Valuable Land and Mills

FOR SALE.

THE subscriber will sell on the most accommodating terms, 600 acres of Land, or a part of it, within three and a half miles of Raleigh; on which, is a healthy high situation, where I now live—also, a Saw and Grist Mill nearly new, built on a very constant stream and run with velocity; about 75 or 100 acres of the land is in cultivation, on which, is a very profitable Crab Apple Orchard, together with other kinds of orchards, containing 4 or 500 trees.—There is also, 40 or 50 acres of rich meadow land, which can be watered with little work from springs that never fail. The land is very heavily timbered, and a better watered tract cannot be found in the county—the soil is well adapted to the culture of wheat, corn, cotton and tobacco. Persons desirous of purchasing are invited to view the premises.—Terms and possession will be made easy.

Committed,

TO the jail of Pasquotank county, as runaways, two negro men, who call themselves JOHNSON, and WM SHAVERS.—Johnson is a young likely fellow, about 25 years of age, very black, about 5 feet 8 or 10 inches high, speaks rather slow, has a down look, and says that he belongs to a Mr James Hooker of the town of Washington in this state, and that he has been runaway nearly five years.—William Shavers is about 4 feet 2 or 3 inches high, about 36 years of age, yellowish complexion has a scar across his breast, and one on the ball of his right thumb, also one on the right side of his left hand near the joint of his thumb, says he is free, and produced a certificate of his freedom, signed by James Roachelle, as Clerk of the Court of Southampton county, State of Virginia, but not having the court seal it is supposed to be a forged paper. The owner or owners of said slaves, if any, are hereby notified to come forward, pay expenses, and comply with the law in such cases made and provided, or else they will be dealt with accordingly.

which are situated in a fine delightful country, near the summit of the Alleghany, in Montgomery county, Virginia, and on the direct route from the middle and upper parts of North-Carolina to all the celebrated watering places in Virginia, and also, nearly on the main route from the northern and eastern parts of Virginia to the south.

In addition to the advantages these Springs possess from their locality, the subscriber takes the liberty to observe, that the salubrity of the surrounding atmosphere, being entirely free from all noxious vapour—the medicinal qualities of the water, which, on trial, by analization, and numerous experiments of its salutary effects in removing many diseases incident to the human system, such as all cutaneous complaints, diseases in the bladder and kidnies, and all uterine affections, and its incomparable value in restoring constitutional habits, acting almost invariably on the system as a tonic, a diuretic, and (which is very extraordinary, but strictly true,) as a cathartic; together with the accommodations, which the subscriber pledges himself shall be equal to those at any watering place in the state, will, he flatters himself, be sufficient motives to induce gentlemen and ladies who may be disposed to visit any springs in the state, to give them a preference.

Private Entertainment.

THE subscriber has purchased the House and Lot formerly occupied by James Mears, as a Public House in the city of Raleigh, and has removed to the same, where he intends keeping a House of Entertainment, for the accommodation of Travellers, and all others that may think proper to call on him.—Owing to the pecuniary embarrassment of the times, he has reduced his charges as low as possibly can be afforded, which are as follows:—$ 9 per month, (lodging included,) Breakfast 25 cents, Dinner 50 cents, Supper 25 cents, Lodging 10 cents; the rooms are large and convenient. He will also keep Horses at the following prices: 9 dollars per month 50 cents per day, and 25 cents single feed; the stables are very large and in excellent order, which will be supplied with the best of provender.

The subscriber cannot refrain, on the present occasion, from expressing his thanks, for past favors, and solicits a continuation; no pains will be spared to render every thing comfortable.

LOTTERY,
For the benefit of the Smithfield ACADEMY.

THE subscribers having been appointed by an act of the Legislature of the state of North Carolina, managers of the above lottery; and having entered into bond for the faithful performance of the duties; and the payment of all prizes according to law, now offer to the public the following

Subject to a deduction of 15 per cent. and not two blanks to a prize.

The managers trusting to the public spirit, which has hitherto and still ought to animate every town in support of education, upon which more than any thing else, our national honor and independence depends, confidently hope that the patronage of enlightened individuals and of the public at large will soon enable them to complete the sale of tickets, and the drawing of the Lotterty.

The present scheme does not embrace the capitol for which the managers have given bond, nor does it a template to raise the sum authorized by law: yet as the experiment is untried, they have thought proper to propose the first class on as small a scale as possible, reserving to themselves the right of proceeding in future to one or two additional classes.

As soon as a sufficient number of tickets are disposed of the drawing will commence, and the public will be notified through the medium of papers when the drawing has closed.

The prizes will be paid within sixty days after the drawing, and all prizes not demanded within one year from the drawing will be considered as forfeited for the benefit of the institution.

From the London Paper of July 9.

THE QUEEN.

In the house of lords yesterday, a deal of routine business was transacted. Lord DACRE presented the following petition from her majesty "Caroline Regina." The Queen observing the most extraordinary report made in the house of lords by the secret committee, and now lying on the table, represents to the house, that she is prepared, at this moment, to defend herself against it, as far as she can understand its import. The Queen also states, that there are various matters touching the same, which it is absolutely necessary, with a view to her future defence, to have stated in the present state of the proceeding. The Queen therefore prays that she may be heard by her counsel touching such matters." Lord DACRE then urged the propriety of counsel being heard on behalf of the Queen, and said, that if the petition was agreed to, he should vote that counsel be called in. Lord LIVERPOOL stated, that after he had obtained leave to bring in the bill, he should move that a copy be presented to the Queen, and then the petition might be regularly taken into consideration. The petition was strongly supported by Lord GREY and other noblemen on the side of the opposition, but the motion of Lord Dacre that counsel be heard, was negatived without a division.

The earl of LIVERPOOL then rose to submit to their lordships the bill of which he had given notice. He then moved that a bill of pains and penalties for depriving Caroline Queen of England of her rights, privileges, and prerogatives should be read a first time. The bill, of which the following is a literal copy was then read by the clerk:

"And whereas her royal highness not only advanced the said Bartolomo Pergami, otherwise Bartolomo Bergami, to a high situation in her royal highness's household, and received him into her service, and that in high and confidential situations about her royal highness's person, but bestowed upon him other great and extraordinary marks of favor and distinction, obtained for him orders of knighthood and titles of honor;
