which emerged as champion. Another interesting aside is that this was the first time a North Carolina entrant had ever emerged victorious, Roanoke having won in '36 and Lynchburg being the top notcher in '37 and '38.

Fayetteville by virtue of its victory was awarded the Cobie Trophy and seven players on its team were given gold basketballs. The youthful Dennis Carter was awarded the Fred A. Williams medal as the best all-around player of the tournament. Smith field secured the runner up trophy. All awards were made by President F. D. Bluford of A and T College.

Those insuring the success of the tournament were W. T. Daniels, a member of the A and T College faculty, tournament director, and Jesse Phillips, manager of the A and T Jayses, chairman of the tournament committee.

Negro Education

Border State Colleges of unprincipled and untrained Negro political henchmen.

There are not many of these colleges and it is a good thing that there are not. The Jim Crow school is an unhealthy institution. Like slavery, "James Crow" must either expand or die. Fundamentally, therefore, the border state, race college is the same as the Southern state college, and it is a feeble compensation for keeping Negroes out of the regular state colleges and universities. The white politician of the border states uses very effectively the state schools for Negroes as political instruments; the petty Negro politician considers it a political toy. And he has lots of fun playing with it. The governor rewards faithful political henchmen with trusteeships on the board. More often than not these henchmen are not only untrained but are unprincipled and are lacking in a mere superficial interest in the finer things. Politics of the alley are brought into the college. Whatever loose change can be found is pocketed. Vicious little cliques are formed within the college and between trustees and the school heads, involving also other politicians. Hence the reign of chaos and resulting insecurity. A program for the college? What do politicians know or care about planning or realizing a better future for the Negro!

Whereas in the South the trustee boards are wholly white, in border states they are largely black. It is indeed hard to decide which is worse, to leave the educational interests of the race in the hands of Southern white politicians or in the hands of unprincipled and untrained Negro political henchmen.

Just Kidding

"Slam" Colbert we all see you and Annie Crawford doing the "Vipers Drag" along the campus.

Bumpass, dating Cordelia Owens is a good way how to commit suicide boy, she has a "power house" temper.

Miss Marion Barbour you and Ed, Smith look so cute together but eliminate the frequent "fuss lectures."

Page come out of the dumps, Can't you see Hattie?

Miss Virginia McDougald why don't you cut out all your static and come down to earth?

Miss Hazel Parrish, you and your gang had better lay off visiting the road house unless you want the "big bad wolf" to catch you.

Miss Thelma Spaulding if you were petted, you wouldn't look peculiar trying to act cute. Take it suavely, sister, Clara Burton we see you with so many different men about town that it is impossible for us to come to any conclusion about your "boy friend."

L. "Gipsy" Gourdin was play ing old maid rather jam up until Harvey Alston steps into the picture.

Miss A. Hansborough your boy friend Williamson looks like he has a perpetual case of "Effervescent Blues" make him snap out of it.

C. Mills if Joe Robins never catch you with Lorraine, just start saying your prayers.

We have two new colored "Wash Women." They are: Clarence Palmer and Ed Green, please patronize!

The Negro college has become much more specialized. One is not expected now to teach out of his field of special training. The preacher administrator is much less frequent now than a decade or so ago. And yet a polished preacher administrator is far superior as an administrator and an influence than the parrot "experts" in education. With what worse curse could an educational institution be afflicted! They and the ignorant dogmatic preacher are exactly in the same class. In all the schools laboratory equipment is better now than it has been, and so are the general conveniences.
