SOCIAL NOTES

MANHATTAN CLUB
The Manhattan Club held its regular meeting at the home of Willie Royster, last Monday night. The meeting was well attended by the members and many plans were fully arranged for the remains of the year.

The club is now entering its third year of activity and is making a rapid progress. Every member seems to be putting forth every effort there is to help make the Manhattan Club the largest social club in the city. It has many policies for which the members are working to make a success. The Anniversary Dance which this club sponsors every year has been delayed due to some reasons for the benefit of the club. The dance which is to be announced later is planned to be one of the most colorful of all dances sponsored in the past. Members elected to work in the club are:

Exter Gilmer, President
James Keith, Vice president
Josie Powell, Secretary
Joseph Neal, Asst-Secretary
Willie Royster, Treasurer
Janie Saunders, Social Com.
Patter Plummer, Program Com.
Joseph Neal, Sick Committee
John Plummer, Business Mgr.
James F. Morris, Reporter

Others members of the club are Miss Georgianna McClain, Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Crews, Messrs Joseph Shaw, Thomas Holloway, Willie Crews, Willie Purell, Douglas Powell and LeRoy Johnson.

Watch the social page of this paper for each bi-monthly meeting of the Manhattan Club.

Kerchoo!
I think I am taking the flue. The two girls in the office have been sneezing and sniffing for three days. I began to hurt on the nether end of my spinal column early this morning. My eyes are flooding with tears, yet I am not crying about anything. My nostrils are swollen and very stuffy. My head aches on two sides and in the middle. All the breakfast I ate this morning tasted like epsom salts. My big toes on both feet are hurting, but I have no corns. My back feels like it's broke in 4 places.

Among the sick are: Mr. Henry McLean, Mrs. Carrie Raye, Mrs. Annie Bell and Mattie McLean and Mrs. Mary Smith.

Stepmother's Attitude Should Be Friendly

EVERY year thousands of women take up the task of raising other women's children. The job of being a foster mother is not an easy one, but the attendant problems are not impossible to solve. Especially difficult, says Gretta Palmer in the February Good Housekeeping Magazine, is the role of stepmother-through-divorce. Since, in this case, the child has two mothers, the situation may prove thoroughly bewildering to him. Further complications may occur if any discord arises between the two households in which he has a part. For the sake of the child, any differences must be straightened out from the start.

A stepmother, Miss Palmer advises, must not demand a child's affection. Her attitude should be that of a wise, friendly grownup. The real mother should have first claim in all decisions; the stepmother should defer to her judgment. But if there is a problem with which she feels better able to cope, she should first ask the husband to obtain the other's permission to handle it. If mothers study their jobs, they can make a glowing success out of them.

BEAUTY AND ROMANCE

L'ARIEUSE BEAUTY BUREAU

The L'arieuse Beauty Bureau was established by the Godfrey Manufacturing Company to study methods of preserving women's natural beauty, and to make the results of this research available to the public.

Webster defines "Individuality" as that quality which distinguishes one person from another. If you were to stand on a corner before a theatre or a church, and watch the great numbers of people coming out, you would be amazed at the dissimilarity of faces—so very many faces and yet all different, one from the other. It is "individuality" which makes you "you" and me "me."

Sometimes it helps actively to contribute to that quality which says that you are Dorothy and Mary is Mary, by a little exterior embellishment. We see it being done every day—and it is so simply accomplished that I wonder we didn't think of it before this.

For instance, take a group of high school girls. Probably they are all dressed in sweaters and skirts—some wear blouses instead of sweaters. However, all in all, there seems to be quite a uniformity about them. But, beyond dress, that similarity ceases. How? Look for yourself and you'll soon determine one of the chief reasons.

I think it lies in their hair fashions. One may be a long bob—one a very short. Some girls affect curls; others like their hair straight and severe.

If you enjoy having ribbons on your topknot, tie them in carelessly—they will be artistic and casual-looking. If bangs on your forehead attract attention to your smooth hairdress, if they direct the observer to lovely eyes, then I say wear bangs.

Hair rolled up all around the head in what is termed the "halo" adds distinction to classic features. However, beware of this type of hairdress if your face is round.

Curls bunched loosely around the face lend softness to it, and add a prettiness that isn't often obtained by any other means.

If your neck is long, try wearing your hair in a long bob, or in a mass of curls hanging low. You'll like the way this hairdress has a tendency to shorten the line of your throat. On the other hand, if your neckline is short, piling your curls on top your head will make you look taller and take away from the short-neck, dumpy look.

Experiment with your own hair, and you'll soon find the style which makes you "yourself."

To make your hair fashion the delight of your life and the envy of your associates, be sure that your hair is kept clean. Stimulate its natural beauty with regular stiff brushing. If you are disappointed in its appearance because it seems to be turning one color or another, apply an accredited hair coloring so that it will be uniformly lovely. Many women are making use of the scientific helps which are being offered to them to improve on their inherent attractiveness. What better place to begin than with one's crowning glory!

What are your beauty problems? Write: Marie Downing, L'arieuse Beauty Bureau, 3509 Lindell Blvd., St. Louis, Mo., and she will be glad to answer them. Be sure to enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

ODD COMMENT

Health is only important to sick people.

Monopolies rarely seem evil to the man who has seen one.

When Nazi-land is complete, the United States will not be there.

Americanism: Shouting about individualism and following the crowd.

Farming: Good seed, good land, hard work and a large yield, plus a crop loan.

It is amusing to observe what some men will do for the sake of a little publicity.

The year 1941 will not begin, for some people, until the umpire calls, "Play Ball!"

The individual who argues against education is an example of the lack of education.

Why should this country argue and be horror-struck by air raid bombings that kill a score or more, when daily our automobiles kill a hundred?

Constitutional Note: Any American President, at any time, has ample power to involve the United States in a war... or for that matter to start one on his own accord.

Self-defense includes reasonable foresight in preventing an occasion for the use of firearms.

Some patriots will not believe that any nation will attack the United States until the invading army reaches the Mississippi river.

Children of Screen Stars Reared in Happy Homes

HOLLYWOOD has gone home-town. And in a big way, too. Go to a Hollywood dinner party with a group of fabulous movie stars as guests, and what will they talk about? Technicolor? Disney's Fantasia? Hemingway's new book?

Definitely "No!" Mary Hamman tells the readers of the February Good Housekeeping Magazine. The conversation she reports, is much more apt to run to kindergartens, grade schools, infant trunks and children's toys. For the glamorous movie stars, children are the topic of the moment, and they might well be, for they are a fine healthy lot of youngsters, all beautifully brought up.

Miss Hamman recounts that Margaret Sullivan, at the slightest suggestion, will fetch pictures of her two children from her handbag, and then babble happily about her domestic dynasty. Five-year-old Fred Astaire, Jr. doesn't dance, but he loves music. "He likes the highbrow stuff best," his father says, "and that's definitely too tony for me."

Edward G. Robinson has an adopted child in his son Manny, just ten years old. Many adoptees have been given a sense of their worth. Miss Hamman says, for her part, she every gesture, inflection and mannerism of Edly G.

These devoted Hollywood families are the rule, not the exception, according to Miss Hamman. Consider Hollywood the rule, and you will never see one poor little neglected child or a spoiled, ill-bred adult!
