RALEIGH, N. C., JANUARY 8, 1898.

ALL eyes are now turned to Ohio, and the wish of all loyal Republicans throughout the nation is that the Hon. Mark Hanna may win in the mean and unholy warfare now being waged against him by a few bolting and traitorous Republicans who are in combination with the Democratic members of the Legislature.

THE GREAT EMANCIPATION CELEBRATION, METROPOLITAN HALL, JANUARY 1st, 1898.

Eloquent Oration by Hon. H. P. Cheatham, Ringing Resolutions, Fine Music, Impressive Exercises, and Great Enthusiasm.

The 35th anniversary of the Proclamation of Emancipation was celebrated in grand style by the colored people of Raleigh and Wake county. Not in the history of the race has a larger, more dignified and more cultured audience assembled in Raleigh to do honor to this great day.

Under direction of Chief Marshal Benj. Cater, the procession formed at the Washington School on South street at 11 o'clock, and proceeded along the line of march announced in the programme to Metropolitan Hall. Here a fine assemblage had already gathered. On the stage were seated the officers of the day, the Committee of Arrangements, the Committee on Resolutions, with the following distinguished invited guests: Gov. D. L. Russell, Secretary of State C. W. Thompson, Private Secretary Alexander, Superintendent of the Penitentiary J. M. Mewborne, Col. E. G. Harrell, Register of Deeds J. R. Rogers, Mr. Centre, and Recorder H. P. Cheatham, orator of the day.

In the audience quite a number of white ladies and gentlemen occupied seats, and seemed to enjoy the proceedings throughout. The exercises were opened with music, after which Mr. Norfleet Jeffreys, Sr., Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements, introduced Hon. Jas. H. Young, President of the Day. A fervent invocation was then offered by Rev. D. S. Sautter, Acting Chaplain. After another selection by the choir, the President made a few eloquent introductory remarks and called for the report of the Finance Committee. This report showed that sufficient funds were in hand to meet all expenses and leave a balance in the hands of the Treasurer. No collection was taken up in the hall.

After another beautiful selection of music, Mr. C. N. Hunter was introduced, who presented the report of the Committee on Resolutions, as follows:

We, the freed people of the city of Raleigh, county of Wake, and State of North Carolina, in meeting assembled to celebrate the 35th anniversary of our deliverance from bondage, have maturely considered, and do set forth the following DECLARATIONS:

1. That freedom is man's birthright. It is God's great gift to the chief creature of His omnipotent hand. Man was made in the likeness of his Maker in the image of God created He him, both male and female created He them. God is infinitely free. Man is like God in proportion as he is free, and ceases to be like God in proportion as he ceases to be free. The tendency of the soul towards complete liberty is as natural as the law of gravitation. Everything in us and around us proclaims the fact that man was made for freedom—freedom from every power that would shake his body or fetter his mind. Liberty has been the animating force of every great deed; the guiding star to every grand achievement of man for man in all ages and in every clime. It is his inspiration, the invincible genius that has urged him on to conquer and conquest, since the stars calmed the birth of the newly-made world and the sons of the morning shouted for joy. Under no other condition can he assume and exercise dominion over the earth. The Almighty has enfranchised man with universal empire. He is to sway his scepter over all the earth—the birds of the air, the inhabitants of the sea, the beasts of the forest—every living thing that moveth upon the earth, and everything that the earth brings forth. Nor is his power limited to material forms. He is to march forward into that kingdom of occult, invisible forces that make music among the spheres, bridling the myriad army of spirit sentinels of the night. He knows his relationship to that Being who erected the rugged mountains, locked the oceans in the hollow of His hand, while He plowed the channel of the mighty deep and marked the boundary of the sea. Man sees in himself the Primordial spark derived from the eternal sun which is to light up the star-fires throughout every department of art, science and industry. Daring his being from such a source, and commissioned by such authority, man demands liberty as the requisite of his appropriate action. And not only does he demand it in thunder tones, but crushes into nothingness every power that opposes his complete investiture.

