblemen.

CHAS. H. CUTHBERT, once of the house of Pittman & Cuthbert, is now going it alone in the Cockade city. Among the many business men in Petersburg, we know of no one who is more worthy of confidence than Mr. C. He has had large experience, and enjoys high reputation for promptness and energy. See advertisement.

AUCTION. - Those in want of groceries and other things essential to house keeping, should not fail to be present at the auction sale of B. P. Williamson & Co., to-morrow. It offers a rare chance to those who wish to buy advantageously, particularly if they are about to commit matrimony.

DIRECT TAXES .- Judge Sears will keep his office open in the supreme court room at the capitol for about ten days longer. Those who have not paid up should do so at once and thus save money. Failing in this, they must expect to reap the penalties provided by law.

A. & N. C. R. R.-In Saturday's paper it was announced that the military had abandoned this road, the company assuming its management. It may be of interest to say that a meeting of the Board of Directors will be held in Newbern on Wednesday next, the 1st of November.
