[For the State Journal. Battle of Richmond --- Major Sinclair's Report. HEADQT'RS 5TH N. C. TROOPS-3D BRIGADE,] June 2, 1862.

Governor : I have the honor to make the following report of the part taken by the 5th N. C. Infantry in the battle of Saturday-31st ult.

Jas 1 My command, numbering about one hundred and SJH eighty men, took position on the left of the Williams- Wm burg road and occupied the right of Brig. Gen. Gar- Wm land's Brigade. The order of advance having been to move by the right flank, in rear of our skirmishers, at Thos such a distance from the road, that, when brought into | Wm line of battle, our right would occupy a distance of Isaac thirty yards from it. At the word of command, we R.H. began our movement, but had not gone over three White hundred yards, when the skirmishers engaged the en- Lazur emy immediately in our front. Lafay

At this time, Col. D. K. McRae was in command of Henr the regiment, and brought it rapidly into line of bat-Jno tle. We continued our advance in line, but failed to Jerry have the benefit of the shirmishers, as it was impossi-LL ble to keep them in advance, they retired to our flank | Jos I and rear. The regiment was thus under fire of the Richard enemy, concealed under the thick undergrowth, for France full three hundred yards ere we entered the woods. Wm At this point our gallant Colonel having remained Jno

with his regiment on outpost duty for four days, con- Calvin trary to the advice of his Surgeon, found-himself so | Wm weak from over-exertion and complete prostration of | Jos I his entire system, that he was unable longer to sit upon Thos the saddle, and calling to me, yielded the command. Thos Edwa

The regiment continued to advince coolly and deliberately while the enemy showered among us his leaden messengers. We drove him successively from behind logs, brush and trees, until arriving at the felled timber, a portion of some other regiment having gotten too far to the right and a few steps in front and getting alarmed, broke through my centre, dividing the left wing from the colors. The regiment upon my left, pressed so severely upon me that one of my companies was compelled to move by the flank, to avoid being thrown into the road where they would have been raked by the enemy's artillery. I immediately dispatched my acting Adjutant, Lieut. James M. Taylor, to Gen. Garland ; while I, with all the voice and power in my possesion, endeavored to rally my men, which I had about accomplished when the General came up-his few encouraging words, however, aided materially to compose them ; when I appealed to them to uphold the honor of the gallant Fifth, though few in number, and called upon them to rally to the flag of their State (which had already been pierced by the enemy's bullets) it had the desired effect.

I beg to bring to your notice the gallantry of Lieut. J. M. Taylor, my acting Adjutant. I am confident that his coolness and bravery must have attracted the attention of his commanding General, as his very great assistance in aiding me to compose and lead on the men has won my highest esteem.

Lieut. J. A. Jones, of Co. H, is also worthy of hen- Jas orable mention, having lost his own regiment, he join-office, as all letters which appear in this paper are genuine and authentic, and come from the places indicated by the writers:

BUIES CREEK, Harnett Co., June 9, 1862. MESSRS EDITORS: I am very well satisfied with Mr. Wm. Johnson for Governor, and also with his platform. But I hope he will add one more plank | ard" will be as apparent to himself as it is to the to it, and let that be to demolish the office or hang writer of these lines. the editor of every newspaper in North Carolina, who advocates the cause of Lincoln. Lincoln has been very particular to suppress every paper of the North which attempted saying anything in behalf of the South ; and is it possible that our authorities will allow our newspapers to advocate the Yankee cause among us, as the Standard and Progress are doing? 47 I, as an honest man, who received his education between the plough handles, on Hector's Creek, and one 57 who loves justice, and would scorn to misrepresent any one, do candidly believe that Wm. W. Holden, of Raleigh, is doing more harm to North Carolina than Burnside or the Newbern Progress, because every body knows what Burnside and the Progress are. We know they are our enemies and have to take them as such. But there are some good citizens who read no other paper but the Standard, and seem not to understand They take it and Holden to be friends to the South and are thereby awfully deceived. I think the greatest fault in Jeff Davis is, that he is too good a man to see the South have justice, or he would have put a stop to the Raleigh Standard long since. I have as much faith in the cause and final success of the South as any one; but if our authorities will suffer papers among us to publish such matter and advocate such platform as the Standard, I shall have to say with the Progress, 'it is a true sign of the State's speedy return to the bosom of the old Union.' It is true, as the Progress says, about Holden's put-28 ting the lash to the Southern leaders; for he does do it, and he has done it by degrees, taking a step at a 36 time, to see whether he will be allowed to go farther. He has been allowed to spit his venom on the Southern cause, until I look to see him come out, next week, in his platform, his first plank, the main and darling plank of that platform-which will be, if he speak honestly from his heart, "THE STARS AND STRIPES AND THE UNION-AN UNREMITTING DEFENCE OF THE UNION, TO THE LAST EXTREMITY-A FINAL AND ETERNAL RE-UNITING TO THE (OUR MOTHER'S) BOSOM OF THE OLD UNION ! May God Almighty direct us in the right; and if Holden is, or can be, a friend to the South, to make me sensible of it. And as for the Holdenites making Mr. Holden Governor, they have one Governor already, Mr. Stanly, and that ought to satisfy them; and let the Davisites have one. As there are two parties, and only two parties, a Davis and a Lincoln party, it is right, I suppose, for each to have their Governor. Mr. Lincoln has appointed their's; now let us elet Mr. Johnston for ours. This is the true sentiment of ninety-nine hundredths of my district. A DAVISITE, or friend to the South.

