Poet's Corner

BY ANDY RAZAF
No lower breed of man is here
Then he, the war time profiteer,
Who quickly sends his prices high
And makes his haul while soldiers die.
As others watch with saddened eyes
Their loved ones march off to their doom,
In glee he waits for stocks to rise;
What does he care for flags or creeds
Or dangers of a tyrant's vice;
As long as what his country needs
Is his to sell and at his price?
The shattered homes, the countless dead,
The crippled youth, have brought to him
A chance to earn, to get ahead,
The hell of war means naught to him.
Your Lincoln and your Washingtons
Your Jeffersons and Paul Reveres,
To him, are poor comparisons
With gold (sweet music to his ears!)
So once again, with eyes that shine
He reads with joy, each war headline;
Before I praise this type of swine
God paralyze this tongue of mine!

Bar Negroes From Army Demonstration

WASHINGTON, (ANP)—"A private showing for white high school cadets only" could easily have been the sign on the Central High School stadium here Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock when the U. S. Army a demonstration of modern military methods for the benefit of white cadets.

The unit from Fort Meade, used some of the latest equipment in making this display for the cadets, showing the most intricate maneuvers.

Negro instructors in military tactics at the three Negro high schools with cadet corps, Dunbar, Armstrong, and Cardozo, were not invited to participate nor were the colored cadets invited.

When brought to the attention of the board of education, the excuse was made that Col. Craigie, white instructor in things military for Districts 1 to 9 in the school system, had made the arrangements with the officials at Camp Meade and that Col. Atwood, colored military instructor in charge of Divisions 10-13, the Negro grouping in the school system, had no inkling of what was transpiring.

This is the second time that the Negro cadets and their instructors have been ignored in such things, for on a previous occasion a demonstration at Fort Meyer, was held for the benefit of the teachers and no invitation extended the Race to participate. Whether or not a separate demonstration will be given the Race cadets is uncertain.

Lynching Bill May Come Up In November

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The federal anti lynching bill will be called up in the House Monday, November 6, if neutrality legislation has been disposed of in the Senate by that time and if Congress has not yet adjourned. This announcement was made today by Representative Joseph Gavan, sponsor of the bill in the House. At present the bill occupies a preferred position, standing first on the House calendar of legislation that is to be taken up during the regular session of Congress.

Representative Gavan's announcement followed a statement issued last week by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, which said in part:

We do not intend to try to have the bill brought up during the special session of Congress unless it is clearly indicated that other legislation than Neutrality will be taken up by Congressional leaders.

Coincident with Gavan's statement the NAACP issued a call for funds to support the anti lynching fight, to meet probable emergency action in order to save the bill. The long filibuster waged against the bill in 1938 under the leadership of southern reactionaries left a large deficit in the NAACP anti lynching fund.

"If the fight is to be made effective this year," the statement said, "we need funds at once for literature, and particularly for telegraph expenses. A typical example of this expense item is contained in a statement made by Representative Gavan recently in which he pointed out the necessity of keeping in close touch with more than 300 Representatives that who are favorably disposed to ward passage of the bill. These suggestions of books about Negroes, simplified for use in the of letters every day, so that it is necessary to each and hold their attention by means of telegrams. This is necessary in order to get them to appear on the floor of the House when the bill is called up. Enemies of the bill will always be on hand, and so it is necessary to keep the friends of the bill constantly advised about its status and when they are needed on the floor of the House."

The Association also announced that more than 115,000 petitions calling for passage of the bill, had been received to date.

Ban Books Ridiculing Negroes

SAN DIEGO, Calif.—The long fight waged by the Women's Civic League of this city to introduce books into the local school system that tell the truth about the Negro and his relationship to American life, bore fruit last fortnight, when the superintendent of school, Will C. Crawford ordered principals to withdraw "Little Black Sambo," a kindergarten story read by pupils in the third grade here.

Crawford acted after the league forced the issue, calling for an investigation. Crawford told the league following an investigation that the book had been used arbitrarily, as it was not listed as supplementary reading in the school list of such books.

The superintendent told a delegation of league members headed by Mrs. J. E. Craft, that he would be glad to receive suggestions of books about Negroes, simplified for use in the lower grades.
