IN SENATE. Friday, Feb. 21.

Friday, Feb. 21. The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, then proceeded to consider the bill from the House of Representatives, "Supplementary to the acts to provide for certain persons engaged in the land and naval service of the United States in the Revolutionary War." [This bill provides for the restoration to the mension but of the name tof size

[This bill provides for the restoration to the pension list, of the name "of any person who may have been, ar hereafter shall be, stricken therefrom, in pursu-ance of the act of Congress, passed the 1st day of May, 1820, if such person, so stricken from the list of pensioners, has heretofore furnished, or hereafter shall farnish, evidence, in pursuance of the provisions of said act, to satisfy the Secretary of War that he is in such in-digent circumstances as to be unable to supnort himself without the assistance of support himself without the assistance of his country."] Messes. Mills, Morril, and Lowrie, spoke in favor of, and Mr. Noble against, the bill.

Mr. Lowrie proposed, as an amend-tent to the bill, an additional section, providing for a reduction of 20 per cent, on the amounts hereafter to be paid to all the Revalutionary Pensioners.

In support of this motion-Mr. Lowrie observed that his remarks on this subject would take up very little time, for he was well aware that the friends of a measure sometimes destroy it by too much speaking. The expense of the Pension List for four years, is as

Sec. 2.	01 011 000 06
1.1.4	$1,811,528 96
1.16	1,373,849 41
2.5	1,200,000 00
10.00	1,835,936 30

6,219,114 67 One quarter of which is $1,554,778 per annun.

There are 2,328 men who, under the provisions of this act, may be placed upon the list. This number, and no more, will be affected by its provisions. This is the utmost extent to which the bill goes, and by no possible construction can more be embraced. The expense of that number, supposing, what is not probable, that all will be placed on the list, according to the estimate of the Chairman of the Committee, (Mr. Noble,) is $223,000. The estimate I have made, amounts to $350,000. This is $137,000 beyond that of the chairman; and if it be erroneous, it is too large; and it is the utmost limit of the expense. Now, for the other side. By the present law, there are near 6,000 of the United States, together with the who may get on the list. Now, sup-several amendments (or substitutes) pose but one half of that number be placed on the list. This may, and will take place, whether you pass this bill or not. If placed on the list, they will be entitled to back pensions from the time they were suspended by the act of 1820 which will be about three years. The amount, then, for back pension alone, for 5,000 men, will be,900,000 dollars. You have now the advantage and disadvantage of this bill, as it respects the Treasury, The calculation, to my mind, is perfectly satisfactory .-- Any gentleman can satisfy himself by making a few figures; and, from this view of the principles of the bill, it is perfectly evident that the Treasury will not lose by it. But, sir, said Mr. L. I wish to look a little further into the subject. Our expense for this list is now between one million and a half and two millions of dollars. Whether this bill is passed or not, the list will soon swell to two millions of dollars. This is a large sum; and the question must be met, where will you get the money? Will you lay The engrossed bill to amend the act will you get the money? Will you lay a tax to raise it? That, sir, would make us all pause, in these times. Will you repeal the law? To that I will never consent. I then, sir, to relieve the pressure on the treasury, propose an concurrence. The Senate then took up the bill to amendment, to reduce the pensions 20 per cent. This would give each pri-vate $76 80. That sum, sir, is worth dria, and Caroline Eliza Wheelwright, as much as 96 dollars was at the time of his wife. passing the original act. On the sub-in favour of the bill, and Messrs. Macon and Smith, of South-Carolina, opposed it. Mr. Lloyd, of Massachusetts, said he considered the amendment adopted by the committee, on motion of the honor-able member from Pennsylvania. (Mr. Lowrie,) as giving a death blow to the bill. As much as he might feel in fa-vour of any other parts of the uill, he could not vote for it, if that amendment were adopted, which he considered as a breach of faith. The government hav-ing entered into a contract to pay to ing entered into a contract to pay to these pensioners a certain stipulated sum during life, any reduction of that rum would amount to a violation of the faith of the government. For this rea-son, he should vote against the bill as amended.