From the Richmond Enquirer. The North Carolina Press.

The Raleigh Register copies an article which ap-peared in this paper a few days ago, and appends thereto a commentary, explanatory of its own course on the subject matter of our remarks, namely, the bitter spirit of controversy between leading journals of North Carolina. The Register insists that it was forced into a defence of its position, and that of its friends by the partizan course of the Raleigh Standard. Indeed, the Register assumes that in justice to North Carolina and the Southern Confederacy, a denunciation on its part of the recent course of the Standard was a solemn duty.

Far be it from us to appear in the character of lecturer to our respected friends of the North Carolina press. We would not commit the indelicacy of participating in any wise, in their personal or their political controversies. What we said in the article copied in the "Register," was suggested by the strong and very natural conviction that such a controversy as that in which the journals alluded to are engaged, in the present critical juncture of affairs, cannot fail to have a most unhappy effect upon the Southern cause in the good old North State. We wish our North Carolina brethren to hear us for our cause and their own cause.

With the sincerest respect for the editor of the Standard, he will permit us to say, that his friends outside of North Carolina concur in the justice of the strictures passed upon some of his recent articlesarticles which have given no little aid and comfort to the Northern enemy, as the uses made of them by Lincoln's journals fully show. Has the editor of the Standard seen the reproduction of his articles in the New York "Herald?" Has he seen a late number of that sheet, containing extracts from the "Raleigh Standard," headed in staring capitals, "The Southern Confederacy virtually repudiated in North-Carolina !" We hope that the known appropriation of his articles by the "Herald" will suggest to our friend of the "Standard" the importance of a return to that discretion and self-possession for which he was once distinguished. He is true to the Southern Confederacy, as is almost every body else in North Carolina, and will perhaps be surprised to learn, that he has been instrumental in conveying the impression to the Northern mind that the people of his State are ready to submit to the Lincoln yoke. Yet he is bound to admit the fact, however unpleasant it may be, that the language which he has employed, in his new character of grumbler and fauld-finder, is susceptible of the very interpretation given it by Bennett in his "Herald." If the Northern people could see the "Standard" and read it through, they would not be thus deceived. But seeing only the extracts in the "Herald," they conclude very naturally that North Carolina is about to declare allegiance to Lincoln, because the Raleigh "Standard," as they read it second hand, says so.

We believe that, upon reflection, the indiscretion and impolicy of the course of the editor of the "Stand-ed another and fell near the redout on the right, wounded in the thigh while gallantly cheering on the Sergeant J. M. Miller, of Co. E, my color bearer, acted with great coolness and bravery; after being wounded severely in the leg and falling, he forced the staff in the ground lest the colors might fall. Corporal L. Bain, Co. E, was also conspicuous for his gallantry.

Sergeant James Goodman, Co. H, d-serves honorable mention. At the battle of Williamsburg, he had his rifle shot to pieces in his hand, bruising his art severly, but refused to be classed as wounded and on duty while he could use but one arm. On Sararday, the same arm was again bruised and his rfue literally shattered, but he procured another and went on fighting.

