

STOLEN from the subscriber, on the night of the 4th instant, from Col. L. Dekeyser's stable, a horse, bridle, and saddle. The horse is about four feet ten inches high, of a light chestnut sorrel colour, branded on the near or left shoulder I. S. The letter S is not plain from a slip of the branding iron.—His right hind foot is white, also his leg about half up to the ham—he is wind yall'd very bad in his hind legs—he has remarkable saddle scalds on each side of his back bone, about the middle of his back.

He trots and canters very easy, carry's his head naturally low. Whoever will deliver the said horse to colonel Dekeyser during the sitting of the assembly, shall receive the sum of FIVE POUNDS. The saddle and bridle is some worn, with plated stirrups and bits.
