MTM—I want a little home of my own. I have a house now, but I don't like it. I have a house I want to put a house on the lot. Will you help me?

Ans: You can't have a house until you are able to build a house. Buy property with a house already erected and a deed of reconveyance. Since your husband isn't regularly employed, it will take you a long, long time to arrange to build.

RD—Mr. Wallace, I want to know why me and my husband can't get along every Saturday. When he comes from work at 11 a. m. he won't eat, goes off to work, and comes home for supper. Comes in about 2 in the morning drunk, says he goes to dance but won't take me. What can I do?

Ans: Wake up and stop being a sap. As long as you put up with his present conduct, he will keep right on acting the way he does. About the only way you can handle him is to get a job yourself, keep your own money, go out when he goes out and give him a few things to worry about. If you don't stop him you are bound to lose him, for he doesn't go DANCING ALONE.

JTL—I am a young man of 30 and the husband of 3 wives. Would like to know if my wife of today is true and will I ever be happy?

Ans: She's true blue. There is no reason why you can't make your present marriage a success if you ACT RIGHT YOURSELF and treat your wife with respect. I might add that she's a bit 'hot headed' and she won't stand for any funny stuff.

RT—For the past eight years I have taught school. Going home in the summer or taking extra work back at the college. I'm tired of this life. Would I be living beyond my means if I were to go to the Fair this year?

Ans: A very sensible thing for you to do. Stay at least two weeks and spend a little of the money that you have saved these years of teaching. It's indicated to me that you will return from New York happier than you have ever been in your life you will make a new acquaintance. Marriage is indicated within a year.

AD—I'm thinking about marriage with my girl friend but really am at a loss. Why don't we get along any better than we do?

Ans: For the past TWO YEARS this girl has been wait-

Daughters, Mothers Convene

DURHAM—The Mother-Daughter celebration was held Wednesday, May 15. A very interesting program was arranged by the girls under the supervision of the adviser Miss Mary Tonkins. Miss Vivian Alston was Mistress of Ceremonies.

After the program expressions were heard from the mothers. An informal social hour followed.

The following were awarded pens for attendance, loyalty and dependability: Ernestine Faucett, Dorothy Faucett, Vivian Alston, Evelyn Malone, Eva McLaurin, Laura Williams, Geraldine Williams, Flora Townsend, Margaret Page, Johnnie Shaw, Gloria Markham, Jessie Pulley, Thelma Pulley.

The awards were made at the regular meeting May 20.

the TIMES and let me know if I am doing right by taking this man in with me in my business. I have my doubts but want to be sure.

Ans: He can't be of any assistance to you. You have enough money to financial your little business and you don't need anyone there to tell you what to do and what not to do. Don't take in a partner.

ing for you to make up your mind to marry her, and she's come to the conclusion that you don't intend to keep your promise. She loves you but she's beginning to lose confidence in you. She's contemplating a change, if you don't marry her right away, you won't have the chance.

AMT—I have knots on both sides of my neck and I want to know what causes them and is the doctor doing any good? I want to change doctors.

Ans: Medical treatment is the only thing that will relieve this gland trouble that you are suffering with. Go to the City Clinic for an examination regardless of who you have treated you, be sure that you follow the doctor of your choice carefully. A change for the better can be brought about if you cooperate with your doctor.

BEHIND THE APRON

By HERMAN J. D. CARTER

Chapter V
Synopsis

John has gotten the telephone number of the queen of his heart, the waitress whom he desires to win for his cherished love. Before you recline to read this startling episode, bleach your skin with NADINOLA BLEACHING CREAM, to lighten it, and remove the blemishes, and spots. Some say it removes liver spots. Try it at your druggist.

THE STORY
John didn't sleep that night; but all night he robed and tossed in his bed. Her image swayed before him. He heard her music like voice, and saw her small thin-lipped smile and her rhythmic glides. He even smelled the half fresh food-laden air. Her image like presence changed its smell to that of a honeysuckle den. Here was his love! Here was the woman he hoped to marry. The first time in his life he really felt deeply in love, and he had received an invitation to call.

