How You Can Grow Long, Healthy Hair

Certain parts of the body grow to a certain size and no further, whereas, Hair Grows always if you keep your scalp healthy. An itching scalp causes itching. When you scratch your scalp you make sores and scars. HAIR WILL NOT GROW FROM A SCAR There are no sweat glands in sores or scars. The body is given power by nature to make certain outgrowths of skin which we all know very well. Hair is produced by our scalp skin. Each Hair Grows from a special little place in the true skin. If you destroy or mutilate this true skin you may feel all right, but nothing will ever form another true skin. A scar is not skin. You will never find a hair growing from a scar or sore. Hair grows from the cells of the hair bulbs. If you do not look after these hair bulbs, hair will become brittle and break off. There are two glands to each hair to produce oil that keeps it soft and pliable, keeps it from becoming dry and from cracking. Every hair has a muscle which is attached to the root. School Days Bring Out Glamorous New Cotton Fashion

Here it is September again. And September means back to school—and inevitable, school days mean cotton fashions.

What a treat American College and high school girls are in for as they begin their pre-school shopping tours. They'll be dazzled by glamorous new velveteens. They'll like the practical touch of fine corduroys. And they'll cheer for durable, long-lived gabardines. Just one glance will convince them that without cottons no school wardrobe is complete.

True enough, the war and America's own defense program will show their effect on cotton fashions on the campus. Tailored corduroy suits—just a bit severe, though exceedingly smart in lines—will be seen in the classroom. There'll be a greater swing toward slack suits for picnics and lounging around the dormitories.

Thrills in Velveteen

But whatever severity there is in everyday clothing, it will certainly find relief in the thrilling new velveteen dinner and evening dresses the college girl will wear to formal parties and campus balls. The soft folds of long full sleeves give an air of feminine sophistication to the very newest freshman.

And speaking of velveteens, they're going to be more popular than ever before for dress-up afternoon parties, tea dances, and of course to wear weekends at home or on the campus at Tech where Joe's going to school. Soft and glamorous in appearance cotton velveteens are being offered this season in more than forty different colors. For evening the darker hues are most popular, though one of the most striking dinner dresses of the season is being made in wine red velveteen.

Corduroys for Every Girl

But to get back to corduroys—for they're going to play an even more important part in college wardrobes than last year there are some absolute "musts" no girl should miss. For instance, to get away from the age-old combination of sweater and skirt there's a two-piece corduroy suit, kets and a front kickpleat skirt. It has a jacket with roomy pockets. There'll be a greater swing toward slack suits for picnics and lounging around the dormitories.

Slacks Do Double Duty

In the same colors as the suit ensemble there's a slack suit which is ideal for general knock-about wear. Some of these corduroy slack suits are made so that they can play double rôle of slack suit and lounging pajamas!

There's nothing too good that can be said about the new cravenned cotton gabardine rain-coats. Smart in line, these new coats are a real between-class crory whether it's fair weather or foul.

These new cottons are going to be the rage of every campus in the country.
