ry cells, they put Bees's royalone, feed the insect with royal food which is more pungent than that destined for worker grubs and in a few days they have a queen. The knowledge of this fact is in many parts of Germany made the means for multiplying swarms, by shutting up a few hundred bees with the common grubs in a comb.

On those fine days in which the sun is beautiful and warm, duels may often be seen to take place between two inhabitants of the same hive. In some cases the quarrel appears to have been begun within, and the combatants may be seen coming out, eager 'for blows.' Sometimes a bee peaceably settled on the out side of the hive or walking about, is rudely justled by another, and then the attack commences, each endeavoring to obtain the most advantageous position, they turn 'pirouette' and throttle each other. After rolling about in the dust, the victor watching the time when its enemy uncovers his body, by elongating it in the attempt to sting, thrusts its weapon between the scales, and the next instant its antagonist stretches out its quivering wings and expires. A bee cannot be killed so suddenly except by crushing, as by the sting of another bee.

Ants.—Love and courage, patience and perseverance, almost all the higher virtues of human nature, when arrived at the highest pitch of earthly perfection, seem to be the ordinary springs of action in the ant. The instincts of this insect are indisputably more extraordinary than those of any other in the whole range of animated nature. The ancients magnified them into fabulous miracles. Pliny talks of an Indian ant as big as an Egyptian wolf, and of the color of a cat. [Query, what is that color.]

The strength and perseverance of ants are perfectly wonderful. Kirby states, that he once saw two or three horse ants, hauling along a young snake, not dead, which was of the thickness of a goose-quill. Saint Pierre relates, that he saw a number of ants carrying off a Patagonian centipede; they had seized it by all its legs and bore it along as workmen do a large piece of timber. In warm climates, they may be frequently seen marching in columns which exceed all power of enumeration; always pursuing a straight course, from which nothing can cause them to deviate; if they come to a house or other building, they storm or undermine it; if a river cross their path they will endeavor to swim over it, though millions perish in the attempt.

The Jesuit Dobrizhoffer, gives the following account of the ravages of ants known in Paraguay. 'The largest ants which I had the opportunity of seeing, are formidable on account of undermining buildings. Our house, and the one adjoining, suffered severely from these insects. One evening there arose a violent storm with horrible thunder and lightning. Meantime an Indian (the church warden) arrives announcing that the floor of the church was beginning to gape and the wall to open and be inclined. I snatched up a lamp and ran to the place, but had hardly quitted the threshold of my door, when I perceived a gap in the earth, and before I was aware of any danger, sunk up to the shoulders in a pit, in the very place of the chief altar, but scrambled out of it, by the help of the church warden, as quickly as I had got in; for under that altar the ants seemed to have made their metropolis; the cavern was many feet long and wide, so that it had the appearance of a wine cellar. As often as the earth was thrown in by the Indians to fill it, so often was it dug out by the ants. In the plains I have seen ant hills like stone pyramids, three or more ells high, composed of a solid material as hard as stone; the Spaniards hollow them out and use them for ovens. In the plains you may often behold a broad path through which you would swear the legions of Xerxes might have passed. The Portuguese have an old saying, that the ants are queens of Brazil; certainly we have found them the sovereigns of Paraguay.'

NOTES.

1. The Postmaster General reserves the right to expedite the mails, and to alter the times of their arrival and departure, at any time during the continuance of the contract, by giving a proportionate compensation, never exceeding a pro rata allowance, for any extra expense which such alteration may require.

2. Seven minutes shall be allowed for opening and closing the mail at each office, where no particular time shall be specified.

3. For every ten minutes delay in arriving at any point after the time prescribed in the contract, the contractor shall forfeit five dollars, unless the delay shall continue beyond the time fixed for the departure of any pending mail, the forfeiture for which shall be equal to twice the amount allowed for carrying the mail one trip. It will be necessary to appear that the delay was occasioned by unavoidable accident, of which the Postmaster General will be the judge, before the forfeiture may be remitted in whole or in part; but in no case will a greater sum than the amount of pay for a trip, but in no case more than that amount be remitted. The forfeiture for delay is otherwise unconditional, and will in all cases be enforced.

4. Persons who make proposals will state the prices by the year; payments to be made quarterly, in the months of May, August, November and February, one month after the expiration of each quarter.

5. None but a free, white person shall be employed to carry the mail.

6. Proposals should state whether the proposer is to carry the mail in a stage
