To the Etdore of the Star. Gentlemen .- In the Star of the 25th nerant, Do tue Huut has been so good as to give information to his " auonymous commentator," as he calls him, that "he never notices the attacks of one who serks to fight behind a Q." It is extremely curious, indeed, that arguments lose their weight and importance, by being anonymous, or plared over a letter of the English alphabet. The author of Q. did not consider bimself board to give his real name, as Doctor Hunt's remarks upon Mr. Letand's letter were before the pub lie, and subject to the animativersions of any person who might think proper to examine them; and further, the Doc tor was considered a man of so great zeal and invincible courage, that he would alternot the confutation of any argument that could be brought forward, name or no name. It is much easier to quibble about ceremonies of title or no consideration, than to anower arguments. Some pretext for getting off, is better than none. The author of Q dont much like the Doctor's terin " commentator;" for he never considered himself as writing a commen ary moon the Dactor's puerile of fact to contate the doctrine contained in Mr. Leland's letter.

Marning to Parents .- In infant shild was ecently burnt to death in Granville county. The mother left it asleep in the cradle, and went out to attend to some of her domestic affairs, and when she returned, the cradle and clothes were consumed, and part of the child's body burnt to sshes! It is supposed a spark of fire was weapped up with the child when it was laid down.

Fire.-The dwelling house of Mr. Robert lones, in Granville, we regret to learn, was lately destroyed by fire. It was consumed in the day time, and the fire was communicated to the building by the burning of shavings in the fire-place. This is the second time Mr. J. has with the same misfertune within the s

Fire at Wilmington -It is with regret we learn from the Wilmington Recorder, that that town has been visited by another fire. At about day break, on the 1st instant, the house occupied by Mrs. George Smith, bordering on Front and Chesnut Streets, and owned by St John's Lodge, was consumed by fire Besides the principal loss, which falls on the Louge, whose policy of insurance had expired on the preceding da, Mrs. Smith sustained the loss of part of her furathere; and the fire companies were under the necessity of pulling down Mr. Lawton's cabinet work shop on the contiguous lot. The cause of the fire is attributed to the carelessness of a servant, in leaving a candle in the pastry, which, after burning most of the night, communicated fire to the window.

Distressing Accident -The Worfolk paper mounce the death of Mr. John Harrell Hertford county, under the following afflicting ircumwances: Mr. Barrell was returning home from court on Monday, the 29d ultimo, with his little son, in a gigs when the horse took fright, and, whilst endeavering to pull him in, the reins broke. Having thus lost all control over his horse, Mr. H. desired his son to jump not, who did so, and escaped without injury. The father then att mpted to escape from the vehicle in the same manuer; but, unfortunately, the wheel came in coutact with his head, and fractured the temporal bone. - He lingered until the following evening, when he expired.

On the 4th instant, a public dinner was given to the Hon. Langdon Cheves at Charleston, S. C. which was numerously attended. Amon the regular toasts were the following:

The President of the United States - May the visition and equity of his administration plan-him as exalted in the estimation of posterity,

FROM MEXICO. We have received late intelligence from Mexico, confirming the ac-Count of Bustamente's trimph over Guerrero, and all the particulars of the new revolution in the Mexican Government, as they have been related in this paper. Mr. Poince t left the city of Mexico on the 3d ultimo, with an escort, provided by the Government, of twenty men, who behaved well on the whole route to Tampico. At this port, he found the Falmouth ready to receive him. The appearance at Vera Crez, some time before, of the three American ships of war, the Falmouth, the Erie, and the Peacock, created a sensation even in the Mexican capital. On the 1st January, the Americans in the city of Mexico gave Mr. Poinsett a grand public dinner, of which we shall publish a tuil a count of Bustamente's teimmph over of which we shall publish a tull a count to-moreow or the next day Cul. "On Sunday, the famous Mr. Poinsett left Mexico, after having fulfilled his diplumatic mission wonderfully well. This renown defounder of Yorkism, on flying from amongst us, was accompanied by militions of curves, and by the Deputy Corecero, who will remain without his love and best friend."

[From the same, 9th January.]
"A few days before the departure of Mr. Poinsett from this capital, the American Cas. Butter arrived, commissioned, it is said, by the Government of Washington, to negociate with ours on the cession of the Province of Texas, and authorised to offer for the same he sum of five millions of dellars. As we are not informed that the Colonel has as yet done any thing in this matter, we presume be does the new Administration the justice to believe them incorpable of lending them selves to a transaction as prejudicial and dis graceful to the Republic as discussivable to the Minister who should subscribe it.

"We understand, also, that Colonel Butler came by land from Philadelphia, and that the
