Entertainment.
Mrs. Armstrong, at her large and commodious two-story white house, on Fayetteville street, opposite the Court-house, where she is well prepared to accommodate a party of thirty, or thirty-five members of the approaching Assembly, takes this opportunity to inform them that those who may call on her, every attention shall be paid them as there will be no pains spared to render her entertainment agreeable. Her terms are reasonable, she has procured the best rooms in the city, for their reception. As for her table, it shall always be supplied with the best market affords, and that plentifully.
Transient people will be accommodated as usual, as there is an excellent stable on the lot well furnished with corn, fodder and every thing necessary.
Raleigh, September 10, 1819. 37-ct.

Entertainment.
Mrs. JETTER, respectfully informs the public that she will continue to keep a House of Entertainment at the UNION HOTEL.
Near the Court-house. A young man of integrity has been employed to attend the BALL, which will be furnished with the best spirits the country affords. Her house is large, affording convenient and private rooms for Families and Travelers. Every exertion will be made to accommodate comfortably those who in patronize her Establishment.

One hundred dollars reward.
RENAWAY from the subscriber, on the 3d July 1819, two negroes, one named Jacob, about thirty five years old, of yellow complexion, about five feet ten inches high, when spoken to answers very quick. When he runs from me he carries with him one blue coat and pants of common broad cloth, one pair ditto of green broad cloth, double worst, and one new tanned hat and one pair of boots. The woman named Jude, about forty years old, is inclined to yellow, of a thin visage, thick lips, with a blue look. When she left me she carried off two silk frocks, one of them were black, and the other checked, one bonnet, of red changeable silk. Jacob is a very sensible cunning fellow and will try to pass as a free person of colour. I think likely they have procured free passes, Jacob will likely pass by the name of John Bell, he can read—Jude will pass by the name of Vilet Horn, as she has procured a pass from a woman by that name. I think it most likely they will make for the north. I will give the above reward to any person delivering them to me or securing them in any jail so that I get them again.
EZEKIEL STATON.
Tarborough, July 25, 1819.

Uncommon.
COMMITTED to the jail of Wake county, on the 20th day of August last a white woman, who says her name is Sally Henderson, together with a negro man, who says his name is Gilbert and belongs to Andrew Hinton of Wake County, N. C. the woman when first apprehended, claimed the negro as her own property, but it appears from every circumstance they intended going to some Foreign Country.
