FASHIONS and SHOPPING

In The Forum

BY MISS MORINE DIXON

If you were not in the Forum on last Saturday, say, "Too bad for you," because you missed a treat.

Every day we listen and join in discussions concerning the persecution of the Jews in Germany, so it was no surprise when the question came up before the Forum.

Miss Catherine Burnett, in leading the devotions, chose a very appropriate thought for the day from the sixteenth chapter of John, the eighteenth verse: "And he, when he is come will convict the world of sin, and of righteousness and of judgment." What more fitting passage could have opened the way for the following discourse?

W. J. Kennedy, Jr. our Vice President, Secretary was the speaker during the open Forum hour. He chose as a subject "How Firm is Our Foundation?" In presenting a recent analysis of European governmental trends, he gave facts concerning the socialists non political states (with private ownership), Norway, Sweden, and Denmark; the socialist political state (with public ownership), Russia; and the socialist political state (with private ownership), Germany.

many. The whole Nation's outraged indignation at the Nazi Anti Jewish terror has made itself felt and the reaction of the people of the United States has been against the upheaval, the same being made known through the newspapers, broadcast speeches, etc. To our surprise, however, the answer to our protest has been, "Why don't you clean up your own house instead of complaining?"

"Amid this confusion and disorder," says Mr. Kennedy, "how firm is the foundation of the American Negro? Is he an asset or a liability to the state? Is there a law stronger than public opinion?" Of course, with the asking of these questions, the discussion became 'hot and heavy' and toward 11 o'clock noon rolled around soon for those taking part. Don't let another Saturday roll around with you absent from your seat in the Forum; there is always something interesting, something to learn, something to contribute.

Visitors in the Forum were: Mrs. Martin of Richmond and Mr. Williams of Selma, Alabama. We invite them to come again.

SALISBURY, N. C. Dec. 9.—Center front: Miss Thelma E. Thompson petite, brilliant and charming senior from Ithaca, New York who was recently crowned Queen at Livingstone College's Homecoming celebration in Salisbury, N. C. Attendants of "Miss Livingstone" and runners up were Misses Gussye M. Brown, junior from Pensacola, Fla. (rear right); Ollie M. Hailey, East Spencer, North Carolina freshman (rear left); and faleria V. Purifoy, sophomore from Atmore, Ala. (rear center) respectively.

Economics At Hillside High Creates Interest

BY WILLIAM TUCK

Vocational Home, Economics, as practiced in Hillside Park High School, within the past two years, has created new interest in our school and community. This type of training provides coordination of the school work, with that of the home work on the part of the students and the teachers. It also provides the working together of the parent and teacher, in the adult clubs which are formed.

The mothers, (of Home Economics students) have become members of the schools of the various school sections of the city. One of the outstanding projects of the club is the securing of foods for well balanced lunches served 10:15 o'clock daily at school. The lunches are served to undernourished children whose parents cannot afford to buy lunches, for them. This lunch has no connection with the school cafeteria lunch as sold during the regular recess hour at 12:30 o'clock.

FOUNDER'S LIBRARY

HOWARD UNIVERSITY'S 28 years. The library and a new $1,106,000 Founder's museum is intended to be a national center for research and for occupancy next month, will also house the National Negro Library and Museum, plans for which have been in the making.

Bridge Party

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Walker, entertained a host of friends at a bridge party on Thanksgiving night at their residence on Massey Avenue. The living room was beautifully decorated with fall flowers. Four tables of bridge were played. Mrs. Walker served delicious refreshments. Those present were: Misses V. Rogers, Cora Lee Parker, Janie Thompson, Thadis Hill, Marion Loyd, Gladys Southern, Louise Hopkins and Mr. and Mrs. Williams of Roxboro, Messrs Thomas Suit, Tape, Walker, Dorce Rust and Wilfort Rush. The guests left expressing their high enjoyment at the party.

MEN'S DAY AT ZION BAPTIST CHURCH

REIDSVILLE, Dec. 8 (By V. T. Brown)—Sunday December 11, will be men's day at Zion Baptist Church. The men will have charge of the service throughout the day. On Sunday night a special program will be given.

REMEDY FOR HARD TIMES

REIDSVILLE, Dec. 8.—This was the text of Rev. H. G. Thompson Sunday morning which was a very interesting and profound sermon. The text was taken from Proverbs 3:9, 10.