2. Animated by such lofty conceptions of the dignity and mission of man, and in obedience to his patriotic impulses, we greet the annual return of the first day of January with exclamations of joy, thanksgiving and swelling peans of praise. On the 1st day of January, 1863, Abraham Lincoln, the renowned child of the Republic, went forth that flaming edict of freedom that wiped out, once and forever, the guilty system of American slavery. By that mighty act a nation was born in a day. To that day and that deed will the great glory of human liberty ascribe its proudest triumph.

3. To the Great Giver of all good do we return grateful thanks for the blessed boon of freedom. We render to Him grateful thanks for the ever increasing freedom of our humbly self, from the terrible sin of Negro slavery in these United States. In all the agencies which brought about our enslavement, emancipation, and enfranchisement, His directing providence is plainly visible. His word is theirs sold him into bondage. They meant it for ill, but God overruled it for good.

Those who stole our forefathers from their native land, and fastened upon them and their descendents the chains of slavery meant it for harm, but God has overruled it for good.

4. We can never forget the noble army of devoted patriots who poured out their precious lives as a libation upon the altars of freedom. Most of the heroic spirits who led the conflict and endured its terrors, have passed over the river and have entered the "Great Beyond"; but they have enshrined their names and their glorious deeds in letters of ever increasing lustre in the hearts of a nation. Their country, freed from the deadly malaria of the great moral upas, is their monument.

5. Our rejoicing to-day carries with it no spirit of hate. We have none other than the kindest feelings for the race that once held us as slaves. We rejoice to know that thousands of that race living in North Carolina, and in the South, reciprocate this feeling. We value their confidence. We value their sympathy and the generous aid which they have given us in the past, and are still affording us. We only regret that there are any who still linger at the tomb of the effete dogmas of a degenerate system, endeavoring to stifle their revitalization in the form of a political despotism subversive of all the principles upon which our free institutions are founded. But these few men give way to the majestic front of a newly inspired Christianity. They must soon vanish before the triumphant tread of the grand legions of truth and justice whose banners bear the Ten Commandments, the Sermon on the Mount, the Golden Rule and the Lord's Prayer.

6. The day is making progress. Emancipation has produced no such consequences as were everywhere predicted by the enemies of freedom. Liberated from the restraints of the former master class, we have not relapsed into barbarism so far from this, through the agency of the great institutions of learning provided and sustained by the philanthropic friends of the race and by means of the common schools provided by the various States and the Negro steadily rising to high rank along all the lines of human activity. The race is furnishing the nation scholarship, professional skill, artistic excellence, and industrial worth, which negates every plea of its unfitness for the responsibilities of citizenship in a free republic. From a condition of absolute, abject poverty, we have, within the 35 years since the issuance of the Proclamation of Emancipation, acquired and pay taxes over $200,000,000 worth of property. In North Carolina the assessed value of property owned by Negroes is $8,180,074. Pass in review the conditions under which such progress has been made, and the result is simply astounding. The history of man fails to furnish a parallel.

7. We love North Carolina. It is our home. We love her people. We were born and reared among them. We desire to cultivate the friendship of our white fellow citizens and live in peace. We seek no encroachment upon the sacred precincts of their social lives. If there be those who think otherwise, they may rest assured that this declaration embodies the sentiment of every Negro in the South, and in appeal to the just judgment and Christian character of all mankind. With such sentiment pervading all the people of North Carolina there is no excuse for a longer postponement of a union of all our hearts and all our hands in one grand effort to build up our waste places, develop our magnificent resources, open up avenues to unexampled prosperity, and shut out race antagonisms forever. And then, under the outstretched pinions of the white-winged messenger of peace and plenty, we can point to our good old State and say:

