

THE STAR
Published weekly, by
LAWRENCE & DEMAY.

...the whole...
...the whole...
...the whole...

...the whole...
...the whole...
...the whole...

Table with columns: State, Reps., Demos., Total. Lists various states and their respective representatives.

...the whole...
...the whole...
...the whole...

...the whole...
...the whole...
...the whole...

LA VASSEUR'S TOUR.

The following is a translation from this work, recently published in France. La Fayette's visit to the Hermitage.

At 1 o'clock, we embarked with a numerous company to go to dine with General Jackson, residing at the distance of some miles up the river.

The first thing that struck me on arriving at the residence of Gen. Jackson was the simplicity of his habitation. Still a little governed by his European habits, I demanded if this could really be the dwelling of the most popular man in the United States.

On re-entering the house, some friends of General Jackson, who probably had not seen him for a long time, begged him to show them the arms that he had received after the last war.

In the Superior Court of Alabama, at Montgomery, a very interesting cause was lately tried. It was an action for debt, brought by David H. Mitchell, a citizen of Alabama, against Alexander...

...the whole...
...the whole...
...the whole...

General LA FAYETTE lately made a tour through some of the French provinces, and was every where received with the greatest respect and enthusiasm. A London paper says: "Never was King or Queen and treated as this venerable remnant of the revolution has been."

Sunday Mella.—It is intimated in some of the public prints, that renewed efforts will be made to stop the Mail at the next session of Congress.

It appears from those statements that the administration majority in the Senate has experienced a decrease of two members since the last session, and in the House an increase of forty-two. The majority in the Senate is, however sufficient for the ratification of appointments—and in the House, to create division among the different interests which compose the party.

The Walls of Constantinople.—The walls on the land side of Constantinople are about five miles in length, from the Castle of the Seven Towers, on the Marston, to the northern point of the Golden Horn.

Original Anecdote.—A lawyer in S. H. who is noted for profanity, and of course for an irreligious life, being deeply engaged in an argument, declared that rather than yield to his opponents he would carry his suit to the court of Heaven.

The New Orleans Mercantile Advertiser of the 25th ult. states that the Barque Warren, of Thomas-town, lying at Fort Jackson, with a cargo of bricks, iron powder, &c. was on Saturday morning just at half past three o'clock, discovered to be on fire.

In the Superior Court of Alabama, at Montgomery, a very interesting cause was lately tried. It was an action for debt, brought by David H. Mitchell, a citizen of Alabama, against Alexander...

...the whole...
...the whole...
...the whole...

...the whole...
...the whole...
...the whole...

THE SULTAN MAHMOUD. We published, some time ago, a short account of Sultan Mahmoud's visit to the French family of the Danish Ambassador at Paris. Last week, we found in the Courier de Smyrne, of June 21, a more circumstantial relation, which has been translated for this gazette, and which exhibits his Sublimity in a light as amiable as novel.

A circumstance, which at first appears of no importance, but which really has no parallel in the annals of the empire, took place yesterday. The Sultan Mahmoud, whose actions are always the effect of some particular design, who, within so short a period, has overcome prejudices which all Europe supposed insurmountable, and who, on this account, has enjoyed a success even more rapid and more brilliant than that of Peter the Great, yesterday paid a visit to a French family and passed several hours in its company.

Yesterday morning the Sultan left Therapia in a boat, proceeded in the port of Buyukdere, where some troops of the imperial guard are encamped, and reviewed the preparations which are making there for the celebration of the fete of Bairam.

Madame de Hulsch.—The Secretaries having procured from one of them (Mad'le Emilie) her drawings, her talent for landscape painting having gained considerable celebrity, presented them to the Sultan, who requested the artist to explain to him the subjects of them.

One of the young ladies executed many pieces of the best masters, and the Sultan, who had listened with great attention, and who appeared delighted with the music, complimented the Baroness on the talent of her daughter, Mad'le Emilie having left the piano, the Grand Signior arose and begged the ladies would be so kind as to accompany him to the house to see the portrait of the late Baron de Hulsch.

One of the young ladies executed many pieces of the best masters, and the Sultan, who had listened with great attention, and who appeared delighted with the music, complimented the Baroness on the talent of her daughter, Mad'le Emilie having left the piano, the Grand Signior arose and begged the ladies would be so kind as to accompany him to the house to see the portrait of the late Baron de Hulsch.

One of the young ladies executed many pieces of the best masters, and the Sultan, who had listened with great attention, and who appeared delighted with the music, complimented the Baroness on the talent of her daughter, Mad'le Emilie having left the piano, the Grand Signior arose and begged the ladies would be so kind as to accompany him to the house to see the portrait of the late Baron de Hulsch.

One of the young ladies executed many pieces of the best masters, and the Sultan, who had listened with great attention, and who appeared delighted with the music, complimented the Baroness on the talent of her daughter, Mad'le Emilie having left the piano, the Grand Signior arose and begged the ladies would be so kind as to accompany him to the house to see the portrait of the late Baron de Hulsch.

One of the young ladies executed many pieces of the best masters, and the Sultan, who had listened with great attention, and who appeared delighted with the music, complimented the Baroness on the talent of her daughter, Mad'le Emilie having left the piano, the Grand Signior arose and begged the ladies would be so kind as to accompany him to the house to see the portrait of the late Baron de Hulsch.

One of the young ladies executed many pieces of the best masters, and the Sultan, who had listened with great attention, and who appeared delighted with the music, complimented the Baroness on the talent of her daughter, Mad'le Emilie having left the piano, the Grand Signior arose and begged the ladies would be so kind as to accompany him to the house to see the portrait of the late Baron de Hulsch.

...the whole...
...the whole...
...the whole...

...the whole...
...the whole...
...the whole...

...the whole...
...the whole...
...the whole...

...the whole...
...the whole...
...the whole...

...the whole...
...the whole...
...the whole...

...the whole...
...the whole...
...the whole...

...the whole...
...the whole...
...the whole...

...the whole...
...the whole...
...the whole...

...the whole...
...the whole...
...the whole...

...the whole...
...the whole...
...the whole...

...the whole...
...the whole...
...the whole...

...the whole...
...the whole...
...the whole...

...the whole...
...the whole...
...the whole...

...the whole...
...the whole...
...the whole...

...the whole...
...the whole...
...the whole...

...the whole...
...the whole...
...the whole...

...the whole...
...the whole...
...the whole...

...the whole...
...the whole...
...the whole...

...the whole...
...the whole...
...the whole...

...the whole...
...the whole...
...the whole...

...the whole...
...the whole...
...the whole...

...the whole...
...the whole...
...the whole...