

FILIBUSTER ENDANGERS LYNCH BILL

Voters Urged To Visit Senators Personally

NEW YORK, Oct. 28 — With the special session of Congress a little more than two weeks off, it appeared today that about the only thing that can stop the enactment of the federal anti-lynching bill is a filibuster by southern senators.

The NAACP emphasized once again that even though many persons and many newspapers, including southern senators themselves, and southern daily papers, have predicted that the anti-lynching bill will be passed, votes must be on the alert to block a filibuster.

In order to defeat a filibuster the senators who are friends of the anti-lynching bill must be prepared to resist and fight back; and they must agree to remain on the floor in order to prevent any tricks by the opposition.

It will be recalled that in the victorious fight for the passage of the Gavagan anti-lynching bill in the House last April, the friends of the bill left the floor temporarily between five and six o'clock and in those few minutes the opponents were successful in voting down two important sections of the bill. A hurry-up call was sent to congressman to return to the chamber and the bill which had been stricken out were restored.

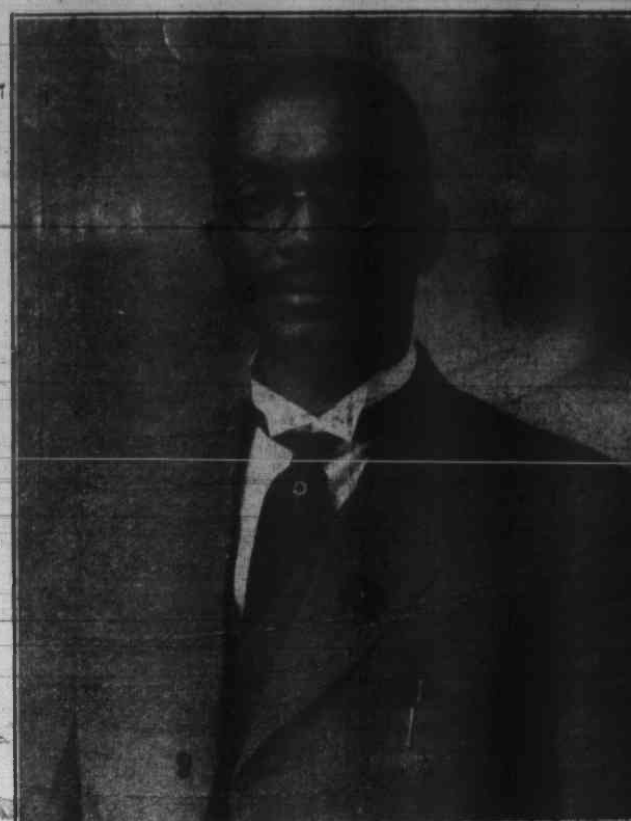

The NAACP cited this incident proving that senators must be on the job constantly once the bill comes up on the floor.

Voters are urged to visit their senators personally in their home towns before the latter return to Washington and thank them for their support in the past session and pledge to vote for the bill; but voters also should warn their senators to resist a filibuster and to take an active part in the fight for the enactment of the bill.

There are enough votes in the Senate to pass the bill; there will be no fight to get it on the calendar, since it has been agreed by both sides to take it up as item number 2 of Senate business; but there still remains a filibuster.

Southern senators have stated that they will not filibuster, but will merely make speeches against the bill. However, these are merely informal statements and cannot be trusted too much. The senators of the opposition have visited their homes since making the promises and they may return to Washington with a determination to fight. The new senator from Arkansas, John E. Robinson, is an active foe of the anti-lynching bill. He was a member of the House last spring and made several speeches against the Gavagan bill there.

"Let us take the long view," he said "and come to know more and more that perfection is art." "We shall learn," he continued, "that good taste is a product of moral forces; in the conscience of the

N. A. A. C. P. HITS WAGES AND HOURS BILL DIFFERENTIALS

NEW YORK, October 28. — A letter to congressmen and senators urging opposition to a wages and hours bill which will give federal approval to sub-standard wages for Negroes in the South was sent by the NAACP this week.

One of the main items of business for the special session of Congress, which has been called for November 15, will be a wages and hours bill, and the NAACP has become alarmed over reports from Washington that an effort will be made to have a wages and hours bill "acceptable to the South."

It is well-known that southern opponents to the wage and hour bill are bitter against the provisions which would give Negro workers the same wages and the same hours as the white workers when they do the same work.

The NAACP letter points out that already there is a racial differential in wages from which the eight million Negro workers in the South suffer.

"Negroes do not wish these wages and hour schedules, which are below any decent level of subsistence,

Noted for his militancy on all matters affecting the public and racial interest, Editor Dungee is frequently a speaker at white colleges, on the radio, and in the churches.

Morris Brown Downs Morehouse

By J. C. CUM

Morris Brown College barely squeezed a 7 to 0 victory over Morehouse College Saturday afternoon at Ponce DeLeon Park. In a game that was featured by numerous penalties to take away many of the thrills, Morehouse showed surprising strength in holding the highly touted Wolverine Eleven to a close score.

Morehouse clearly outplayed Morris Brown in two quarters of the game, Time and again, the Maroon forward wall held the widely publicized purple backfield within their fifteen yard line, and many times within their yard stripe.

The only score of the game came shortly after the first quarter started. Morehouse's poor punting had worked them deep into their own territory. A short punt was caught by Pope, half-back for the Wolverine, standing on the Maroon 30 yard line where he dashed the distance for the touchdown standing up behind perfect blocking by his team mates.

Many other long runs throughout the game were made but were marred by penalties from time to time. Perhaps the most beautiful play of the game came on a triple lateral pass that put Morehouse deep into the Morris

Brown territory but Pope, the outstanding star of the game, broke up this rally by intercepting the ball on the next play.

Brexton continued his sensational running that made him the most talked of backfield man in the South. Many times he broke off 15, 25, 36 yards and smaller gains that stamped him as the most consistent ground gainer of the day. The entire Morehouse team played a good brand of football. Had it not been for the excellent 30 yard run of Pope, they would unquestionably have gained a hard fought tie.
