

it say, the silk was very strong, and of an exceeding good colour, she has upwards of 30 yards of the same silk left.

If every lady would follow her example in raising raw silk, and spinning it only, they would not only save many thousand pounds per annum, to this state, but would set an example worthy of being followed by the ladies in the northern states, and those that live in every other part of the world, where raw silk can be raised. He adds, that if a statue was to be erected in honour of the lady, it might be attended with a good effect, as it might induce many persons to follow such a laudable and patriotic example.

WILMINGTON,
SEPTEMBER 17.

From a Correspondent.

Accounts from the Western counties in this state, mention the people being very much dissatisfied with the doings of the convention; that they generally have chosen federalists to represent them in the next assembly.— In the county of Rowan, Generals Rutherford and Lock are left out, in consequence of their voting against the constitution in the convention— Messrs. Caldwell and Gator are chosen in their room, and Mr. Steele for Salisbury. In the county of Lincoln, there were federal and anti-federal candidates: the anti-federalists had not a single vote; Col. Dickson, Dr. M'Lane, and Mr. Perkins were chosen. Mecklenburgh have chosen Major Grimes, Caleb Phifer, and — Douglas, Esquires. The county of Surry have elected federalists also—have not heard the gentlemen's names who are chosen.

His Excellency Auther St. Clair, Esq. Governor of the Western Territory, arrived at Muskingum on the 11th of June last.

Extract of a letter from Fayette-Ville, dated Sept. 13.

"We have been highly entertained a few weeks past, by Mr. Kenna's Theatrical Company. Their superiority to any that have before visited us, is too great to admit the smallest comparison. The last night they played, to the very great satisfaction of a crowded audience, the tragedy of Isabella, in the character of whom Mrs. Kenna made her appearance, with dignity, grace, and elegance. The powers she exhibited as an accomplished actress, can only be compared with herself, in the Countess of Salisbury. Every glance of the eye, feature of her face, and motion of her person, spoke the character she represented. Silence and admiration filled the house; the audience, for a while, forgetting themselves, were in raptures carried away. The play throughout was well supported, particularly Court Ealdwin, by young Mr. Kenna; although he certainly excels in comedy, proofs of superior abilities in which he has exhibited in the character of the Miser and Sir John Trotley.— Miss Kenna has performed in character of Jane Shore, and several others, in a manner highly acceptable. She is universally allowed to be a good actress, if she has less action than her mother; it cannot be said she wants animation. Her part she always has perfect and clear, and the agreeable modulation of her voice never fails to please.

"Mrs. Smallwood often has the accustomed expression of applause from the audience, to which, it must be allowed, she is sometimes justly entitled, considering she has been but few months on the stage. Her advantageous figure, great vivacity, disposition to please, and assiduity must ensure her future success.

Mr. Magrath has done a great degree of justice to several characters he has represented; the success of his indefatigable industry in perfecting himself in his parts, his modest and discreet attention to the business in general, covers many faults, and bids fair for a rapid improvement.

"The suitable allotments of the different parts, and the good order with which the whole was conducted, reflects favourably on the judgment of Mr. Kenna, who always does justice to the character he personates.—They will soon leave this place for Wilmington, where, it is wished, their encouragement may be in proportion to their merit. That idea of wanton levity and extravagance, which too often justly accompanies the reputation of those of their profession, appears to be in no respect applicable to Mrs. Kenna and her daughter; their general conduct is marked with economy and discretion.

To his Excellency Samuel Johnson, Esq. Governor of the state of North-Carolina, and President of the late Convention held at Hillsborough.

WE, the undersigned, citizens of the town of Tarborough, impressed with the liveliest sense of the important motives which influenced the wife and virtuous members of the grand federal convention, held at Philadelphia, beg leave to approach your excellency, and express our sincere approbation of the zeal you have displayed to connect the state of North-Carolina to the general union and to those blessings and happy consequences we expect to flow from a free and energetic government. It is a duty we owe to ourselves, our country and posterity, to publish every testimony of reprobation of the unhappy issue of that public measure which claimed the attention of our late convention in Hillsborough, and to record, also, our unequivocal applause of the virtue, patriotism, and exertions, of EIGHTY-TWO STATESMEN, whose wisdom and characters, we trust, will preserve all that we conceive precious in this life, to ourselves and future generations.

United in the principles of your excellency, we contemplated with emotions of pleasure and regret, this small, but wise and firm band, struggling against a torrent of popular phrenzy, excited evidently to extinguish whatever hope remained to restore public faith, revive commerce, and promote agriculture; and though their efforts proved unsuccessful, they are not less entitled to our gratitude; at least, their exertions, and the federal principles of our numerous adherents, may preserve us from indiscriminate odium, and probably recommend us at some future hour of calmness and moderation, to our place in the United Government, the only Rock of Salvation on which we can repose with confidence and safety.—Well assured that the most discerning of the majority, begin now to comprehend the danger into which their conduct was calculated to involve their country, themselves, and their fellow citizens—we publish this declaration of our principles, determined to rise and fall with the Union of America; supplicating your Excellency to employ all constitutional means & influence in your power to convince the adopting States, or their Executives, that North-Carolina ought not to be included in general crimination, but that a considerable part of her most respectable citizens are still attached to a federal system, from persuasion, that from it alone they can expect exemption from domestic insurrection, defence from foreign invasion, and continuance of the blessings of peace and prosperity.
