WHEN the youngsters swoop V down on you at noon from school, that's the time to set before them big steaming bowls of soup.

about the perfect hot luncheon dish for it is quick and easy to prepare —and good. Just open the can, add water or milk as the case may be, and heat.

Tomato and Vegetable-Beef Soup Hot soup leaves no heavy after feeling either. Yet it provides the quick energy a youngster needs to keep him alert for the afternoon's activities. The recipe for the first soup given below offers a delicious blend of two soups; tomato—which all children love—and vegetable-beef, thick with little chunks of beef and

Soup, of course, is one of the best ways in the world to get more milk into a child's diet. Many s child who balks at drinking milk will take it in soups and pass happily back for more. For instance, here is a nourishing vegetable purde to which is added milk:

Cream of Asparagus Soup t can condensed asparagus soup

WHILE other nations are being held spell-bound by an insidious thing called "propaganda" Americans are regaled by "propaganda" of a different nature; it is otherwise known as "publicity."

Of all the mumbo jumbo that goes Of all the numbo jumbo that goes out under that name, the most impressive is that which emanates from Hollywood. Kay Mulvey and Marion Frey tell how such things are handled in the February issue of Cosmopolitan. It is not to be thought that Hollywood publicists make up the stories they send out, the writers warn, it is simply that they go a step further and make the news happen before they send out their atories.

For instance, the order was received to publicize the new picture that Ann Sheridan was appearing in. A bright young fellow conceived the idea of a college boy handcuffing himself to her for love or a bet or something. No sooner was the idea born than work was started on it. Miss Sheridan was not informed of the plot just to make the whole thing more natural. The boy was found hired, carefully coached and the story broke page one of a prominent San Francisco paper and page 2 of a staid New York chronicle.

Of course, there are sad stories of stars who grow to believe their own publicity. Such a one was the un-lucky man who grew so fond of the picture of himself as a West Pointer which was dreamed up by a publicity man that he ultimately was arrested during World War I for imperson-ating an officer. Most of it, however, is carefree nonsense that fools no one and entertains millions of news-
