STATE COLLEGE ANSWERS TIMELY FARM QUESTIONS

Question: Is consumption of poultry meat increasing or decreasing in the United States?
Answer: W. G. Andrews, extension poultry specialist at State College, says consumption is increasing. During 1949, he says, the average American will eat about 25.2 pounds of poultry meat as compared with an average of 17.9 pounds during the years 1933-39. Poultrymen believe that consumption may rise as high as 40 pounds by 1960. Turkey meat is also appearing on the family menu more often. For the 1935-39 period 2 1/2 pounds was the average amount of turkey meat eaten per person. In 1949 the average will be 4.5 pounds, with a 1960 goal of eight pounds per person. Mr. Andrews also points out that about 55,000 turkeys are raised in the world every day, and there is an ever-increasing need for more food. He expects the demand for poultry products to remain good for many years to come.

Question: What is multiple crop insurance.
Answer: It is a plan whereby a farmer may obtain protection of his investment in more than one crop on the same farm. Like the single-crop plan, it covers only the grower's actual investment in his crop, and coverage and rates are based on areas of similar productivity and risk, not on individual farms. County committees screen out poor risks—irresponsible farms or those who follow poor practices. Except for tobacco, where the value of the product cannot be determined accurately until the crop is cured, crop insurance is limited to the period when the insured commodity is in the field. Tobacco is covered also while in the barn being prepared for market.

The multiple-crop plan is being tried this year in Perquimans County, North Carolina. Congress has authorized the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation to expand the program to 50 counties (at least one in each State) in 1950, and to add 25 counties each year through 1953.

STATE COLLEGE HINTS TO FARM HOMEMAKERS

Old felt hats often are discarded just because they look dingy or battered or have gone out of style. Yet clothing specialists say that wool or fur felt is easy to clean, press, re-block or remodel—or to use in making bedroom slippers, children's headwear, handbags, belts, mittens or other useful and decorative articles.

To remove dust and brighten felt, first brush with a stiff brush or very fine sandpaper, then sponge with dry cleaning fluid. Steaming makes felt easy to mold to the size and shape desired. To press, cover felt with a press cloth and use a warm iron. Handle felt gently when damp, the specialists caution, because it is pressed together, not woven, and therefore easily broken or pulled apart.

Many an excellent homemaker falls down on the job when it comes to caring for her pillows. Are you shirking on that score? Pillows are filled with a variety of materials. The most common fillings are down and various types of feathers. Six ounce ticking is considered standard pillow covering. For durability it should be closely woven and tightly sewed so the filling cannot work out. Ticking nowadays is very attractive in color and design.

Pillows should be aired at least once a month. Just put them near an open window. Even well protected pillows get dusty so treat them to a day on the line every few months. Hang them by two corners, in the shade. Change corners every once in a while. A good wind will do the rest.

S. J. Hodges, Jr., Negro agronomy specialist for the State College Extension Service, this week announced the 1950 agricultural speaking contest for Negro high school students in North Carolina.

The contest, sponsored by the North Carolina Bankers Association, will be open to students in 16 counties. Those in Edgecombe, Nash, Northampton, and Wilson will hold their group finals in Rocky Mount and those in Chatham, Durham, Granville, Franklin, Harnett, Johnston, Orange, Person, Vance, Wake, and Warren will hold their finals in Raleigh. Winners from the two groups will compete for top State honors at A. & T. College, Greensboro, on March 22.

As in the contest for white students, the subject will be "The Social Aspects of Soil Aesthetics," and the three top State prizes will be $400, $100, and $50, all in bonds. Group prizes will be $50 and $25, also in bonds.

Students in grades nine to 12 are eligible to compete. Each contestant must attend a supervised tour to observe the effects of poor land management

SPEAKER — Dr. Fred D. Sessoms, above, well known physician of Washington, Ga., will be the Founder's Day Speaker at Shaw University Friday, November 18th. The services, celebrating the 84th anniversary of the institution, will be held Friday morning at 11 o'clock in the University Church.

High Point Man Serves With U. S. Army In Japan

Private Robert L. Strickland of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Douglas Strickland of 839 Hoover Street, High Point, North Carolina, is a member of the 24th Infantry Regiment, now stationed at Gilfu, Japan. The 24th Infantry (Tropic Lightning) Division, commanded by Major General William B. Keane.

Private Strickland entered the Army in December 1947, received his basic training at Fort Dix, New Jersey and departed for overseas duty in May 1948.

Florida Race Nurses Merge With State Group

The Florida State Association of Colored Graduate Nurses was granted full membership in the Florida Nurses Association at a meeting which was held October 22-26 in Sarasota, Florida. This action was taken with the feeling that there would be a duplication of efforts if two groups existed. The Negro association also succeeded in gaining membership on the Board of Directors of the Florida State Association. Dean Mary L. Carnegie, R. N. of the Florida A and M College who will serve in this capacity is the only member of her race to gain such a position in the South. Seven other states and the District of Columbia have refused Negro membership.

