Your Health And Mine

BY S. C. PYLE, M. D. INFLUENZA IS AN ACUTE, communicable febrile infection, occupying in small and large epidemics. There is sudden onset, fever lasting about three days and depression. The term "influenza" has become both popular and vague, it is applied to common colds, acute catarrhal inflammations, brief febrile attacks of unknown origin and even to abdominal symptoms.

When influenza sweeps the world in pandemic form, which occurs about once every 25 years, it becomes the most serious and furious of epidemics on account of the large numbers attacked in a short time. The death rate is high because of the great number of cases. Influenza itself probably never kills, death is always due to some complication, usually pneumonia.

No other disease is more disabling to community life, for the reason that so many are placed upon the non-effective list at the same time. Trade there is a shortage of doctors and nurses, hospital facilities are inadequate, theatres, churches and schools are closed, although the idea of closing the schools yet allowing the child to play with the other children of the community is not quite sound. At least while he is at school he is not exposed to the damp chilling outdoor weather. And the possibility of infection by his playmates.

There may be unknown factors in the spread of influenza so that our preventative measures lack precision. We have no specific preventative, we still have to work towards a definite control of the disease.

Teachers In Monthly Meet

BY W. L. BRADSHAW, Jr. DURHAM — The Fifth and Sixth Grade Teachers of the city school held their regular monthly meeting at the Pearson Elementary School on Tuesday, January 16. A brief business session was held, presided over by the president, Miss R. B. Grissom. After the business session was concluded, H. A. Hill, chairman of group three took charge of the meeting.

A brief discussion of "The Demoralizing Effects of Juvenile Delinquency," was conducted by Mesdames White, Cordice and Saunders. Dr. Henninburg of the NCC was then presented. The keynote of Dr. Henninburg's address was "Resist the evil using all of the resources at your disposal, and creating other necessary ones. Use a voice, statistics showing how children are spending their leisure time, pointing out that so much leisure time is ill-used that delinquency must result.

"Games and sports devised without huge outlays of money are means of combating this evil." It can never be wiped out entirely, as long as there are unemployment, social problems, and an ever increasing fear of future insecurity, there will be more juvenile delinquency. Juvenile delinquency is so closely interwoven with adult delinquency, without which the other could not be.

"There is hope for the future. We must work together instead of relying so much on commercialized activities." The teacher, he pointed out, must attack the problem, and set up an atmosphere of learning. He

IN MEMORIAM

IN MEMORY OF OUR DEAR SON AND BROTHER, James Henry Morgan, who departed this life on January 27, 1944. He was known and loved by all of this community and by many of their communities. Those who associated intimately with him became links in a chain of friendship which even the cold finger of death cannot break.

Altho just twelve years old, James Henry was a leader in his every day school class, his Sunday School class and in other church and community organizations. Was president of his 471 Club.

In him could be found the most outstanding attributes of manhood. He was ambitious and intelligent and certainly a bud awaiting its time for maturation when it would burst forth with all its splendor and magnificence. But God, his maker, saw fit to pluck this bud and the success which was certain to come, did not arrive.

His place cannot be filled but we are striving to—"So live that when the Summons comes to join that innumerable Caravan which moves to that mysterious realm, where each shall take his chamber in the silent halls of death," that we may be ready.
