Man's Three Life Sentences Are Puzzle "Harlem's Going To Miss Me", He Says

NEW YORK — Roger Guillory was a very puzzled young man when he was leaving Grand Sessions Court accompanied by two deputy sheriffs. He just could not seem to understand how he was going to serve the three possible life terms that had been imposed on him by Judge Jacob G. Schurman, Jr. Two of the sentences, for first degree robbery with the use of dangerous weapon, a long knife were for terms of thirty years to life, and another, for rape, from twenty years to life.

"Why did the judge give me life three times?" he demanded of the deputies. "I haven't got three lives."

"He told you those sentences to be served concurrently," explained one of the deputies.

"What's that mean?" asked Guillory.

"You can serve all three sentences at one time but of course, the least you will serve will be about thirty years."

"My, my" exclaimed Guillory. "Harlem's going to miss me a long time."

Guillory has a police record running back fourteen years and showing seven arrests. He had pleaded guilty to two robberies and the third charge. Two women in Harlem were separate accomplices against him. He had threatened one on the street with soon after was Detective Hebley.

WILLIAM STRUDWICK CASE IS SETTLED

DURHAM — New evidence brought to light this week in the case of William Strudwick, popular Durhamite, and Fayetteville school teacher, discloses the fact that the young girl in the case was not actually criminally assaulted by Mr. Strudwick.

In a later interview Saturday with the Editor of this newspaper, the mother of the child stated specifically that her daughter was not raped. In the excitement and hysteria following the finding of the child, statements were made by principals in the affair, which when viewed later calmly and dispassionately, were found to have been exaggerated.

WASHINGTON — The War Department has forwarded instructions to the Commanding Generals of the nine Corps Areas authorizing them to employ Negro subalterns in the 150 colored Civilian Conservation Corps camps it was announced today at the office of James J. McEntee, Director of the CCC.

"Negro reserve officers who are in inactive status and officers of the active reserve who fail to qualify for military duty, may be considered for vacancies in the officer personnel of CCC camps," the War Department announcement stated. "Negro educational advisers who have been on duty with the CCC and colored enrollees who have demonstrated their fitness will also be eligible for appointment as subalterns."

"At present there are two CCC companies, one in the Second Corps Area and one in the Third Corps Area, officered and commanded entirely by colored personnel. There is a single subaltern serving in the Fifth Corps Area and one in the Eighth Corps Area. Negro enrollees constitute about ten per cent of the CCC. In 150 camps all of the enrollees are colored. Some 70 other camps have one or more colored enrollees."

A colored educational adviser is on duty at each of the 150 CCC camps. Mr. McEntee said. In addition to these educational advisers, colored doctors and chaplains have been assigned to CCC duty during the past five years.

N. Y. U. Objects Playing Famed Basketball Star In South

NEW YORK — Reports coming from New York University are to the effect that student in that institution are up in arms against the administration of that famous educational institution over the barring of Jim Coward, Negro athlete from playing in the basketball game to be played in Chapel Hill against the University of North Carolina on January 18th.

Contrary to traditional custom it is NYU that objects to playing Coward and not the University of North Carolina. "I had supposed it was the color issue that is keeping Coward off the team. We get objections from the side when lists are handed in. They have a perfect right to make stipulations, and we have a right to accept or not accept such stipulations. I don't think there are any questions of technical ineligibility concerned with it. My feelings and sympathy are with you, but there has to be some promise. It is our privilege to take colored players off the team."

In an interview with Badger issued by Coach Lang who stated that he had no objection to playing his team against Coward. (Tanner) and said, "If a white girl doesn't want to sit next to a colored boy or girl at a table it is her privilege to move away." He questioned one of the girls to the effect that "Would you marry a colored boy?"

The attitude of the North Carolina institution has been definitely expressed in a statement issued by Coach Lang who stated that he had no objection to playing his team against Coward. (Tanner) and said, "If a white girl doesn't want to sit next to a colored boy or girl at a table it is her privilege to move away." He questioned one of the girls to the effect that "Would you marry a colored boy?"

At NYA the Council for student equality has been denied a table to circulate petitions protesting the action of the administration in an interview with Coach Lang brought the following statement: "NYU game is a high spot on our schedule. We have a lot of respect for your team."

"I would want to play against ports has resulted in the discrimination and Jim Crow of Leonard Bates as in the NYU-Mo. game Nov. 2nd, 1940. The policy as stated by the school. The team will not have any objections. You may quote me as saying that I have no objections." "I am in sympathy with the thing. We would play according to the policies and traditions of the school which we are playing. The traditions is very strong in the south, though it is diminishing. There is no issue as far as we are concerned. It would have to be settled by the school. I have no authority."

Since Jan. 2nd, the COUNCIL FOR STUDENT EQUALITY has proposed unsuccessfully to get permission from the school administration at NYU to get the customary table in the cafeteria for the purpose of having petitions signed to accept it. It violates every tenet of human decency and is contrary to the fundamental concepts of racial tolerance for which NYU students in the space of 1-2 hour is known. As we say further that the attitude of Prof. Badger as expressed in one of our committees in Washington, D. C. on January 7th, at which he stated in part that he was quibbling about the