Speeches will be limited to 12 minutes in length. Hodges said the success of the contest in 1950 will determine whether the competition is to be expanded to include additional counties in 1951.

Bennett College Celebrates Seventy-Sixth Anniversary

GREENSBORO
 "If the greatest thing in the world is the human mind then the greatest business in the world is the training of that mind," said Dr. James R. Reynolds, Houston, Texas, speaking at Founder's Day exercises at Bennett College, Tuesday, November 1.

The occasion marked the college's seventy-sixth anniversary twenty-four years of which have been devoted exclusively to the education of young Negro women. Dr. Reynolds, one of the first schoolmasters of the race, graduated from Bennett in 1895.

Like the mind to God, the former college professor and dean of Wiley College said, "The mind conquers all things, yet itself remains unconquered. It reaches out to the beyond to something high like heaven, to something great like God."

Recalling the days following emancipation and the desperate need for educational training, Reynolds depicted the journey into the South of "godly men and women" who came to "suffer and to serve."
 "They came to bring hope," he declared, "carrying the Bible in one hand and the precious gift of learning in the other. The gift they brought obscured the hand of the giver."

Paying tribute to the pioneers who gave birth to the college, Reynolds who is familiarly known as the "Wizard of the South," said, "When Lyman Bennett gave his life in raising the first $10,000 for Bennett College he planted the seed of which the old Bennett was the bud. In 1926 when the school became a college for women the bud blossomed into flower."
 "The old Bennett did the yeoman service for your generation," he told the students, "and Mrs. Pfeiffer was the new Bennett's angel."

Admonishing the students never to accept defeat, he related the struggles of men and women like George W. Carver, Marion Anderson, President Jones and Ralph Bunche to achieve success. "Booker T. Washington stole the keys from the hand of destiny," he declared, "and made the prophets lie. You can do the same."
 "Robert E. Jones," he continued, "advocated placing Bennett under the auspices of the Methodist Church because he believed in the possibility of women. A Bennett graduate he was the first Negro bishop of the Methodist Church. You are living testimony today of the success of his belief. You are the lever by which we can raise the human race higher than it has ever been before, for the hand that rocks the cradle rules the world."

"Take up our quarrel with the foe," he pleaded, "to you youth we aged pass the torch; forever hold it high."

Preceding the address by Reynolds, who was introduced by President David D. Jones who presided, prayer and scripture were offered by the Rev. R. W. Winchester, Greensboro class of 1898 and the Rev. C. C. Scott, also of this city.

The Litany of Gratitude was led by Virginia Hentz, '50, White Plains, New York

Expressions of appreciation were offered by Regina Tanner, '50, Detroit, Michigan, for the student body; Oliver R. Pope, '50, Rocky Mount, dean of North Carolina secondary schools, for the graduates prior to 1926; Mrs. Margaret R. Logwood, '37, Greensboro, for the graduates since 1926, a pledge of $2,000; and R. D. Crockett, director of religious activities, for the faculty, a gift of $1,025.

President Jones in his remarks said, "This institution is indebted a thousand times to forces both known and unknown and often unheralded, and we are all aware of all the forces that have brought us to this happy hour. The students of long ago have us a rich heritage of devotion, simplicity and service."

Shaw University Will Honor Dr. H. M. Tupper In Founder's Day Rites November 18

RALEIGH
 Plans are being made now for the observance of the 84th anniversary of Shaw University at annual Founder's Day Exercises to be held Friday, November 18. Tribute will be paid at that time to the memory of the late Dr. Henry Martin Tupper, honorably discharged Union Army Veteran, who founded the school in 1865. A wreath will be placed on his grave in keeping with a custom of more than half a century.

The Founder's Day services will begin at 10:45 o'clock with grave-side ceremonies on the college campus. Laying of the traditional wreath on the grave of Dr. Tupper this year will be done by a student designated for the first time in a number of years as "Miss Shaw University." The annual exercises will be held at 11 o'clock in University Church.

The speaker, Dr. F. D. Sessoms, prominent physician of Washington, Ga., is a graduate of Leonard Medical School of Shaw University in the class of 1906. His early training was received at Roanoke Institute at Elizabeth City and at the Rich Square Institute in Rich Square.

Since completing his work at Shaw, Dr. Sessoms has taken post graduate courses at John Andrew Memorial Hospital, Tuskegee Institute, and has studied at other hospitals and clinics. He has been practicing medicine in Washington, Ga. for forty-three years.

Following the Founder's Day ceremonies, a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Shaw Alumni Association will be held. The session is scheduled for 1 o'clock. Dr. Max C. King of Franklinton is Chairman of the Executive Committee. Attorney William B. Raines of New York City is General Alumni Association President.
