POET'S CORNER.

To the unmarried LADIES.

Are not the attractions by which I am caught,
Good nature, good fense, and an honest free mind,
Are persections in woman to which I'm inclin'd.
For a time beauty charms, but so certain is age,
That who for a beauty alone would engage;
Since time surely sullies the brightest of eyes,
And the sace is a slower that blossoms and dies;
Then Venus begone with your empty joys,
Which like the sale syren allures and destroys.
Come friendship and sense, guide my choice of a wise,
And I'll love and bless her all the days of my life.

MAN and WIFE.

If you see a man and woman with litte or no occasion, often finding fault, and correcting each other in company, you may be sure they are man and wife.

If you see a lady and a gentleman in the same carriage, in profound silence, the one looking out at one window, the other at the opposite side, be afsured they mean no harm to each other, but are man and wife.

If you see a lady accidentally let fall a glove or handkerchief, and a gentle-man who is next her tell her of it, that the herself may pick it up, set them down for man and wife.

If you see a man and woman walk in the fields, at twenty yards distance in a direct line, and the man striding over a stile, and still going on sans ceremonie, you may swear they are—man and wife.

It you see a lady whose beauty attracts the notice of every person present, except one man, and he speaks to her in a rough manner, and does not appear at all affected by her charms, depend upon it they are—
man and wife.

If you see a male and semale constantly thwarting each other, under the appellation of my dear, my love, be assured they are—man and wife.