The bill was then reported to the enate, with the amendment.

The question on adopting the amend-ment was taken by Yeas and Nays, and lecided in the affirmative; 23 to 22.

Naval Affairs, made a report on the pe-tition of Robert F. Stockton, late commander of the United States' schooner Alligator, accompanied by a bill for his relief; which was twice read.

On motion of Mr. Williams, of Tennessee, the Committee on Military Affairs were discharged from the further consideration of the memorial of the Legislature of Alabama, praying that the military works for the defence of the bay and harbor of Mobile may be completed.

The Senate took up the following reolution, submitted yesterday by Mr. Brown, of Ohio:

Resolved, That the President of the United States be requested to communicate to the Senate, confidentially, or otherwise, as be shall think fit, any information in his pomession, which he may not deem improper to be communicated, relative to the present state and condition of the Mexican Empire.

On motion of Mr. King, of Alabama, this resolution was ordered to lie on the table

The Senate then, according to the order of the day, resumed the consideration of the Resolution offered by Mr. Taylor of Va. proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, in regard to the election of President offered to the resolution, by Mr. Dick erson and Mr. Holmes of Maine. Mr. Taylor, of Virginia, rose and spoke some time, in reply to the re-marks submitted by Mr. Dickerson on a former day, and in support of his own proposition, and against that of Mr. D. Mr. Smith, of Maryland, replied to Mr. Taylor, in a speech of about half an hour-advocating Mr. Dickerson's proposition, in preference to Mr. Taylor's. On motion of Mr. Eaton, the subject was then aid on the table. The Senate took up the amendment of the House of Representatives to the Cumberland Road bill, and agreed, without objection, to substitute the word 'public" for the word "national," as applied to the Road.

PRINTING. Of everydentiption, executed at this Office Monday, Feb. 24.

The joint resolution directing the printing of a certain number of the Journals of the Revolutionary Congress,

[Mr. W. petitions for a divorce, on the ground of the insanity of his wife, at passing the original act. On the sub-ject of reduction, I propose no measure to the pensioners which I would not vote for as it respects myself? For I neither will tax the people or borrow money, while any prudent reduction can be made. The present amendment in a billion of the instantity of his wife, at the ground of the instantity of his wife, at the time of his marriage, (though then to him unknown;) of the increase of the malady until it became entirely settled and confirmed; of its having now con-tinued for several years, and the belief, in which he has the opinion of the physmoney, while any prident reduction can be made. The present amendment will relieve the treasury from about 8400,000. That sum I would give to those who are not on the list. The mo-ney we now pay, I would still pay; but I would distribute it to more individu-als. Numbers are not on the list, who have as good a right to be thereas these who are now there. In doing this, we do more justice than by keeping the door closed against those who are now without. Still, sir, should the amendment, int I would to so under the full conviction, that even without the amendment, in the same of manning with the disachusetts, (whether an afficient the seven without the amendment, in the same of marinage was contracted) was not the proper place for the petitioner to seek it; whether it was right for floar cing 20 per cent all pensions which have heretofore, or may hereafter be allowed.] On motion of Mr. Kelly, the 3d sec-tion was stricken out, and a substitute adopted, providing that no pension here-after allowed under this act on claims hetetofore filed, shall commence prior to the passage of this act; and that all other pensions hereafter allowed shall commence from the time of completing the proof,

The question being taken on order-ing the bill, as amended, to be read the third time, it was decided in the affirmative.

The engrossed bill to enable the hold-ers of French, British, and Spanish land titles in Louisiana, not heretofore recognized by the government of the U. States, to institute proceedings to try the validity of the same; and the engrossed bill to establish a national armory on the western waters, were vere rally read the third time, passed, and sent to the House of Representatives for concurrence.
