Case Won't Test Law

UNC Case May Come In August

The suit filed by Harold T. Epps and seven other North Carolina College Law School students seeking admission to the Law School at the University of North Carolina will not test the constitutionality of a State statute, as was previously planned.

Hearings in the local public schools discrimination suit neared an end here this week as Federal Judge Johnson J. Hayes and representatives of both sides in the case were scheduled to visit the city's schools.

Attorneys for the North Carolina College students had planned to file a motion in Federal Court asking that original complaint be amended so as to charge that the law permitting the establishment of professional schools at N. C. C. as the situation warrants is unconstitutional.

Thurgood Marshall, special counsel for the NAACP, and one of the attorneys for the complainants in the litigation told the court "we prefer to leave the pleadings as they are."

Marshall told Judge Hayes that there is no question of constitutionality involved in the case since there is no law which prohibits Negroes from attending the University Law School.

The hearings in the case will probably come in mid-August. Judge Hayes announced, however, that he would have to release the date later.

Leaders Ask Solons To 'OK' Hastie

New York — Alarmed by the Senate Judiciary Committee's repeated postponements and long delay in reporting favorably to the Senate for confirmation of nomination of Judge William H. Hastie to the Circuit Court of Appeals, seven Negro leaders of national civic, professional and church groups this week joined in sending a telegram to Senator Pat McCarran, committee chairman, urging "speedy action."

Affirming their confidence in Judge Hastie on the basis of his distinguished record of public service, signers of the telegram offered to appear before the committee to give any additional testimony and evidence needed.

Judge Hastie was nominated by President Truman and given a recess appointment last October to the Third Circuit Court of Appeals sitting in Philadelphia. Several other judges nominated at the same time, and since, have already been confirmed by the Senate.

Train Plows Into Car As It Stalls

Denmark, S. C. — An automobile carrying five people pulled up to a railroad crossing here last Sunday, started across the tracks, stalled, then crashed.

A fast, northbound Seaboard Airline train plowed into the automobile, demolishing it completely.

An eyewitness of the wreck said that three of the five persons riding in the auto were dead when he arrived on the scene, and the other two died before they reached a hospital.

B. F. Gilliam of Orangeburg said that the northbound train slammed into the car as it stalled on the tracks. The auto was completely demolished.

Fuel from the smashed auto was sprayed against the Diesel units, and they caught fire. Firemen from nearby Orangeburg had to be rushed had to be replaced before the flames, but the locomotive Seaboard Railway Train could continue.

Junior Washington, 20; Stann Downing, 28; and Albert Hightower, 18, were killed instantly by the collision. Sig Nimmons, 45, and his daughter, Bertha Lou, 13, died shortly after the crash.

Motion To Stop Talks Fails Again

Special to the TIMES

Washington — While American troops, Negro and white, were dying in far-off Korea to keep that country safe for democracy, a measure to stop economic discrimination in this country was killed by a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats.

The Senate killed the President's Fair Employment Practices bill for the second time this year refusing to limit debate on the bill.

For the second time in two months, a combination of Republicans and Administration Democrats failed to muster the 64 votes required by the Senate's antifilibuster rule to shut off debate.

Another victory for the Southern Democrats was chalked up in the Senate in their never-say-die battle to kill by filibuster or threat of filibuster the legislation which is the keystone of President Truman's civil rights program and which would provide economic equality for the millions in the minority groups.

Thus the last chance for passage of the bill was lost this week as Administration leaders in the Senate stated that they had no plans for another try this year at passage of the bill to prohibit racial and religious discrimination in employment.

Democratic Senate leader Scott Lucas, Illinois, who brought the motion for the vote to limit debate, argued in vain for passage of the bill which, he said, would demonstrate to the world that the United States intends to stop economic discrimination.

Sen. Olin D. Johnson, Democrat of South Carolina, fresh from his victory over avowed States' Rights J. Strom Thurmond in that State's primary for the U. S. Senate, joined the "rebels" in voting against limiting debate.

The petition for cloture was filed Monday by Lucas along with 16 Democrats and 27 Republicans.

If his confirmation is held up much longer, his appointment will automatically be rejected by the Senate.

MASON-DIXON LINE MOVES UP

Maine Has "Dixiecrat"

Augusta, Me. — The Mason Dixon line was stretched all the way up here to the country's northernmost state in the east this week when a "Dixiecrat" was certified for the gubernatorial election slated for September.

A "States Right" Democrat was nominated by petition for the election for governor to be held September 11.

The "Dixiecrat" is Leland B. Currier of Litchfield. He has lost three times in Democratic primaries. Currier terms himself a "Maine Dixiecrat."

Currier got 38 more signature than required to have his name placed on the ballot in the September election. The state election division certified 1,038 signatures which Currier filed this week.

Just so he can get into "the swing of things," Currier stated that he planned to visit South Carolina, bastion of the Southern States' Rights Movement. He intends to confer with Dixiecrat chieftain J. Strom Thurmond, also governor of the Palmetto State.

Currier's entry into the Maine gubernatorial race enlargens the field to three candidates. On the September 11 ballot will be Earl S. Grant, (D) of Portland, who defeated Currier in the June 19 primary; and incumbent Governor Frederick G. Payne, (R).

Daniels Cousins Get New Trial

Raleigh — Two youths who were awaiting execution in the death house at Central Prison here were given a new lease on life this week.

The Daniels Cousins, Bennie and Lloyd Ray, convicted of murdering a taxicab driver in Greenville and sentenced to the gas chamber, were freed from the death house on a writ of habeas corpus and given the right to a new trial.

The issuance of the habeas corpus writ and the decision for the new trial was made by Federal District Judge Don Gilliam in a hearing last Friday.

Judge Gilliam issued the writ of habeas corpus and ordered the new trial on the basis of the defense contention that Negroes were unlawfully excluded from jury service in Pitt County and that the confessions used in convicting the Daniels cousins were gotten from them by force.

In the first trial in which the Daniels cousins were convicted and sentenced to death, the defense pointed out, several pieces of evidence at the scene of the crime which tended to point the finger of guilt away from the Daniels were overlooked.

Handling the defense for the Daniels cousins are Attorney Herman L. Taylor of Raleigh. He is assisted by the law firm of Rogge, Fabricant, Gordan and Goldman of New York. O. John Rogge, senior member of the law firm, is former U. S. Assistant Attorney General.

The State is represented by Assistant Attorney General Ralph Moody and Attorney Brogden, counsel for the State Highway Commission.

'Con' Racket Still Going

Los Angeles — Classic confidence games, some of them so old the whiskers are white, are still being employed to fleece the gullible public, police reports show.

The "Pigeon drop," "smack racket," and "charity bunco" continue to find easy victims even though they have been used hundreds of times before by unscrupulous confidence men, preying upon anxious strangers.

Well did Barnum say, "there is a sucker born every minute of the day."