"There is a land of every land the pride, Beloved by Heaven o'er all the world bestrides, Where brighter suns dispense serene serenity, And milder moons imparadise the night; A land of beauty, virtue, valor, truth, Time-torn in age and love exalted youth; The wandering mariner, who e'er explores The wealthiest isles, the most enchanting shores, Views this realm so bountiful and fair, Nor breathes the spirit of a purer air; In every clime, the magnet of his soul, Touched by remembrance, trembles to that pole; For in this land of Heaven's peculiar race, Heritage of Nature's noblest grace, There is a spot of earth supremely blest, A dearer, sweeter spot than all the rest, Where man, creation's tyrant, cast aside His sword and sceptre, paeantly and proudly, While in his softened looks benignly blend The sire, the son, the husband, brother, friend, Here woman reigns; the mother, daughter, wife, Strew with fresh flowers the narrow way of life; In the clear heaven of her delightful eye, An angel gets her lover's glances lie; Around her knees domestic duties meet, And freude pleasures gambol at her feet, Where shall that land, that spot of earth be found? Art thou a man? a patriot? look around;

8. Upon the sentiments set forth in these declarations, we sincerely believe we can successfully appeal to the just judgment and Christian character of the people of the State. Upon these sentiments we cordially appeal to the just judgment and Christian character of all mankind. With such sentiment pervading all the people of North Carolina there is no excuse for a longer postponement of a union of all our hearts and all our hands in one grand effort to build up our waste places, develop our magnificent resources, open up avenues to unexampled prosperity, and shut out race antagonisms forever. And then, under the outstretched pinions of the white-winged messenger of peace and plenty, we can point to our good old State and say:

O, thou shalt find, how'er thy footsteps roam, That land thy country, and that spot thy home." Respectfully submitted, C. N. HUNTER, Ch'm'n, REV. JOS. PERRY, REV. H. F. DELANEY, DR. N. F. ROBERTS, H. S. SMITH, Committee.

Mr. W. M. Graves, in a stirring speech, seconded the motion to adopt the above sentiments, which was carried unanimously amid great enthusiasm.

After the reading and adoption of the resolutions, Gov. Russell was called for. As he stepped to the front of the rostrum the audience rose. He said: "I know you do not expect any speech from me. Your program has been arranged; you have selected an orator, and he is here ready to speak to you. The Governor of your State and the State officers are here to encourage and recognize whatever is calculated to help the progress of the race and promote a right spirit among you. And right here I want to say that you are to be congratulated and commended for the spirit of amity and good will manifested in the excellent resolutions just read toward the race that once held you in bondage. With this, I will ask you to excuse me from making any further remarks to-day."

The following additional resolutions were presented by the Committee and unanimously adopted:— We commend most heartily the effort to provide a Home for the aged, infirm and indigent of our race who have survived those upon whom they might have leaned in their declining years. We recommend that the management of this enterprise make such changes in their present organization as will make the Home a State institution that will appeal to the charitable people of every section of the State. We recommend the appointment of a State Board of Directors, who shall have complete supervision of the Home, and who shall hold all property acquired, real and personal, in trust for the purpose for which it was intended. It is proper that we now, and in this presence, call attention to the unequal, unfair and unjust accommodation provided for colored lady passengers at the Union Depot in this city. Such mean discrimination is an outrage upon decency, and merits the condemnation of all fair-minded people of every race. We ask only for justice, and do not hesitate in making this appeal to good men and good women everywhere to aid us in its attainment.

A beautiful poem appropriate to the occasion was then read with happy effect by Miss Maggie A. Dunston. Then followed the reading of the Proclamation of Emancipation by Mr. C. L. Gary, who performed his part most creditably.

After music by the choir, the distinguished gentleman who had been selected by a large meeting of the people of Wake county for that purpose, came forward and delivered an eloquent address, which will be published in these columns later.

At the conclusion of the oration, short speeches were made by Mr. Joseph J. Rogers and Dr. Cyrus Thompson, which were highly appreciated and applauded. The musical part of the programme was under the management of Miss Lovina A. Haywood, the accomplished music teacher of Shaw University, and, if such a thing is possible, she added new and brilliant leaves to her laurel. The solo of Miss Douglass and the singing of the double quartette of young gentlemen have been the subject of unstinted compliments on all sides.

The following officers were unanimously re-elected for 1899: J. H. Young, President; C. N. Hunter, Secretary; W. F. Debnam, Treasurer; Delegates to Emancipation Convention, Rev. C. Johnson and Mr. Norfleet Jeffreys, Sr.

After several announcements by the President, the audience arose and sang the doxology and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. H. B. Delaney. REPORTER.
