 the South Carolina police followed him with demands for his return to that state.

Special credit also goes to Ray V. Guild, president of the Boston branch NAACP who pled Ford's cause and was largely instrumental in preventing his being turned

Woman Slain

 one bullet penetrated the lungs and the other probably struck the heart. Neither an autopsy nor an inquest was held.

Shortly after 11 a. m., Monday the woman gave herself up to officers riding along Jackson St. in a patrol car. They said she told them she had been hiding in some honeysuckle vines on Jackson street, and everytime she looked out a patrol car was going by, so she decided to surrender as it appeared only a matter of time before police located her.

Detectives said she handed over a 32 calibre revolver which had been fired four times recently and admitted the shooting. She declared that the slain girl was advancing on her and she was afraid the other was going to pull an ice pick from her clothes, police stated.

It was reported that Miss Burt had taken the other woman

Home's Livability Affected By Rooms

Orientation, an important factor affecting the livability of the small home, has been described as the process of "putting the sun and wind in the right windows." Officials say that it is difficult to set any hard and fast rules concerning the relationship of rooms to sunlight, prevailing winds, and view, which will apply to all cases.

Geographical location has a bearing on orientation as well as the plan. In the North houses are usually built with a compact plan for economy and comfort in Winter weather.

Dear Sirs:—

It has been my pleasure to work with Dr. C. M. Eppes for twenty-six years. I consider him one of my very best friends and his work here has been of the very highest order. I know of no place where there is a more friendly feeling between the races than in our little city of Greenville and I attribute much of this to the splendid work of Dr. Eppes.

Yours very truly,
