Debate On Supreme Court Change Halts Senate Action On Wagner-Nuys Legislation

WASHINGTON, June 30—Two days after the Senate judiciary committee favorably reported on a federal anti-lynching bill by a vote of 12-3, Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, Majority Leader of the Senate, announced that the bill changes in the supreme court would be called up for debate probably about July 1.

Supporters of the anti-lynching bill were alarmed at this turn of events because, it is generally agreed that the debate on the court bill will be long and bitter and that other legislation will have little chance of crashing through. There is a possibility that the debate will run far into the hot days of July and that when a vote is finally taken the Senate will push the anti-lynching bill and other legislation aside in its rush to adjourn.

The three members of the judiciary committee voting against a favorable report on the anti-lynching bill were Senators Pittman, of Nevada; Connally, of Texas; and Borah, of Idaho.

Senator Connally, of Texas, said he did not believe the senators would filibuster against the bill this time. He said at looked as though the bill would be passed. However, Senator Connally declared he would vote against it and make a speech against it.

With Senators King, of Utah, and McCarran, of Nevada, absent the followingsenators voted for a favorable report:

Ashurst, Arizona; Neely, West Virginia; Van Nuys, Indiana; Logan, Kentucky; Dieterich, Ill; McGill, Kansas; Hatch, New Mexico; Burke, Nebraska; O'Mahoney, Wyoming; Norris, Nebraska; Austin, Vermont; and Steiwer, Oregon.

With the situation as it is the Senate, the NAACP stressed once more the necessity of all possible persuasion being brought to bear on the senators by the people back home to get them to take action on the anti-lynching bill. Senators Robert F. Wagner, of New York, and Frederick Van Nuys, of Indiana, have requested Senator Joseph T. Robinson, majority leader to set an immediate date for debate and a vote on the anti-lynching bill.

Nation-wide Campaign For Defense Of Nine Negroes Is Launched Thursday

NEW YORK, June 30—(CN-A) Calling for observance of a National Scottsboro Week between July 1 and July 6, the Scottsboro Defense Committee this week announced a national campaign in behalf of the nine Scottsboro boys imprisoned for the last six years in Alabama, and in protest against Haywood Patterson's 75-year sentence, recently confirmed by the Alabama Supreme court.

The date of the new trials was recently set for July 6 in Decatur, Ala., by Circuit Court Judge William (Speed) W. Callahan, who presided over two previous trials.

"The conviction and sentence to 75 years of Haywood Patterson was upheld by the Supreme Court of the State of Alabama with record speed, which offers sharp contrast to the delay in calling the remaining Scottsboro trials," the Rev. Allen Knight Chalmers, chairman of the committee, pointed out. "The motive for this delay must be clear to all right-thinking people who have long since been wholly convinced of the innocence of these boys. "Keeping them in jail, in the shadow of the electric chair, for six years without trial has clearly been the deliberate aim of certain elements in the state. With it, undoubtedly went the hope that the case, removed from the eye of the public would gradually be forgotten by the millions of people throughout the world who have voiced their support of these Negro boys.

"The Scottsboro Committee knows that these millions do not forget so easily. And, confident of a prompt response, we now call on them for even greater support than they have willingly given in the past.

The Committee's program centers around the setting aside of a National Scottsboro Week from July 6. During this period, mass meetings, church services, parades, and similar observances will be held throughout the country, beginning with a mass rally in New York City on June 30. Petitions calling upon Gov. Bibb Graves and Attorney General A. A. Carmichael of Alabama for the immediate release of the Scottsboro boys will be circulated

Workman Falls In Boiling Oil; Dies In Hospital

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 1.—(ANP)—One of the most striking examples of bravery and fortitude to ever claim the attention of local physicians was occurred last week when U. S. Beasley, 38, a workman at the Timken Roller Bearing company, while walking over one of the plant's oilpits, stumbled and fell headlong into the vat of boiling oil. Beasley's frantic yells for help were unheard by his fellow workman because the shifts were changing, the workers still in the locker rooms.

Despite the pain and torture that racked his body the sturdy man pulled himself from the vat and walked to the locker room, and a short time later—an ambulance was summoned—walked to the ambulance. Taken to Grant hospital he put up a valiant fight for his life, but death two days later ended his suffering. Beasley leaves a widow and seven children—five sons and two daughters, but reports indicate that since he met death while working, Mrs. Beasley is entitled to state compensation estimated at nearly $7,000.

COMMENTS ON PAGEANT

Mr. Breckenridge comments on pageant given at St. Paul A. M. E. Church, Chapel Hill, and he writes as following:

To whom it may concern: Reverend Holt, Pastor of the local A. M. E. Church has asked me to comment upon the pageant given last week at the colored school. I am glad to do so as I consider the performance to have had much more of merit and less of tedium than most things of that character I have seen. It was well done indeed.

Mrs. Howell, Mrs. Breckenridge and I, who saw and heard the production, agreed that it was well worth our time and that the singing would have been enjoyed by many of our friends if they could have attended. If more specific information is desired, I shall be glad to write further.

On July the 8th the pageant will be repeated at the (white) baptist church under the direction of Mrs. T. L. Scott.

The public is cordially invited to attend. Board of Lincoln Hospital Do benefit of the Ladies' Junior Cromwell's orchestra is considered one of the best in the state. Come out Monday night and celebrate the fourth of July and dance to the music of Doc Cromwell and his Broadcasting orchestra.
