These two cases involve substantially the same questions, and by agreement of counsel the court is asked to hear them together. Both grow out of the same transaction. The issue is the validity of so much of a certain act of the general assembly of South Carolina, commonly known as the dispensary law, as prohibits non-resident manufacturers and dealers from importing into the State of South Carolina spiritduct of other States and foreign countries, and storing and selling the same within the said State in 'original packages" by or through agents appointed for such purpose. These suits are brought against officers of the State in consequence of the seizure by them pursuant to said act of certain liquors shipped into the State for sale, and it is of great public import ance that the question be determined

The attorney-general of South Carolina, therefore, respectfully moves the court to advrnce the cases on the docket and set them down for argument on some early date convenient to the court. In this connectioon it is respectfully suggested that the General Assembly of South Carolina will convene in regular session on the second Tuesday in January next, and a speedy decision from this honorable court will be of great value to the State as a guide to legislative action during that ses-

The German Woman. In Germany to-day no woman can ontrol property; she cannot even conue she has acquired in any way belongs to her father, her husband or her son, and the law requires her to obey their orders. Japan is the only other country on earth that pretends to be civilized where the rights of women are so restricted. When a woman marries in Germany all her property passes into the ownership of her husband forever. He has the legal right to use or dispose of it in any manner he chooses regardless of her wishes or protests. If they are divorced the property remains with him. When she assents to the marriage vow she forfeits independence and confers upon him absolute jurisdiction over her mind, body and estate. He can compel her to work or do anything else that is lawful for women to do, and she has no relief or protection except in public opinion. Some of the American heiresses who have married German barons have learned of this law to their sorrow, and others who may have an opportunity to assist in supporting the German army and restoring ancestral estates should look into the matter
