In Memoriam.

Entered in rest Saturday morning at 2 o'clock, B. Ha derson Dunston, in the 68 h year of his eg. A popular and honored citizen of Releigh he had gathered about him a wide circle of the most prominent ci iz ns of his native city, to whom his many chivalrous qualities of head and heart had tenderly endeared him. Courtly in mann-r, posished in style, g-nerous and manly in impulses, honest in all his deali. g- with his fellowman, he had not an every anywhere. Though affliction had laid its heavy, relently hand upon him, and it was known that his stay on earth could not be prolonged beyond a few short months, still the sad end cast a gloom wherever he was known-and he was known to us all - and men and women tor ugh ut the city mingled twir sorrow with the sorrow of his affectionate relatives as they heard the unoidden story of his demise.

Durit g the many lorg years the writer had enj yed his acquaintance he was a constant attendant up in the religious services of St. Pau's A. M. E. church. Though not a communicant of that church he took a deep interest in its progress, contributing liberally on all occasions to its en erprises and to the support of the Go-p-1. Before his death he professed saving faith in the Lord Jesus and died triumphantly.

For many years Mr. Dunston was Assistant Chief of Police of the city of Raleigh, and I have often heard it remarked that it was almost an honor to be arrested by him, so gentlemanly was his way of dealing with those over whom the strong arm of the law compelled him to exercise authority. He was a noble type of the old school gentleman and it is sad to know that type is in its decadence.

Emancipation.

The people of Franklin county assembl d at L ui burg, N. C, and celebrated the thirty fith anniversary of the emancipation of the American negro on Jan uary 1st inst. The day was raw and the weather exceedingly coli, nevertheless hundreds came miles to show their appre lation of freedom and its great significance to them. Prof. John R. Hawkins, of Kittrell

College, was invited to deliver the oranew their subscriptions, or their names | tion, but owing to unexpected sickness The people were not left alone. There is much talent in the good old county. Dr. J. A. Savage, of the State Normal

School, was incroduced to the audience in a happy speech by Rev. Anthony Cook. Dr. Savage spoke of the past and present of the negro, his marvelous numerical and financial growth, pointed out the immoral tendencies of the race and warned the people to be exceedingly jealous lest they lose their liberties. For the Gazette.

There have been fewer prettier home weddings in our town, where marriage is so frequent, than the one which took place Toursday evening, 23d inst., at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Shaw. the contracting parties being M ss Karie N. Hughes, of Mary Potter Memorial School here, and Rev. H. L. McCrory, an arsistant professor at Biddle University.

The ceremony was private, only a dozen near friends, including the boarding pupils, were present. But this exclusiveness seemed to have added to rather than taken away from the effect of the occasion, for as the handsomely gowned bride, who had become suddenly ill the night previous, was slowly led from her sick apartment into the parlor to the march on the piano, assisted on either side by Mrs. G. C. Shaw and the groom, there was afforded a picture which was at once sweetly serene and very beautiful. Rev. G. C. Shaw then, after the form of the Presbyterian Church, solemnly joined together the lives of the two persons. A number of elegant and serviceable presents were given; among them was a fine rocking chair by the Biddle Uniyersity class of '98. The bide and groom were to have left on their honey moon the same evening for a two week's visit in South Carolina, of her illness the trip was postponed until W. E. FRANKLIN. D. cember 29, 1897.