Then a screen of discontent came over him. Would she be nice and just merely talk to him? Would she allow him to call on her? What would she do? "My God!" He gasped as sticky perspiration popped out on his neck and under his eyes because of his worry.

At seven he arose. "Too early to call her," he reasoned; because she had worked until after midnight the night before. As he watched the minute hand every now and then in an effort to hurry up the time, which seemed to go back, his blood seemed to chill and ooze through his veins like ice prongs. Then eleven-thirty arrived.

"I can't wait any longer," he snapped, and dialed her phone number.

"Hello," he said with a staccato jerk in his voice. "May I speak with Miss Snow please?" He asked of a female voice who answered his call.

"In Bed? What time does she get up?"

"Why er... yes I would like to speak to her; but I hate to get her out of bed since she was up so late last night."

"Beg Pardon?"

"No, I want to leave a number, just tell her that... Oh, all right I'll wait," he said submitting to her request to hold the wire a moment. Soon she was back on the other end of the wire.

"Miss Snow says who is it?"

"Don't get her up but tell her it is John Crowe, the fellow she met last night."

"Oh thank you. She was expecting your call."

A new wave of encouragement paralyzed his soul, and he seemed to soar skyward. Deafening noises drummed in his soul as he waited for her to reach the telephone. Then she came.

"Hello," he answered nervously.

"Hello," he heard her voice over the wire.

His soul snapped, and he seemed to be twirling through space, lost and caring not where he was going, but just going.

"Hello," he answered nervously, then he pinched himself to see if he were real.

"Well, is this Mr. Crowe?"

"Yes, er... it is..."

"Well it is good to hear your voice. I thought you would call."

"Why would you think like that? If you only knew how I have suffered and puzzled my brain trying to think of a way to get next to your heart, you would look upon me in a different light."

"Please tell me just why you think of me like that. You know one thing," she smiled, "your tone of voice sounds true, and your voice sounds pleasant, but I'm wondering just why you picked me to be your target."

"Maybe if I could have permission to see you sometimes other than at the cafe, you would understand."

"Just why should I understand?"

"Because I think you are different."

Read next week's startling episode of this story sent to you by the makers of Nadinola Bleaching Cream. You should buy this preparation because its makers are striving to find more Negro writers to take the places left vacant by the death of James Weldon Johnson, and Walter Thurman, and many others who have gone and left their works behind.

MBL Ass'n Joins Federal Home Loan Bank

The Mutual Building and Loan Association of Durham, North Carolina has been notified that it has been accepted as a member of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Winston-Salem.

The Association was organized January 25, 1921, in the North Carolina Mutual Annex on West Parrish Street, and has enjoyed continuous growth in assets having started with $400.00, and increased to approximately $300,000.00 at this time. It is rendering a great service to the community through efficient management by promoting home ownership, and providing a safe place for persons to save systematically.

In notifying the local institution that it had been approved for membership O. K. LaRoque, President of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Winston-Salem stated to R. L. McDougald, Secretary-Treasurer, "We feel that your association has just a case for pride in having successfully met the requirements for membership in the Federal Home Loan Bank System. This is particularly true in view of the high standards required in connection with the financial strength of members, as well as character of management and loan policies consistent with sound and economical home-financing." This record justifies the support and confidence of all civic-minded persons.

The Association paid $12,000 in matured shares to members during the month of May. Officers of the Association are:

F. L. McCoy, Chairman of Board; C. C. Spaulding, President; Clyde Donnell, Vice-President; A. Elder, Vice-President; E. R. Merriek, Vice-President; R. L. McDougald, Secretary-Treasurer; J. S. Stewart, Asst. Secretary-Treasurer; Mrs. R. B. Davis, Assistant-Secretary.

QUESTION: What are the requirements of a good egg storage cellar?

ANSWER: An ideal egg storage cellar has a dirt floor so that more moisture is present. Likewise, there should be a ventilating window on one side near the top. Slatted platforms should be built on the ground so as to keep the eggs several inches off the floor. Market eggs at least twice weekly during hot weather.
