to beautify, and the lover of a wellappointed lawn and grounds will make no mistake if he allows them to beautify the commonplace objects about the home. A trim yard of wire netting furnishes a most excellent trellis for vines, while being at the same time ornamented by them. Such a netting fence affords an excellent place for the growing of many kinds of grapes, while the shade thus afforded will be most grateful to the inmates of the yard during the hot weather. Carrying the "utility" idea still further. one might mention the hop vine as most suitable to train around the doorway. If one is trying to make his grounds look well, it is certainly wise to avail one's self of this easy way to lend beauty, and even a useful beauty to what might otherwise be an unattractive object. -The Silver Knight.

SORGHUM AS GREEN FODDER.

Except for its extra amount of sweetness, sorghum has no advantage over corn as green fodder, and it has two very obvious disadvantages. One is that the sorghum lacks ears of corn that the corn fodder if properly grown heats very quickly, and quickly turns disturbs the sneep. On the sour, so that it does injury rather than should be shorn at a certain time of overgrown with weeds while small. After it gets knee high the sorghum will grow last enough, but until that time it requires more labor to keep free from weeds than does corn, and its fodder is less valuable. The sorghum is grown for fodder in some parts of the West because its root runs down deeper than corn roots do, and it is thus able to live through severe droughts that wither and destruy the corn crop.

Scab is a disease due to a living mite in the skin of the sheep, and cannot be produced by exposure any more than a lamb can be produced by good care. It is also thought that scab and other diseases of like character can be cured by feeding the sheep sulphur. Internally it is a mild and good laxative, but its real virtue for scab lies in its use as an ointment.

Some sheep men believe that the sheep tick can be destroyed by feeding sulphur. This is another error. Sheep may be fed sulphur until they sicken of it, and still the tick will be as lively as ever. There is no medicine that can be given to sheep that will kill the ticks and not at the same time kill the sheep. Still others believe that grub in the head is a very fatal disease, and that the grub bores through the skull into the brain, causing death. The accumulation of grubs in frontal recesses is what causes the trouble, but one sheep raiser says that in twenty-five years' experience with sheep he never lost may have, and the other is that the Plenty of grub in the stomach and a one animal by grub in the head, sorghum stalk is so hard that it is dif- dark place for the sheep to go to when ficult and sometimes dangerous for the flies that lay the eggs are about is stock to eat it unless first crushed in his treatment for grub in the head, grinding to express its sap. With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills which vanish before proper ef-forts—gentle efforts—pleasant effor rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condi-tion of the system, which the pleasant, family laxative, Syrup of Figs, prompt-ly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness, without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its bene-ficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and sold by all rep-