I would also mention the gallant bearing of Corporal Benj. Rollins, of Co. E. The ervice could boast of few such soldiers. He was wounded, I fear mortally, in the right lung, by a grape shot, and though wounded by such a fearful missile, he did not fall nor drop his piece, but walked to the hospital. He remarked to one of the men, that they (the Yankees) had killed him, but a plenty more were left to achieve our independence.

All the officers acted the part of brave and experienced men. I car not speak of individual acts of bravery without doing manifest injustice to all. You will also see, Governor, what a task it is to impose upon a body of one hundred and eighty or two hundred men, the responsibility of upholding the rep- | Capt S B West, k utation of a regiment, for though we do not number. more than two average companies, we are nevertheless | J A Ketchy, classed as a regiment. Party Stronger than Principle.

The Standard utters many complaints of the officials at Raleigh, and says there are various abuses that ought to be reformed. The Standard has a better right certainly than any other person to apply the rod to his own family and late friends. The Standard rendered efficient aid to officer the State Government, thinking, no doubt, that anybody else could not do it so well. The Standard advocated and voted for to this, the Standard had advocated Ad Valorem, and swore, by the Beard of the Prophet that, "forsaking all," he would stick to it. But party overcame his principles, and Governor Ellis, who was opposed to Ad Valorem, received the support of the Standard, and John Pool-the champion of Ad Valorem-the gallant Whig, and sound statesman, was consigned to private life. The Standard no doubt defeated Mr. Pool. And whatever is now going wrong in the State-in the management of the war, (the Standard declares there is much) should be laid at the door of Mr. Holden. Let him see to it, therefore, that matters are better managed at Raleigh than he says they are—until September, when the people will send a relief corns to the Capitol and grant him

Messrs. Editors: I send you some Yankee papers. of date 29th ult., by to-day's mail. These I gathered in charging the camps of the enemy on Saturdaythey had just got their mail.

As every man in North Carolina knew she would, the "Old Fisher 6th" did her work like men. She led the charge and drove the enemy before us for nearly two miles. We then changed front and "pitched into" a masked battery and several thousand Yankees supporting it, all under cover, we had to move up four hundred yards through a ploughed field, with six inches mud in it, all the while they pouring shell, grape and rifle balls on us. We went over this ground in a charge, twice, up to their works, but were for lack of support, compelled to fall back.

We left 120 brave North Carolinians in that open field, but we did not retire beyond the edge of woods, where we could partially shelter and wait for the cowardly Yankees to come from their works, but they would not. Then we brought our wounded off and had them well cared for. We kept their camps, with all sorts of trophies-plenty of coffee, whiskey, bread, cheese, clothing, arms, wagons, tents, &c.

As an officer, I needed a sash, which could not be found in Richmond, but Saturday I got a Yankee Colonel's trappings, so I will be fixed up fine.

Rain, rain all the time-we, poor fellows, lying out in the "broom sedge" fields or in the bushes day and night, with no covering, and it always raining-pretty

From Richmond.

RICHMOND, June 12, 1862. * • • • The result of the late battle before Richmond you are long since in possession of. The troops from your State, with those of other States, have won for themselves an imperishable name. The 4th N. C. seems to have suffered awfully.

At present all is quiet on our lines in front of this city. There are various reports about McClellan withdrawing his forces. I do not believe them. On the other hand I do not see how a battle can be put off many days.

I will from time to time give you the best information I can get. At present all eyes are turned to old Stonewall Jackson. God bless him I say. If he can be reinforced I am of the opinion that McClellan and his grand army will have to leave their position in front of this city.

Gen. Johnson is fast recovering from his wound, Governor Elliis in preference to John Pool. Previous and I hope will be able to take the field in the next fight.

We have no fear of Richmond ever falling into the hands of the Yankees. Our army is now composed of the best fighting men the world has ever seen, and with the blessing of a kind Providence we will be more than equal to any army, the north can send against us.

Col. D. K. McRae and Gen. Pettigrew. The Raleigh Register says that Col. McRae is now in that city, exceedingly unwell. He has with the remnant of his regiment in the battle of Richmond. and the casualties on that occasion reduced his command to about 100 men.
