ASCAPS Give Bennett Choir Special Permission To Sing Dett Compositions

GREENSBORO — R Nathaniel Dett, director of music at Bennett College, and one of the foremost present day composers, has just received special permission from John G. Paine, general manager of the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers, to use his own compositions to coast broadcasts. The Bennett College choir is scheduled to sing over the Mutual coast to coast, book up, Sunday April 27 from Scranton, Penn., when the choir will be on its annual northern tour. Other broadcasts are being arranged between the dates April 17 and May 2, when the choir will be away from Greensboro.

This year, because of the reputation of the Dett aggregation of more than fifty young women, their itinerary is including points as far west as Detroit, Michigan and Toledo, Ohio. The first concert will be held in Danville, Va. After journeying west and then north to New York City, the tour will close with appearances in Washington, Hampton, and Hali fax, Va.

The repertoire of the choir will include both classical numbers and spirituals, several of which are the compositions of Dr. Dett. ASCAP LETTER

CORDIAL
Mr. Paine was cordial in his response to the request made by John G. Turner, manager of the choir, asking permission that Dr. Dett's compositions be used in broadcasts by the choir. He said, in part,

"The American Society will be very happy to grant special permission to Bennett College to use the works of Dr. Dett in connection with the girls' choir broadcasts." He assumed that the broadcasts were to be non commercial and added that announcement be made that numbers were being rendered "through the courtesy of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers."

HILLSIDE PARK HIGH SCHOOL ANNOUNCES HONOR ROLL

Batista, Cuba's Negro President, Is Threatened

HAVANA, (NNS) — Official secrecy still surrounds the abortive attempt at revolt tried earlier this month by the chiefs of the Army and Navy against the Negro President of Cuba, Fulgen- cio Batista. After the first day so the story was quickly dropped in the white press in the United States, and since that time there has been little news of definite value on the matter. The tendency in the United States has been to "down the incident as another "comic opera" revolution—the usual attitude of the white power towards smaller less favored (and colored) nations striving for unity and advancement.

BEHIND THE HEADLINES is another story, however, details of which are being whispered in the embassies in Cuba. It is a tale of international intrigue and chicanery, common in the history of Caribbean republics.

It is well known that several of the leading white Powers have long eyed with disfavor the success of Cuba's brilliant Negro leader, Batista, and the reforms he has instituted affecting black people. When he resigned his Army command to assume the Presidency, it was felt that the time was ripe for weakening his power and prestige. The white powers do NOT want a free and successfully independent Cuba at this stage in World War No. 2.

Yet to date, Batista has given them no cause to interfere, even for the time worn reason of "protection against aggression by foreign powers."

It will be remembered that in the last week of January a temporary flurry was caused in Washington by the proposed legislation of Senator Smathers of New Jersey that Cuba be admitted to the United States as another State. This suggestion was cried down by official Washington. and Navy Chiefs against President Batista took place. Had the Negro population. Vegetable Platter in Green, Gold, and White

WHAT does the beautiful platter of green beans, snowy cauliflower and corn-on-the-cob pictured above, have to do with good citizenship? More than you might think! For along with Uncle Sam's encouragement of better nutrition for men of fighting age, has come a program stressing better nutrition for all of America so that its citizens may be fit in time of need. Cooking the family's vegetables so as to retain the vitamins thus becomes a matter of national significance.

Many of the vitamins that are lost in cooking vegetables are discarded as part of the cooking liquid. You'll find that there will be no cooking liquid left to discard if you do your vegetable cooking on a modern electric range. For the heat of electric surface units is controlled heat and can be kept so low that only 1/4 to 1/2 cup of water is needed to cook most vegetables safely and without burning, preserving both the flavor and vitamins.

Three Vegetable Platter (Serves 6)
1 cauliflower
2 12-ounce cans corn-on-the-cob (8 ears)
1 pound green beans (shredded)
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter
Wash and trim cauliflower, place in large saucepan with sufficient cold water to cover bottom of saucepan and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Wash and shred green beans, place in medium-sized saucepan with sufficient cold water to cover bottom of saucepan and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Cover vegetables and place on electric surface units over high heat. When steam comes from vegetables, turn to the lowest heat that will maintain steaming. Cook green beans 15 to 20 minutes; cauliflower, 20 to 25 minutes. Meanwhile, place canned corn-on-the-cob in well cooker, add sufficient liquid from can to cover bottom of cooker, and heat with high heat until steam comes from cooker. Then arrange cauliflower in center of large serving platter. Mix drained beans lightly with butter. Arrange ears of corn by pairs around cauliflower, dividing space into fourths. Place green beans between corn. Pour deviled ham sauce over cauliflower and serve.

Deviled Ham Sauce
1 1/2 cups tomato juice
3/4 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons butter
1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard
1/2 teaspoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 ounces can deviled ham
Blend butter and flour in saucepan over medium heat. Add remainder of ingredients and cook, stirring constantly until mixture is smooth and thick, about 5 minutes.
