

WOMEN DEMOCRATS HOLD ENTHUSIASTIC STATE RALLY

Democratic women of the State rallied in Raleigh last Saturday for the November campaign. Speakers were, left to right, top Mrs. Josiah William Bailey; Mrs. Jonathan Daniels; Beatrice Colby of Morganton, national committee woman; Jonathan Daniels, principal speaker; Mrs. W. B. Murphy of Snow Hill, State vice chairman (talking to Mrs. Spillman, member of the Unemployment Compensation Commission, standing); Mrs. Thomas A. O'Berry of Goldsboro; Mary Henderson of Chapel Hill and Mrs. Palmes Jernan of Greensboro, former State vice chairman; and State Chairman R. Gregg Cherry. On the lower row are: Attorney General Harry McMullan; Mrs. Robert Street of Charlotte, attorney; Miss Carrie McLean of Charlotte, former Legislator;

Mrs. Elizabeth Henderson Cotton of Chapel Hill; Mrs. Mary Kerr Spencer of Winston Salem; Mrs. McCain of Sanatorium; Mrs. T. Watson of Winston Salem; Miss Ruth Larke of LaGrange; and Mrs. Mae Oliver of Raleigh.

DONE AT RANDOM

BY RALPH L. LESTER
(For ANP)
THE ANVIL CHORUS
PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 18th. Theatrical Note. "Run Little Chulun," featuring Clarence Muse, is in its twelfth week and is playing to a packed house, in Hollywood, every night. A new call to worship: CH CH means nothing unless UR in it. Asid to Heywood Brown: Ralph H. Jones, a local newsman, disagrees with you consistently, but seldom fails to read your turnout. Curiosity: Certainly would like to meet Jack Benny's "Rochester"—One thing about Henry Armstrong's reported intention to retire—He'll have to retire in sections. Ella Fitzgerald: Your "A Ticket, a Tacket" failed to make a top flight record. It was No. one for five weeks but has dropped low and fast—Sidewalk Talk: "I was so sure we were going to have a war I began putting notches on my gun." People are queer: A man will buy a strange drink of liquor, yet refuse a "down and out" a nickel for a cup of coffee. EXPENSIVE GUM

The mid city shopping district was crowded with the usual Monday afternoon turnout. Near a corner was a uniformed lassie dispensing sample chewing gum to the multitude. A middle aged gent received his stick of gum and, after taking a few steps, returned for another free sample. He got it, but his greed cost him $23. Going back after the second piece he was jostled and his pocket picked. HOPE A careful observation points to the fact that Hollywood is discarding an old system. No more do names of stars make the pictures. Several recent hits had no glamorous names and it appears that the play itself will be more important in the future. If this is a correct diagnosis we shall expect to see more septal talent gracing the silver screen. DESPAIR For several years we have searched in vain for a man, or woman, who had met someone who knew a person who had been interviewed by a representative of the American Institute of Public Opinion.

THE ELUSIVE CHERRY

It has long been our desire to aid the vast number of unfortunate who rarely are successful in getting the elusive cherry at the bottom of those tall glasses of mixed drinks. With this thought in mind we have evolved a series of methods that shall prove helpful.

DIRECT APPROACH: Call for a spoon (if charged extra for this service, you may purchase spoon with freedom of conscience). With spoon push aside green trimmings or assorted top garnishings. Silvers of ice may attempt to impede your progress but, with the spirit of an Arctic explorer, push on in your case down. Contact with cherry should be made in front. Nothing will antagonize a cherry so quickly as a rear attack. After making contact press cherry against glass and firmly raise to a spearing level. With toothpick attack vigorously and after the conquest, polish on toothpick for the admiration of girl friend. She will, in all probability, snatch the captured cherry, thus leaving you the victor without spoils.

SUBTLE METHOD: Sip slowly the contents of glass, ignoring the decorations, until all liquid is gone. Quietly remove cracked ice and trimmings. With glass attacked to lips, place head in star gazing position. Tingles firmly on bottom. Cherry will depart from glass, via your nose, and fall on floor, rolling under table. From there even an inebriate can get it.

SURE FIRE: In the event the afore mentioned should fail, then use this sure fire method. Take glass firmly in hand. Reize to a height of three feet and dash on table top. Floaing through the particles of broken glass, cracked ice and what not in a rivulet of liquid refreshment, will be the elusive cherry.

LeMoynre
Beats K. C.

By M. P. Morehouse
KNOXVILLE, Tenn. Oct 18—The Knoxville Bulldogs were unable to stop the SIAC championship march of the LeMoynre College Yellow Jackets as they were humbled in their first home game of the season to the tune of 13-0. However, the stubborn resistance of the K. C. eleven shows that they are a team that will bear watching in Southern Conference circles this year. LeMoynre score in the first and fourth quarters, Smith star halfback, carrying it over for both halves. The first score came as the result of a sustained eighty yard drive, with Smith finally carrying it over from the Knoxville 10 yard line. The name "Mad Magicians" came to the minds of the fans in the fourth quarter when the LeMoynre opened up on their lateral to score the last touchdown of the afternoon. Pugh intercepted a Bulldog pass and raced 20 yards before latering it to Smith who raced 60 yards for the score. Knoxville lost two golden opportunities to score. Fratic failed to hold a pass which came to him in LeMoynre territory and later in the game, the Bulldogs were held for downs on the six yard line. LeMoynre had eleven first downs to six for Knoxville. Knoxville had a slight edge in the punting department. For Knoxville Henderson, halfback, and Dobbins, guard stood out. Smith was the outstanding man on either team. which will get under way here in November will have at the head of the Negro division, H. M. Michaux, well known young business man. Last year the Negro division succeeded in raising its quota and it is hoped that every colored person in Durham will cooperate this year, to make the drive equally successfully.
