The New York Times newspaper is a zealous supporter of the reconstruction policy of the President, and Mr. RAYMOND, its editor, is that the Times speaks by the book in the following. Mr. RAYMOND knows the President's union plotters, a wide birth. private views and individual wishes as well as nothing in saying that the following from his recent converts to the policy of Andrew John paper of the 17th, sets forth, correctly, the views of the President on the question of suffrage. The Times says:

"Almost all reflecting men are beginning to see that the whole matter of suffrage is a pure question of expediency. It can be given or withheld, or limited, according as the best interest of the State demand. The claim to it is not like the claim to liberty or legal justice, a natural right. We withhold it from many a descript accurate requirement. a natural right. We withhold it from many a deserving young man between 17 and 20, and from still more deserving women, and from certain foreigners, because we judge that on a broad scale society will be the better of for the limitation. We give it unreservedly to all free white male citizens ever twenty-one, because our theory has been that the educating influence of suffrage and its equalizing effect, and its attraction to the peasantry of Europe, will, more than counterbalance the evils of our ignorant and debased voting population. The great weakness in the position of our friends, demanding universal suffrage for the freedmen, was in general opinion of the North that we had gone too far even in white suffrage; and that what we had felt the evils of in our own system, we ought not to extend to Southern society.

"They claimed as a right what was merely a question of public benefit. The strength of their position—which we fully concur in—was in the claim that suffrage should never be limited by race.

"The true and just middle course in this matter, it seems to us, is to urge for the whole community an intelligence-suffrage; that is, to seek to make the basis of the right to vote the country of the right to be the right to b seek to make the basis of the right to vote everywhere the ability, for instance, to read any passage, selected by the usual judges of elective qualification in the Constitution of the United States, and to write one's name legibly. "Such a test could be recommended to every Southern Legislature to be applied to every negro, and on his fulfilling the requirements, he should be allowed a vote.

"A simular test should be established in the other States for every future voter, (as it will other States for every future voter, (as it will not be possible to exclude present voters under it). Such a law would at once shut out in this city two-thirds of the new voters in such places as the five Points, Water-street, the First Ward, Rotten Row, and all the dens of crime and interest. and ignorance. It would shut out in all our cities the great propotion of the low, dangerous and vicious class; it would exclude the children, as they grow up, of some of our most de dren, as they grow up, of some of our most de-graded mountain districts, unles they are edu-cated; it would beside stimulate the poor and low everywhere to school their children; it would give a new prop to the bulwark of our liberties—our common schools; and would transform demagogues into school committees and turn primary meetings into primary schools. The alphabet would become of more impor-tance than the brogue to our ward politicians, and a good teacher of writing become as influ-ential as is now a porter-house keeper.

"Such a provision at the South would indeed shut out for a time the great mass of the blacks; but not long, nor perhaps longer than is desirable. They learn fist. It would give a new start to what has been so lamentably defective—the popular education of the poor whites, and would tend to remove one of the causes of the of the late rehellion—Southern impropries. of the late rebellion-Southern ignorance.

"The interest of the white class would be "The interest of the white class would be immediately in educating its poor and de graded members. The negroes would strain every nerve to educate themselves and their children. There would be a competition at once in the primary education of "the two races, a result the most desirable that could be imagined for the interests of the Union. There might appear to be an injustice; in given There might appear to be an injustice in giv ing suffrage now to ignorant whites and denying it to ignorant blacks. But all that we can say is, that no legislation can secure ideal justice; the whites have the suffrage now and the blacks have not; we can change the future but it would be difficult, if not impossible, to but it would be difficult, if not impossible, to change existing circumstances. And the existence of one mass of ignorant voters is hardly a sound reason for creating another. We would be glad to exclude the most ignorant whites both North and South, but we cannot; therefore we must provide for what, perhaps, we can accomplish in the future—the excluding all ingnorant persons of whatever race and color. Even the intelligence-suffrage is not a perfect basis; but the science of statesmanship is to discover the best thing practicable, and as this has been tried in this country, with good results we hope to in this country, with good results we hope to see the experiment carried out."

Who Are They ? Who are these new "friends of the Presiden?" Who are these fellows who are just now making such an ado over their pretended support of "the President's policy of reconstruction?" The loyal men of the country are well acquainted with them. They have during the last five years made a record which they can never wipe out. They began by plotting the disruption of the Union; promising that the war, if war there was, should be in the North. When the war did come, the conspirators had too much care for their necks to and persistent foot fight. Which of the two openly redeem their promises; but they engaged, instead, in getting up secret organizations to accomplish the same result. They opposed nation by the summary ejectment (in a very drafting. They opposed raising money. tried to stop the wheels of government. They got up negro riots. They seduced some of the Union generals into their ranks, persuaded them to be flunkies, and voted the war for the Union "a failure." Disgraced, abandoned and the man that can outkick a mule. Strange to overwhelmed by the loyal people of the Union, say, neither animal was at all injured by the these cowardly conspirators, though abjuring encounter.

