

NAACP May Ask Virginia Court To Re-Hear Martinsville Case

By Mrs. Mable Powell
The Goodwill Club met March 12th, at 4 o'clock at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Pretty on Drew Street with the president, Mrs. Mamie Williams, presiding.

Our next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Callie Atwater on Martha Street, April 9th at 4 o'clock.
The W. B. Club met March 5 at the home of Mrs. Minnie Turner, 2233 Fayetteville Street, at 4 o'clock.

After the devotional period, business was carried out. The president gave a very interesting talk which was enjoyed by all. After the business was transacted, the hostess served a delicious repast.

Members who enjoyed the afternoon were: Mrs. Celestine Thompson, Mrs. Luna Robertson, Mrs. Anna Allen, Mrs. Roberta Edmunson, Mrs. Annie O'Neal, Mrs. Ida Davis, Mrs. Novella Crawford, our honored guest, Mrs. Ada Meeks.

The Virginia State Conference of branches of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People undertook the defense of the young men after investigation which revealed that they had not been given a fair and impartial trial.

The NAACP attorneys handling the appeal, in addition to Mr. Martin, are Oliver W. Hill and Spottswood W. Robinson III. All are of Richmond.

North Carolina Mutual Holds Annual Party For Employees

On Wednesday evening, March 8, 1950, the Annual Party for North Carolina Mutual Employees was held at the W. D. Hill Recreation Center on Fayetteville Street.

The party, an informal one, was planned as to assure a well rounded and wholesome good time for all, and those plans were tactfully carried out. The Steering Committee, headed by Mr. J. W. Goodloe, Office Manager, worked tirelessly before and during the affair with fun and merrymaking as the main issue.

The Hall was beautifully decorated and the music furnished by Frank Wright and his Orchestra made dancing very pleasant. The repast, buffet style, was delectable, and handled superbly under the direction of Mr. Robert Minor, Head Waiter.

Throughout the evening, there were interesting highlights to add to the festivities. Service Awards were presented by the President, Mr. C. C. Spaulding, Sr. and Mr. W. J. Kennedy, Jr., Vice-President and Secretary of the Company. Among those receiving awards were: Miss Sally Whitted, Mrs. Evelyn Rogers, Mr. John Davis, and Mr. G. W. Cox, Vice-President and Agency Director for thirty years of faithful service with the Mutual.

Prizes were awarded by County Agent J. A. Turner to the following women for exhibitions and project activities: General clothing exhibit — Mrs. Louise Goldston, Mrs. Lois Steadman, Mrs. Ludreelia Lee; canning records — Mrs. Sadie Horton, Mrs. Maude Bryant, Mrs. Bessie Taylor; Gardening — Mrs. Essie Rodgers, Mrs. E. V. Lee; Clothing — Levenia Wicker, Mrs. Beatrice Harris, Mrs. Oppie Jones; and project Leaders reports — Mrs. Mattie Paige, Mrs. Irene Nettles, Mrs. Gatha Lassiter, Mrs. Vallie Alston, Mrs. Roxie Small, and Mrs. Laura Lee.

Honors to past presidents were gifts from the county presented to retiring presidents by Miss G. M. Kyer, State Clothing and Home Management Specialist of A. and T. College.

The menu consisted of fruit cocktail, chicken a la king, St. Patrick's potatoes, buttered greens, celery, pickles, olives, marinated vegetable salad, ice cream, cake, mints, green punch and nuts.

And it might as well close shop and its delegates go home and await the end to ends.

Pittsboro Citizens Entertained At Annual Banquet

More than 300 Negro Home Demonstration women and their husbands attended their 3rd annual banquet in Horton High School lunchroom on Saturday evening, March 4.

Welcome was given by Mrs. Mamie Jones pinch hitting for absent toastmistress, Mrs. F. L. Ellis. Principal I. E. Taylor of Horton High School responded. Guest speaker R. N. Harris of Durham was introduced by J. W. Jeffries, Assistant Negro State Agent, and addressed the group on the subject of the influence of women upon important events of history.

Rockingham Farmer Adopts New Plans

Less tobacco acreage, and not more, may be the solution to the farming problems of Roosevelt Dixon, Negro farmer of Rockingham County, says T. D. Williamson, Negro county agent for the State College Extension Service.

When Dixon came to the county agent to discuss the possibility of obtaining more tobacco acreage, Williamson asked him how many persons there were in the family. The answer was: five old enough to do a certain amount of work, and four others too young to work.

Williamson also asked how many milk cows the family had. The answer was none. Further questioning disclosed that the family had very little poultry, no permanent pastures, and no year-round garden.

The 140-acre farm now has a tobacco allotment of 7.5 acres. The county agent thinks that with thorough planning, Dixon may desire to cut down on this allotment rather than raise it.

After talking the matter over with the county agent, Dixon decided to give more attention to gardening, pastures, dairy animals, and swine. Only after doing this will he consider asking for an increase in his tobacco acreage.

Timely Farm Question

QUESTION: What hybrid corn variety is best adapted to my area of the State?

ANSWER: Recommendations on what hybrid corn varieties should be grown in various sections of North Carolina are given in a new leaflet published this week by the State College Extension Service. The publication, consisting of a single sheet printed on both sides, was prepared by the extension agronomy department. Copies may be obtained free from the local county agent or by writing the Agricultural Editor, State College Station, Raleigh. On one side of the leaflet, a map of the State is subdivided into eight geographical areas and recommended hybrids for each area are listed. The other side of the sheet is devoted to a general description of the recommended varieties.

Hampton Pirates Take Inventory At Season's End

HAMPTON, VA. Completing their season at the 500 mark after splitting even in a two-game northern trip, Hampton Institute's Pirates look to better basketball prospects next year with most of the team due back in the fold.

Highlight of the last road trip was a game with Brown University, which leaped to a 41-19 lead at the half but was outscored by the Pirates in the second stanza as the Ivy League collegians won, 71-54. Captain Gus Heningburg flipped in 18 points for the visitors to lead the scoring, and Walt Pattillo had 10 for Buck Neilson's men. Mahoney, the Brown captain, scored 17. Hampton President Alonzo G. Moron, a Brown alumnus, was among the spectators.

Brown leaped to a 20-6 lead as neither team committed a personal foul in the first ten minutes of the interracial contest. In the second half, however, the going was normally rough.

In a Roxbury, Massachusetts, game sponsored by the Hampton Alumni of the area, the Pirates took their 11th victory of the season against as many losses, trouncing Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, 72-53.
