

CHARLESTON, October 23.

House of Representatives, Tuesday, October 21.

A letter from the vice consul of France, stating, that the King his master, understanding that the public debt of South-Carolina amounted to 39,040 dollars, with interest; that the government had ordered payment by four instalments, and was much surprised at the little attention paid to this engagement, but was willing to impute the delay to a deficiency in the revenue; he therefore directed his consul to offer the legislature an option to draw on Paris, payable in six months; or to pay immediately in the paper medium, with an allowance for the difference of exchange.

Referred to a committee.

WILMINGTON, NOVEMBER 12.

Almost every person, says a correspondent, seems more and more convinced of the bad policy of the decision of our convention, respecting the federal constitution. If they had adopted it in the mode that all the neighbouring states have done, we might have been represented in the first congress; the consequences are evident—this state must pay its proportion of the national debt—if we are not in union with the neighbouring states, certainly our vessels will be considered as aliens, and laid under the same restrictions—perhaps prohibited from entering their ports. It is also evident that great part of the produce of this state is exported and sold to the neighbouring states, from whom we receive the greatest part of our specie. Numberless other causes shew the necessity of another convention being called as speedily as possible, that we may not, with Rhode-Island, be considered as the only two states which are averse to federal measures.

Nothing particular has transpired from the honourable legislature since our last, except that the hon. Alexander Martin, Esq. is appointed Speaker of the honorable the Senate, and the hon. John Sitgreaves, Esq. Speaker of the Commons.

From a Correspondent.

A remedy for the delay of the courts, has been the object of legislative attention for a great while, and various schemes of amendment have been proposed. I am not going to offer any plan, but think it may be worth while to remark, that the assembly have probably been mistaken in their frugality on this occasion.

The public pay annually for the execution of justice, to the judges and attorney-general, only about 3000l. and to jurors and constables about 4000l.—and there is paid by those who have the misfortune to be at law, somewhere about 53,000l. per annum for fees, witnesses and attendance of clients (supposing an average of 200 causes depending one way or other in each court, and 4l. a year actually expended on each cause, which I believe will not be found too much) amounting in the whole to a sum little less than the whole revenue of the state. Of the 53,000l. at least 30,000 may be said to be expended by reason of waiting on the courts, because they are not able to dispatch the business; which extravagant expence, as well as the numerous other causes of complaint on this subject, may be avoided by the judicious application of two or three thousand pounds per annum.

DIED—On the 4th instant, Mrs. ELIZABETH HILL, consort of WILLIAM H. HILL, Esq.
