MC—I made a trip from home to take a job and when I got there the job had been filled. Tell me if I should remain here or go back home?

Ans.—Stay there in the city and do all that is in your power to get a job. You were not working at home and you stand a much better chance of finding good employment right there in the city where you are. Call on the various companies you contacted thru mail before having left protect you and that is the reason. You will have a job before the end of May.

HEJ—I am 19, married and the father of a month old girl. My wife and I seem to get along fine except when her family are around and they seem to want to run our life and home affairs. What should I do?

Ans.—Don't give your wife family the pleasure of letting next fall in them know they irritate you. Pre- tend that you welcome their suggestions and then do as you please. When you roll back on the job, which will be only a few more days now conditions will be more pleasant for both you and your wife's people too.

AM—I am engaged to a young the case to court and let the law decide which of you should have them. At this time your husband is in a better position to look after the kids than you are. Content yourself. Get a job and visit your children often as you desire.

SF—Is it wise for me to leave home and go to my sister's in New York for I don't think that my family understand me very well and I am not happy here with them.

Stay right at home with your parents until school is out. Ask them at that time to let you go to visit your sister. The change will do you a world of good and will make you realize what a nice home-life you are living right now. You will be ready to come home after you have been away for a couple of months.

CRT—I married at 15 and had a baby and separated a month later. I am 18 now and my husband wants us back. Should I go to him?

Ans.—Yes, it is the place for you and the baby. You are older as well as your husband and you know that life isn't a bed of roses now. Go back to him and try to make him happy.

Hillside Students Practicing For Spring Operetta

Durham — Mrs. G. A. Winslow of Hillside Park High School has announced that the final week of rehearsing has begun for the spring operetta which will be presented at the school Friday night, May 9, by the students of the seventh grade. The title of the operetta is "Taffy Ann."

The leading characters are Jean Harris as Taffy Ann, John Harris as Gallie, the mischief maker, Willie Rose Jones as Serunchy, the poor girl; Pauline Marsh as Eloise, the little lame girl. This operetta is widely known as one of the most attractive picturesque that can be presented for students of the elementary grades.

Durhamites are very familiar with the reputation which Mrs. Winslow has in the direction of plays and operettas and from the record of advance sales for tickets a capacity crowd is expected.

10 Commandments To Guard Nation's Bathroom Towels

Joliet, Ill.—Ten "bathroom commandments" for Mr. and Mrs. America were released here today by research scientists of the American Institute of Laundering.

The scientists declared these rules are the "only effective defense against the total warfare waged by the careless family against its towels, leaving them "tattered and torn."

The ten commandments:

1. Never stretch a towel, it weakens the fabric, tears the threads, twists the shape.
2. Mop moisture from the skin; don't rub.
3. Never put a wet towel in the hamper, it might mildew.
4. After swimming, be sure to wash away all sand, because such grit will cut the threads.
5. Never dry razor blades on towels; tiny nicks become big holes.
6. Never wipe shoes with towels; dirt and grit cut the fabric and stains corrode the cloth.
7. Don't playfully "snap" a towel; it breaks corner threads.
8. Don't use a towel to mop up astringents or medicine; they may weaken it considerably.
9. Keep porcelain cleaners away from towels and other cloth.
10. A towel is meant to dry the body, not the floor, use it as a floor mop and you court disaster.

Marie Downing BEAUTY AND ROMANCE

SPONSORED BY LARIEUSE BEAUTY BUREAU

The Larieuse Beauty Bureau was established by the Goddard Manufacturing Company to study methods of preserving women's natural beauty, and to make the results of this research available to the public.

Today we are standing upon the threshold of the calendar's most trying period for proper care of the hair and scalp—the summer months of June, July and August.

Cleanliness of hair and scalp is the basis for hair health and beauty. There is no escape from that fact. It is true, it cannot be avoided, and each of us must accept it—and act accordingly. But, you will say, "summer heat is detrimental to cleanliness!" And I'll have to agree.

If you want lovely hair during the summer months, you simply will have to give your hair greater attention. Brush it regularly, to stimulate scalp circulation and to stimulate a more normal flow of hair oils. And, shampoo your hair more regularly—to remove dirt, perspiration, oils and the dried skin sloughed off by the scalp.

I expect that this next statement is news to you. It was news to me. But, tests have demonstrated that the hair picks up and retains more dirt in an hour than the rest of the body does in an entire day. Many of us believe in daily baths, of course. We cannot wash our hair each day, though. Nor do you need to wash it each day.

If your hair is oily, you should shampoo once each week. If you have normal hair, you should shampoo every 10 days. If your hair is exceptionally dry, you should shampoo every two weeks.

Before shampooing, always brush your hair so that dry particles in the hair and on the scalp can be