And this they insist is the "policy of the President" in spite of his oft-repeated announcements that though he wishes as speedily as possible to see the southern States admitted to congress, yet only by men who have always been loyal to the Union and can fairly take the congressional "test oath." We advise all true Republicans and Union men to keep aloof from these copperhead conspirators. They intend no good to the country. They are actuated by no kindness or good will towards President Johnson whom a year ago they demanded should be "impeached." Their sole end and aim is, if possible, to divide the great Union The New York "Times" on Suffrage. party, which has saved the nation, in the hope that thereby they may reinstate traitors in possession of the government, and thus, notwithstanding the blood and treasure which have his steadfast supporter and defender in the been wasted, succeed after all in their scheme House of Representatives; and hence we infer of destroying the Union. The only safe plan is for loyal men to give these copperhead dis

Such is the admonitory language held by his public policy, and therefore we hazzard the Illinois State Journal. So it seems, these sox-these new-born admirers of the President -are, by their camp-meeting devotion to the Union, looked upon with very great distrust in other localities than North Carolina, who by the wiles of these same sinners, was seduced from the paths of peace and happiness, into the embrace of the Secession Anaconda, and came very near being crushed out of ex istence. There is yet life, however, in the old State; to revive and resusitate her, "none but natives should be put on guard"—none but known Union men should be allowed to aid this delicate undertaking.

GENERAL NEWS.

-The noted German tragedian, Fechter, is coming to the United States.

-There is a case before the United States Supreme Court, involving the Constitutionality of the Missouri test oath.

-There is no truth in the rumored capture of the robber of Lord's counting house, at New York, of $1,500,000 bonds, &c.

-Smuggling on the Canadian lines still cor tinues to a considerable extent, and spirituous liquors are being brought over in spite of every precaution.

The Fenian excitement in Canada is repor ted as subsiding. The volunteer force is well distributed at all points on the frontier. Several searches have been made for pikes, but all unsuccessful.

-Owing to the dull times, laboring men in Indianapolis offer to work for their board .-Manufacturing establishments are discharging their employees. Over five hundred houses are for rent in that city.

—American flour is going largely to Havana A contract was made not long since for thirty thousand barrels, in weekly deliveries of three thousand barrels at $111 per barrel.

-The New York Post says : " The Tribune is probably the meanest and most unscrupulous sheet that is published on this continent As the Post and the Tribune worked in the same harness for many years, they know each other perfectly.

The democratic State Convention of Indiana adopted resolutions on the 16th, strongly endorsing the administration policy, denying the right of secession and pledging the support of the democracy of the State to the President.

-The Acting commissioner of Internal Rev enue has decided that the receipt given to an exprees company by a party receiving goods by express is subject to a stamp duty of two cents, as a recept for property, -The Raymond branch of the National Executive Republican Committee have ordered one hundred thousand copies of the President's speech made on the 22nd February, for general

An Amusing Scene.-Quite an amusing scene recently occurred under the parvillion of Dan Castello's Circus at Wilmington, which was not previously announced in the bills. The Dispatch says: During the display made by Castello of his wonderful mule and when little boys were called from the audience into the ring to make the always vain attempt to ride him, a big burly sailor, somewhat "heavy" entered the ring and advanced to the animal for the purpose of bestriding him. To this the mule objected, and confirmed his objection by a "double leaded" kick from both of his iron shod feet into the pit of the man's stomach .-To the astonishment of every one, the man re turned the salute of the mule, by delivering several kicks in return and repeated the attempt to mount him, when the mule again deposited his feet upon the man's waistcoat. And now ensued a fight between Castello, the sailor and the mule: Castello, who was highly incensed at the conduct of the man, endeavored to hold the mule so as to have the man taken from the ring; and the man stuck to the mule in a steady latter would have conquered is unknown, as the trial was soon brought to a sudden termiindifferent manner) of the sailor from the ring This, we think, is the greates fight on record, and was certainly one of the most interesting that man to exhibit with him everywhere as

The undersigned will commence the publication of a Daily and Weekly newspaper, hearing the above title, in the city of Salisbury about the 10th of March next.

The OLD NORTH STATE will be, under our control, a firm and decided Union paper. But while it will be firm and decided intis support of the Union, and of all just and necessary measures tending to its early and complete restoration, it will yet be liberal and conservative. It will oppose radicalism from whatever quarter it may come. Considing in the loyal intentions of the great body of the apporting of the past by the indeavor to soothe the apporting of the past by the indeavor to soothe the apporting of the past by the indeavor to soothe the apporting of the past by the indeavor to soothe the apporting of the past by the indeavor to soothe the apporting the exploded dogma of paramount state soversignty, it will cheerfully support the national government in the exercise of every power necessary to the maintainance of its rightful authority, while it will ever contend against any encroachments upon the reserved rights of its states.

It will discuss all the various political issues of the day but in doing this it will seek to avoid everything like partiate to avoid that personal vituperation. It will also strive to avoid the personal vituperation. It will also strive to avoid the personal vituperation. It will also strive to avoid the lendeavor to enlighten and direct aright public sentiment, by disseminating correct information, and by arguments addressed to the understanding—in short, it will endeavor to erect a high standard of political morality.