WORDS WITHOUT MUSIC

By LOUIS REID (Music Features & Photo Syndicate)

DURELY Personal: I have never heard "Dixie" or "Stars and Stripes Forever" wars of the last hundred years. Those "I'll" Songs Innumerable are the song titles that begin with the contraction "I'll." The exhaustive files of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers reveal that practically every prominent songwriter has produced one or more numbers starting with the little personal determination "I'll." Most popular recent tune in this category is "I'll Sing You a Thousand Love Songs" by Warren and Dubin. With 19,000 performances to its credit, "I'll Stand By" from the pen of Benny Davis and J. Fred Coots is a fairly close second with 11,000. In third position, with a creditable showing of 5,500 performances is Noel Coward's "I'll Follow My Secret Heart" written some years back.

London's leading songwriter was also responsible, you may recall, for that seductive "I'll" waltz melody, "I'll See You Again." Many years ago Albert von Tilzer wrote "I'll Be With You in Apple Blossom Time." Gus Edwards not to be outdone turned out around the same time "I'll Be With You When the Roses Bloom Again." "I'll Be With You in Love Me and the World Is Mine" same, wrote an "I'll" song—"I'll Forget You." Victor Herbert is represented with "I'll Be Married to the Music of a Military Band."

Long before the rise of Harry Hopkins, Louis A. Hirsch and Gene Buck wrote "I'll Be a Santa Claus to You."

Have you forgotten that odd bit of witfulness, "I'll Be Glad When You're Dead, You Rascal, You," by the comparatively unknown Sam Theard? John Redmond and Sammy Mysels struck a note of defiance with "I'll Be Hanged If They're Gonna Hang Me." More up the customary sentimental side of Tin Pan Alley are "I'll Be Happy When the Preacher Makes You Mine," by Walter Donaldson, Sam M. Lewis and Joe Young, and "I'll Always Be in Love With You," by the trio, Herman Ruby, Bud Green and Sam H. Stept. A big favorite a few years back was Fred Ahlert and Roy Turk's "I'll Get By."

We have waited years to read in the newspapers of a comedian buried to the strains of the "Funeral March of a Marionette."

No Civil War Songs There was one startling omission to the recent Gettysburg celebration. None of the Civil War melodies were revived for the reunion of the Blue and the Gray. Yet, the songs of the Civil War are the most stirring of all those inspired by the

Marie Downing BEAUTY AND ROMANCE SPONSORED BY LARIEUSE BEAUTY FOUNDATION

Now that the Labor Day weekend has marked the close of summer, it is time we took stock of ourselves and set about repairing the ravages of summer sun and wind and getting ourselves in fit condition to set off our first fall clothes.

Get in front of a good mirror in a bright unflattering light. (We can't bank indefinitely in the soft glow of a shaded lamp so we might as well face the worst once and for all and see what can be done about it.) Start with your hair. Is it dried out, stiff and unruly? A series of oil shampoos and in addition the application of a good pomade will do much to correct that dried condition.

The chances are that in the heat of summer you have neglected your daily brushings. Take it up again in earnest if you hope to recapture the lost sheen. And if the sun has faded it, there are excellent preparations on the market which will help restore the lustre.

That Summer Complexion Now for the complexion. Don't despair if it looks several shades darker after all that exposure to the sun's rays. A few good bleaching treatments will restore it to its original color. But since bleaches are often drying, don't forget to give your skin plenty of good cream. It is probably rough and scaly anyway after a hard summer so don't neglect it. Try cleansing your face with cream at night instead of using soap and water, for the period of readjustment at least, and after it is thoroughly cleaned rub in a little more and allow it to remain overnight. How do your hands and nails look at this point? A bit ragged around the cuticle, cracking, and an all-over roughness? Soaking the nails in warm olive oil for a few minutes each day will restore the natural oils, soften the cuticle, and correct the brittle condition that causes them to crack. Get a good hand lotion and use it religiously every time you wash your hands. In the heat of the summer most of us were inclined to skip over this beauty rite.

Have You Slumped? If you have slumped a little in your exercises due to the heat (and who hasn't let up a bit?) you had best take up your daily dozen with renewed vigor. The fall dresses should look sleek and slim, no ungraceful bumps and bulges. A new dress looks no better than the figure that wears it. The weather is cooler now and a little will-power may be all that's needed to achieve slim, well-proportioned lines.

Start your reconditioning at once. People make allowances for summer fallings but there's no excuse for going into the winter looking anything but your best.

What are your beauty problems? Write Marie Downing, Larieuse Beauty Foundation, Room 607—511 Locust St., St. Louis, Mo., and she will be glad to answer them. Be sure to enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope.
